ONE HOME RAZED: SECOND DAMAGED

Dillon Beach resident Frank Martin shoots water on the remains of his house at 8 Ocean View as his wife views the site. Fire today razed the Martin home and extensively damaged the adjacent house of Louis Gerkin at 6 Ocean View (rear). Neither home was occupied when the Martin house was engulfed in flames about 4 a.m. The Marin County Fire Department sent five trucks to the blaze. The Martins estimated loss of the one-bedroom rental unit at $13,000 to the house and $1,000 to the contents. No estimate was available on damage to the Gerkin house.

Key Viet Pass Is Opened

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied soldiers opened the vital An Khe pass along east-west Highway 19 in the Central Highlands today, temporarily spoiling a Communist attempt to cut the country in half. However, South Vietnamese troops lost another base on north-south Highway 1, 40 miles away and were pushed back another mile at the city of Kontum.

Closer to Saigon, six Americans were believed killed when North Vietnamese ground fire blew up their C130 transport plane. The men were trying to drop supplies to South Vietnamese forces at An Loc, 60 miles north of the capital.

In Cambodia, Communist guerrillas disguised as government troops captured two freelance journalists and their Cambodian driver only 30 miles from Phnom Penh. One of the men—Terry Reynolds, 30, of Grainfield, Kan. — and the driver were on assignment for United Press International. The third man was identified as Alan Hirons, 24, of Melbourne, Australia.

The apparent Communist strategy in the Central Highlands is to seize Kontum city, almost 300 miles north of Saigon, then move 30 miles south and seize the city of Pleiku.

From there, North Vietnamese troops could move east on Highway 19 and link up with Communist troops now trying to seize control on the coast near Qui Nhon, thus cutting the country in two.

President Nguyen Van Thieu reportedly ordered a counterattack near Kontum and told his troops to recapture Tan Canh base 25 miles north of the city. A Communist force of 4,000 men backed by tanks was reportedly advancing on the city.

South Korean infantrymen opened the An Khe pass—which lies approximately half way between Kontum-Pleiku and Qui Nhon—after a 16-day battle. They said they killed 705 Communists and lost 51 of their own men in the fight.

The Communists would have to recapture the pass to link up with their troops, on the east and west and sever the country.

A similar attempt to cut South Vietnam was made in 1965 but it was stopped by large numbers of American troops.

U.S. airpower in South Vietnam has doubled since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30, but there are less than 5,000 ground combat troops still in the country, and President Nixon said he does not plan to send more into the country.

Despite the loss of An Khe pass, Communists seized artillery base Salem 30 miles north of Qui Nhon and pushed South Vietnamese defenders back another mile north of Kontum.

The Communists are now battling South Vietnamese at the village of Vo Dinh only 11 miles from Kontum, a provincial capital.

Thieu wants to set up a defense line north and northwest of the city to keep the Communists from overruning Kontum and seizing Pleiku.

The North Vietnamese earlier outflanked a string of eight bases set up to defend Kontum.

On the coast, artillery base Salem fell after 25 hours of fighting. Military sources said the 150-200 South Vietnamese "stood and fought and were overrun." It is only seven miles south of Hoai An, a district

Old Courthouse Sale Approved By Supervisors

San Rafael Council To Consider Agreement At Monday Meeting

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement to sell the old county courthouse site in San Rafael to the city for $650,000. (Other supervisors stories, page 9.)

The agreement, approved on a 4-1 vote with Supervisor Michael Wornum dissenting, will be considered Monday by the San Rafael City Council.

If it accepts, the city will have six months to come up with the $650,000 or forfeit $10,000 to the county. It must also be in the process of working on a development plan by July 25 with approval not later than Oct. 25.

The agreement requires that 40 per cent of the downtown site be left in open space with about half that fronting on Fourth Street.

Hanging in the wings throughout the months of negotiations has been a $650,000 offer from McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento which proposes a six to eight-story office building, three-story building and covered parking on the site.

The firm, represented yesterday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi, said it agreed with the sale conditions which it will assume if it acquires the property from the city.

Supervisor Wornum, in voting against the sale, said he opposed the action since under McKeon's proposal the Fourth Street frontage would be partially blocked by the eight-story building.

He proposed setting an 85-foot setback along Fourth Street but the idea was rejected as unreasonable by other supervisors.

The board's action also was protested by Elizabeth Falk of San Rafael who said the agreement did not insure that the open space would remain available for public use.

With the exception of Wornum, supervisors agreed that they had never intended for the property to be kept as a public park if privately developed.

Mrs. Falk was joined by Joan Seminario of Marin Alternative in urging that the agreement be amended to provide that the Fourth Street frontage be kept open for public use.

Attorney Bianchi said his client intends to keep the land available but would not agree to be bound legally.

"We want the right to complain about the use of land just as any other private landowner would," he said. "We want the right to complain if the Hells Angels decide to hold their regional, semiannual pageant on our front yard," he added as the room erupted in laughter.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who noted the site has been a white elephant for seven years, said he felt it was "wonderful that someone was willing to develop it." He added that while the $650,000 was $100,000 less than the original asking price, tha original figure was "arbitarily" selected to start negotiations.

On a motion by Supervisor John F. McInnis, who has been involved in trying to sell the property for years, the board approved the agreement with Wornum dissenting.

Prices Tie Up Salmon Fishing

Commercial salmon fishermen up and down the Pacific Coast, including numerous skippers in Sausalito, have stayed in port since the season's opening April 15 in a dispute over prices.

The tieup has, in turn, forced retailers to other markets, driving up store prices in some cases.

About 1,000 boats, including some 50 moored in Sausalito, are affected.

Zeke Grader, operator of Ocean Trader, a Sausalito seafood wholesaler, said today the fishermen have refused to leave port until buyers offer a higher price for a catch.

Local fishermen are asking 97 cents a pound for large king salmon (12 pounds and above), 77 cents for a medium king (at least eight pounds) and 67 cents for a small king (below eight pounds.) Buyers are offering 80-60-50 cents, respectively.

Said an East Bay skipper, "Last year the markets informed us that salmon was being forced into the gourmet range of foods because of high costs and so forced us to take a 30 per cent reduction in top proce from $105 a pound to 76 cents. "The 50-60-80 they are offering just doesn't take up the slack of that drop."

The fisherman, who are not organized into a union, refused last year to fish for three weeks in a similar dispute.

Walter Milani, manager of Greenbrae Fish and Poultry in the Bon Air Shopping Center, said he had no fresh salmon last week, but this week obtained some from Alaska. Where the normal price in season is $1.19 to $1.29 per pound, salmon now sells from his market at between $1.99 and $239 a pound, Milani said.

Rick Reynolds, operator of Del Reeno's Meat, Fish and Poultry on Fourth Street, San Rafael, said he also has obtained salmon from out of the area but that it hasn't affected the price much.

Navy Is Spurning Oil Probe

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — The U.S. Navy, facing prosecution for spilling oil in San Francisco Bay, stymied state officials yesterday by classifying its evidence and spurning subpoenas to testify at a hearing on the spill.

The hearing by the Regional Water Quality Control Board had been set at 2:15 p.m. in the Alameda County Public Works Building, but was scratched for at least a month after the Navy said the U.S. attorney's office in San Francisco had advised the Navy not to testify. (Other water quality control stories, page 10.)

Without evidence or Navy witnesses, there could be no hearing. And without the hearing, the board cannot procede with prosecution through the attorney general's office.

The Navy could be fined up to $6,000-a day in a court order under a 1971 state law authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. It would be the first case under the new state law.

The regional board's legal adviser, William R. Attwater, told the Independent-Journal he will attempt to get a written statement from the Navy on the spill before the board's May 23 hearing.

According to the board's staff, the aircraft carrier Midway spilled approximately 3,000 gallons of bunker oil while berthed on March 12 at Alameda Naval Air Station. The persons responsible for the spill, the staff reported, are Capt. William Harris, commanding officer of the Midway, and Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee.

Court Schedules Bolinas Director

A director of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District was to be arraigned today in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of malicious mischief stemming from March 24 vandalism in Bolinas.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter W. Evans said Gregory Hewlett, 31, is charged with smahing four windows at the Seashore Realty on Brighton Avenue and slashing seven tires on two autos belonging to William L. Creitz, secretary of the Bolinas Property Owners Association.

Evans indicated the property damage was the result of conflict between property owners and the utility district board, four of whose members came to office last November in an election and recall which ousted two incumbents.

At its first meeting the new utility board imposed an indefinite moratorium on new water connections in the district, a move opposed by area land owners.

And in January the board increased water charges, particulary for larger users, and also levied sewer charges against downtown property. A group of Bolinas businessmen have filed suit against the district in Marin Superior Court to invalidate the new rates and charges, claiming they will cause serious financial hardships for many small businessmen.

Another dispute in the community centers around a waste disposal system now being planned for the area. Property owners would like to see a larger system than that now envisioned by the utility district board which is seeking to limit population by keeping the system small.

Evans said Hewlett is charged with causing damages totaling $1,400 in the two incidents in the evening hours of March 24.

The criminal charges were brought at the request of Creitz, George F. West, owner of the realty firm, and Charles L. Pepper who owns the building where seashore realty is located.

Hewlett, a former teacher's aide who lists his occupation as "volunteer worker," was elected to the board November 2 in an election in which directors Sherman A. Smith and Edwin O. Cadogan were recalled from office.

Senate To Question Kleindienst Further

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Judiciary Committee voted today to recall Richard G. Kleindienst to give further testimony about his role in settlement of the controversial antitrust suit against ITT, which has snagged his confirmation to be attorney general.

Committee Chairman James O. Eastland of Mississippi said Kleindienst would be summoned for another round of questioning at 10:30 a.m. EST tomorrow.

Eastland added that the committee agreed to vote on Kleindienst's nomination no later than 5 p.m. EST tomorrow.

Eastland described the committee action as a "compromise" between the Republicans backing Kleindienst and Democrats who claim his role in the ITT dealings makes him unfit for the Cabinet post.

He said Kleindienst was recalled to give testimony on information contained in a letter to the committee from White House aide Peter Flanigan.

Flanigan informed the committee he had discussed settlement of the antitrust case with ITT director Felix Rohatyn, and subsequently informed Kleindienst of that conversation.

Kleindienst had testified that he did not remember discussing the case with Flanigan.

The confirmation hearings on Kleinjienst already have gone on for six weeks.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., proposed after recipt of the Flanigan letter that nine more witnesses be called to testify.

The committee previously approved the nomination, but reopened its hearings six weeks ago after columnist Jack Anderson published charges that there might be a link between an ITT pledge to help underwrite the Republican national convention and government settlement of an antitrust suit seeking to stop the merger of ITT and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

Kleindienst was linked to some of the discussions surrounding settlement of the antitrust case, and when the ITT matter was published he asked that the hearings be resumed to clear up any misunderstandings surrounding his role.

Nixon's Paris Policy, Moscow Visit Linked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's offer to resume the Paris peace talks, coming barely 24 hours before tonight's address to the nation on more troop withdrawals from Vietnam, provided more evidence today that Nixon has decided not to let escalation of the war torpedo his trip to Moscow next month.

The offer, made simultaneously in Washington and Saigon last night, followed Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger's secret weekend trip to Moscow. And in saying he was willing to resume peace talks—provided the Communists made their current offensive and how to end it the No. 1 topic—Nixon appeared to be trying to reassure both the Kremlin and the American public that what he really wants is less, not more, war.

Tonight's 7 p.m. PST radio and TV address was expected to contain an announcement that U.S. troop strength in Vietnam will be down to 69,000 by May 1, as Nixon had promised. It was in excess of 500,000 when he took office more than three years ago.

The future pace of troop with-

Committee Kills State Fair Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation abolishing the California State Fair and requiring the state to sell Cal Expo has been defeated by the Assembly Efficiency and Cost Control Committee.

Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Garden Grove, the author, told the committee the fair should be abolished because it is not financially self-sufficient.

LBJ Recuperating

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's condition was reported unchanged Tuesday. He is recuperating in Brooke Army Medical Center from a heart attack he suffered April 7.

Viet Peace Talks Will Be Resumed Tomorrow

PARIS (UPI)—All four sides agreed today to resume the Paris talks on Vietnam tomorrow, and Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator, indicated the North Vietnamese were also ready to resume scret talks with the United States.

Thuy conferred for 30 minutes with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, who had requested the United States to return, and then told newsmen that Hanoi's special emissary, Le Duc Tho, could return to Paris "at any time" now that the regular talks are resuming.

Thuy's statement went further than an earlier one by deputy Hanoi negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy who indicated the secret talks would not resume unless the United States halted its bombing of North Vietnam.

Tho, seventh-ranked member of the Hanoi Politburo, is special adviser to the Hanoi negotiation and was the man who held 13 secret meetings with U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger. Tho returned to to Hanoi when the talks ended fruitlessly.

Thuy made no mention of his previous demands for a complete halt to the raids over North Vietnam although Vy did. The talks have been suspended since March 23 when President Nixon said they were being used only as a Communist propaganda forum.

"Our leader, M. Xuan Thuy, has often said that if the Kleber Avenue negotiations resume with the participation of the United States, and if the latter stop its bombing of North Vietnam, M.Le Duc Tho might return to Paris (from Hanoi) for

Humphrey, McGovern Big Guns Now

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern took charge today as the chief contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination by winning the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries and all but eliminating Sen. Edmund S. Muskie as a serious challenger.

Between them, Humphrey and McGovern whipsawed Muskie in the fifth and sixth primaries of the 1972 election year. Humphrey boomed through on the labor and black vote in Pennsylvania. McGovern parlayed antiwar sentiment and economic worries into victory in Massachusetts.

McGovern also forged ahead of Muskie in the race for Democratic convention delegates. He now has 235 to Muskie's 138. Humphrey is in 3rd place with 78.

Muskie was not only severely beaten by McGovern in Massachusetts, he was involved in a close fight for third place in Pennsylvania and fell far short of picking up the number of convention delegates he was banking on.

Despite strong talk of staying in the primaries to the end, Muskie, once an odds-on favorite for the nomination, now may have to look to a deadlocked convention as his best chance to become President Nixon's challenger in November.

He may even come under strong pressure from big state politicians, who have supported him, to get out of the primaries and hope the party will turn to the Maine Senator as the only candidate who can unite the Democrats in the fall.

Although both McGovern and Humphrey face dangerous hurdles in the remaining primaries, they seemed headed for a showdown in California's winner-take-all election June 6.

As for Muskie, he refused to give up despite the grim news flashed to his Philadelphia campaign headquarters as the votes rolled in, showing Humphrey with an unbeatable lead in Pennsylvania and McGovern with an overwhelming edge in Massachusetts. In addition, Muskie appeared headed for fourth spot in Pennsylvania, behind McGovern and Gov. George C. Wallace.

In a conference call to his campaign workers in Boston, the senator pleaded: "Run with me, stay with me" and pledged to go on to the Ohio, California and New York primaries and then to the convention itself.

"The challenge won't be decided until we decide (at Miami Beach)," Muskie said. "It's either going to be Ed Muskie or he (the eventual winner) is going to have a helluva time taking it away." He didn't say who might win if he didn't.

Addressing his jubilant campaign workers, McGovern declared:

"This is victory for peace, not war. This is a victory for peace and love, not fear and division; for truth and candor rather than deception and manipulation. We are going to make this the great and good country that we know it can be."

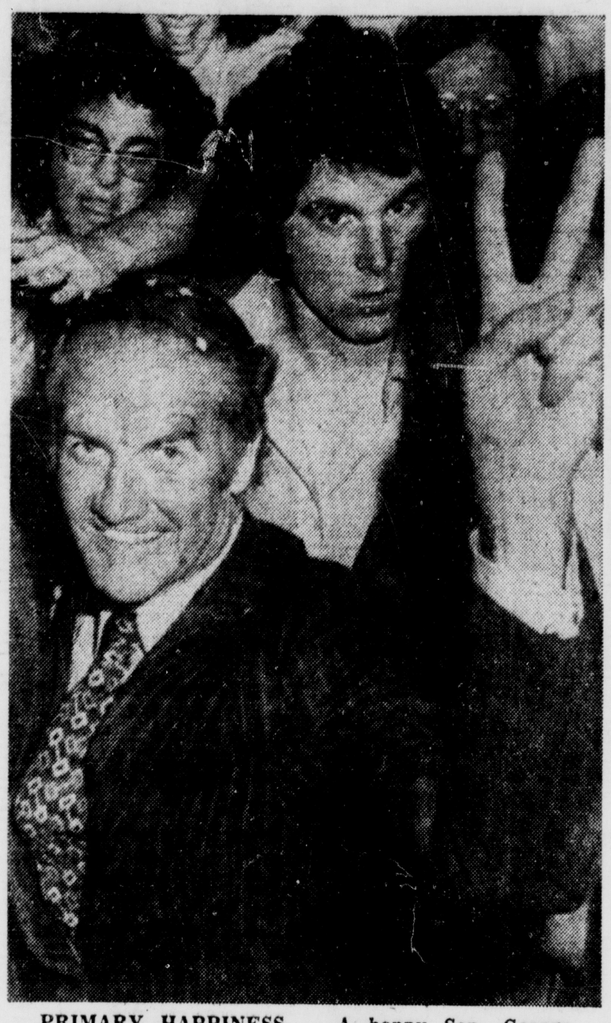
Humphrey, the "happy warrior," who had never scored a primary win since he first went after the presidency in 1960, broke through solidly in Pennsylvania, trouncing Muskie, McGovern, Wallace and Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

He called it "a wonderful uplift for me—the sort of thing we had hoped for. I really believe it will give us the momentum to go on."

Wallace, although he campaigned neither in Pennsylvania nor Massachusetts except for hit-and-run missions, Wallace showed that he has a reservoir of support even when it is not actively encouraged.

And McGovern, the 49-year old prairie populist disregarded as little more than a fringe candidate until he won in Wisconsin three weeks ago, beat Muskie in a field of 12 by a better than 2-1 margin in Massachusetts.

The next big test comes next week in Ohio where all the leading candidates will be competing for that state's 153 delegates — and in Indiana where Humphrey and Wallace are in a head-to-head race.



PRIMARY HAPPINESS — A happy Sen. George McGovern gave a victory sign in Boston last night as he made his way through a crowd at the Statler-Hilton Hotel after Massachussetts' Democratic voters overwhelmingly picked him as their presidential candidate.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Endorse Kennedy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Delegates to the United Auto Workers/convention Tuesday overwhelmingly endorsed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for the Democratic presidential nomination if he decides to seek it.

However, Kennedy told reporters after the straw vote, "My position is unchanged. I won't be a candidate for '72, even if there is a draft movement."

DDT Boon Or Bane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acknowledging that DDT is both boon and bane, a federal hearing examiner has ruled that the pesticide does more good than harm and should not be banned.

The recommendation by examiner Edmund M. Sweeney went to William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ruckelshaus must rule by June 15 whether DDT should be banned.

B.A. Degree Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A committee of the State College Trustees decided Tuesday to recommend a study to re-evaluate the traditional four-year course of study leading to a bachelor's degree.

The B.A. "has come to signify a certain number of hours of lecture and laboratory in a prescribed pattern, but in many instances without regard to any overall unity of knowledge or broad evaluation to determine proficiency," said W. B. Langsdorf, vice chancellor for academic affairs.

He said it was now appropriate "to award the degree for achievement at a certain level without undue regard to the time or courses completed.

Religious Longevity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Seventh Day Adventists, who don't drink or smoke and eat less meat than the average American, are rewarded with six additional years of life, a heart researcher reported today.

Dr. Richard T. Walden, of the Loma Linda University Medical School, said a 10-year study of California Adventists showed they suffered their first heart attacks a full decade later than most Americans and lived longer.

The 1.75 million members of the faith don't drink or smoke, use coffee and tea sparingly, eat much less meat than the national average, exercise regularly and avoid overweight, he said.

New IRA Tactic

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The wounding yesterday of seven soldiers in Belfast and Londonderry by snipers reflects a new tactic on the part of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), a security source said today.

"In the past, we had gunmen who fired off a burst from a machine gun from a corner and then disappeared," the source said. "Now the stress is on high velocity rifles, firing from a good position, and making every bullet count."

Three of the soldiers were hit in Belfast's Roman Catholic Lower Falls area, three in the city's Andersontown district and one in Londonderry.

Talk Is Set On Alcoholism

A speech on alcoholism and the state's education and prevention programs — illustrated by television messages — will be given at 1 p.m. May 5.

Leona Kent, education-information officer of the state Rehabilitation Department, will address a combined meeting of the Alcohol Information Committee of Marin Institute, the Community Planning Group for Drug and Alcohol Problems and school nurses in the Blue Room of Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. Kent is on the faculty of University of Arizona and American River College and is currently lecturing at University of Southern California.

March Food Cost Down 4 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The retail cost of a typical market basket of food dropped 0.4 per cent last month, ending a four-month surge that boosted prices 4.3 per cent from last October through February, the Agriculture Department said today.

Even with the decline, the market basket cost was still second highest on record —5.4 per cent above March of 1971. Average beef prices for March were unchanged at the record February level, but pork went down.

One official said the extent of the actual downturn may be greater than the report showed. The department's surveys probably did not catch all the meat price declines which came in the last week of March after Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called in food chain leaders to try to talk them into lowering prices, the spokesman said.

The February-to-March decline in average retail food costs came largely because of a 2.5 per cent drop in farm prices which was partly offset by an increase in the farm-to-retail price spread, the department said in its monthly report on "Price Spreads for Farm Foods".

Member Of Hospital Board Quits

Gwendolyn M. Campion resigned from the Marin Hospital District board last night, after serving since 1965.

Dr. Campion, a physician who is not now practicing, resigned from the board for "personal reasons," effective May 24, according to hospital administrator Ray K. Bollinger.

Board president George H. Folsom asked that any resident in the district interested in serving on the board submit a resume to Bollinger before the board's next meeting, May 23. He said the board would review applications that night, and possibly choose a successor to Dr. Campion.

Folsom also asked that interested residents plan to attend that meeting.

The appointee will fill out Dr. Campion's term, which ends Dec. 13, 1972. She was elected to the board in November, 1964 and reelected in 1968.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

FIRE — Set a meeting for an undetermined date next week for Folsom, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and County Administrator John F. Barrows to discuss fire protection for its buildings.

RAISES — Referred to its personnel committee and legal counsel a request for retroactive raises from Stationary Engineers Union local 39. The request was received yesterday by the board and no further details were available today.

REPRESENTATION — Asked for a recommendation from the State Conciliation Service on a request by the Association of Federal, State, County and Municipal Employees to represent the stall of the district's mental health center.

ADVICE — Rejected a reques by the Marin Psychiatric Society for a role in selecting a director of in-patient psychiatric services, saying the board would make the appointment.

UTILITIES — Referred to its legal counsel a proposal from the National Utility Service to review the districts use of utility Service to review the districts use of utilities for possible savings.

BAD DEBTS — Wrote off $20,500.07 in bad debts for January through March, .82 per cent of its income of $2,496,393.38, according to Bollinger.

capital captured by the Viet Cong last week.

Salem is on Highway 1, the major north-south Highway running from Saigon to Hanoi. Communists have also made several attempts to cut the highway farther north in Quang Tri province.

Military sources said 54 Communists were killed in a fight near Cu Chi 24 miles northwest of Saigon, Tuesday. It was the closest major battle to the city in the current offensive.

UPI correspondent Leon Daniel reported from Highway 13 north of the capital that South Vietnamese relief forces have been pinned down 28 miles from Saigon.

He said two South Vietnamese battalions were within 200 yards of each other but unable to link up because of stiff Communist resistance.

Northwest of Saigon, South Vietnamese A37 fighter-bombers reportedly destroyed four of 10 Communist tanks operating in the Parrot's Beak area on the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border.

B52 bombers dropped an estimated 1,200 tons of explosive over Kontum province in 14 missions, flew five missions near An Loc and also bombed targets in Cambodia and Laos for the first time in three days.

Hearing Halted On Open Space

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee chairman, declaring "two members can't act on this," halted a hearing Tuesday on a controversial $100 million open space program.

Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, cut short the hearing when he noted five of the seven members of the Planning and Land Use Committee were not present.

The hearing, attended by about 35 persons, was recessed for 10 minutes while an attempt was made to bring other committee members to the hearing room.

When only one other member appeared, Priolo adjourned the hearing.

Driver Accused Of Drinking and Drugs

Gene Richard Glasscock, 27, of Hermosa Beach was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on charges of felony possession of marijuana and drunk driving.

Glasscock, who was arrested by the highway patrol March 30, is to be arraigned May 8.

Apollo Crew Playing Down Big Rock Find

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Apollo 16 commander John W. Young told eager scientists today to avoid jumping to conclusions on what the astronauts found in the moon's highlands and to wait until the rocks get back.

"It's too soon to be making any major conclusions about the region," Young told ground communicator Tony England. "It just ain't good science."

Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke were on target for a parachute landing at 2:45 p.m. EST Thursday in the Pacific Ocean, 1,550 miles south of Hawaii.

England, an astronaut who also is a geophysicist, told the astronauts scientists have changed their ideas on the makeup of the moon landing area and are beginning to think You..g and Duke may have sampled rock splashed out of the primitive lunar crust by the tremendous impact that created the great Sea of Rains basin.

Geologists had thought the Cayley Plains were a relatively simple volcanic lava flow.

"I think it's premature to be making those kind of things, Tony," Young said. "I'd like to wait until we get all the data in and take a look at it. It's just too soon on hearsay and not having the real evidence and not having all the data analyzed."

England said scientists can't wait until the rocks get back this weekend and he quizzed the astronauts on what they found during three days on the moon.

At one point, Young was asked about rocks collected last Saturday and he said:

"I can't remember what the dang rocks look like, to be honest with you."

After answering the questions, the astronauts turned to their final scientific studies of the mission —a closed-eye look at mysterious light flashes and an x-ray search for puzzling black holes in space.

The astronauts began their day at 8:32 a.m. and Young reported their sleep during the night was "good to better." He also said the ship's supply of peanut butter mysteriously vanished when the pilots stowed film casettes in a food compartment.

Jackson's Lawyer Will Not Testify

SAN JOSE (UPI) —George Jackson's attorney refused to answer questions in the Angela Davis trial today on grounds it would violate the attorney-client relationship and might open him to litigation or possible disbarment. (Another Davis trial story, page 34.)

John Thorne, a San Jose lawyer who represented the slain black prison revolutionary, showed up to answer a prosecution subpoena accompanied by his own lawyers, Black Panther attorney Charles Garry.

Thorne answered questions about his name, profession and place of business but when Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. started asking him about court appearances by Jackson in 1970, Garry told Judge Richard E. Arnason Thorne would not answer.

Jail Term Starts Six Years Later

Six years after her arrest on suspicion of soliciting for prostitution and being a madam, a former Sausaltio resident has begun serving a jail term.

Barbara E. Benson, 47, an impassive woman with long blond hair, said she had been selling antiques in Berkeley during the five years police looked for her to serve a 55-day jail term.

She was convicted by a jury on a charge of arranging a "date" between an undercover police officer and Donna Lee Donaleche of San Francisco, but acquitted on a charge of running a house of ill repute.

Miss Donaleche was also arrested at Miss Benson's Sausalito apartment Oct. 27, 1965, when she went into the bedroom with the officer and allegedly undressed. She also was convicted.

Miss Benson appealed, then disappeared when a Marin Superior judge ruled against her in June of 1967. A four-year-old bench warrant was finally served on her last week.

The other woman has been sought since 1966 when she failed to appear for sentencing.

Dritz, Varin coordinator for the initiative proposed for the November general election and Reginald Woods, student at College of Marin and Vietnam war veteran. Opposing the initiative will be Capt. Questions telephoned in during the broadcast tomorrow morning will be answered on the broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape-recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

San Anselman Faces Misdemeanors

Only misdemeanor charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Michael J. McCarthy, 25, of San Anselmo who was arrested yesterday by the California Highway Patrol.

McCarthy was stopped on Highway 101 near Third Street in San Rafael on suspicion of drunk driving. Marijuana and a device for holding a marijuana cigarette were found during a search, according to officers.

private conversations with the American side," Vy said.

"After having interrupted the Paris conference unilaterally and unreasonably for more than a month, the American administration has had to say that it accepts the resumption of the 148th session of the conference April 27, 1972," the Viet Cong said.

"If this is so, it is because U.S. efforts aimed at sabotaging the conference and intensifying the war have been vigorously condemned by public opinion throughout the world, including the United States, and have received a resolute riposte from the Vietnamese people," the statement said.

The United States and South Vietnam informed the Communist delegations officially yesterday they were lifting the suspension of the conference.

The Hanoi delegation, however, rejected a U. S. request that the current Communist offensive in South Vietnam be the first order of business in the renewed talks.

"We reject all fallacious allegations on the part of the United States on the so-called invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnam,' violation of an understanding,' etc.,'' the Hanoi statement said.

"The American administration continues to pose preconditions to the negotiations," the Viet Cong statement said, "applying its 'Vietnamization' policy and undertaking military adventures in North and South Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations had continuously demanded the United States and South Vietnam return to the talks since Nixon suspended the conference.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said today parallel secret negotiations, conducted on North Vietnam's behalf by Le Duc Tho, could only begin when the regular sessions resumed and U.S. bombing raids into North Vietnam end.

He pointed out that only one of these two conditions had been met.

Oakland Pair Held For Court

Two Oakland residents were bound over yesterday to Marin Superior court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from an assault on two Novato women in October 1970.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled sufficient evidence was presented at a preliminary hearing to hold Charlisse Joy Brant, 21, and Donald Duane Smith, 32, for trial and ordered them to appear in superior court May 10.

They are accused of beating and threatening to kill the two women in a disagreement over a narcotics debt.

One of the women, Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, was found dead of what police speculate may have been a murderous overdose of drugs April 10.

In a closed meeting last night, the school board received a list of five candidates for the position from a professional screening committee and Chappell's name was not included.

According to Jacks, the board previously agreed to eliminate any candidate who was rejected by the screening committee.

The five candidates for the job will be in the district this week and will be interviewed by the board this weekend.

According to Jacks, the board will make its final decision by the middle of May.

said might be as high as 35,000 men.

The White House said Kissinger's trip to Moscow was not related to tonight's address to the nation. It was known, however, that Vietnam was the prime topic at the four days of talks.

There was speculation that Nixon, concerned about what additional steps he might have to take to preserve the Saigon government, feared that more bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong might damage or sink his meeting with Russia's leaders scheduled to begin May 22.

Kissinger in turn was either sent or invited to go to Moscow where the two governments tried to work out some way the summit could be kept alive without embarrassment to the Kremlin or the White House.

In agreeing to resume the talks, on his conditions, Nixon retreated slightly from a previous U.S. position that there would be no more discussions as long as the Communist offensive continued. But he may have demonstrated to the Russians that he does indeed want next month's summit meeting.

The United States pulled out of the talks March 24 saying there was no point in continuing a discussion which had degenerated into a propaganda match, until there was some sort of "signal" from the other side that it was ready for meaningful negotiations.

In Moscow, diplomatic sources said Communist Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev initiated the Kissinger talks and that they led to the U.S. decision to resume the Paris peace talks.

The diplomats said the White House at first thought Kissinger would be too busy with other work, but later decided to accept Brezhnev's offer due to the gravity of the Vietnam situation and signs of increasing crisis in the Middle East as well as the possibility of a rejection of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's Ostpolitik.

Pap Smear Will Be A Required Test

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—PAP smear tests will be required of all women 21 and older upon admission to hospitals in New York State, it was announced Sunday.

State Health Commissioner Hollis Ingraham said that at least 75 lives might be saved yearly by the new requirement, which is aimed at early detection of cervical cancer, a disease which takes about 630 lives yearly in New York State.

A Grecian Festival Is Announced

The Greek Orthodox Church of Marin will sponsor a Grecian Festival at the Marin Civic Center from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. May 27 and 28.

According to organizers, the area near the Veterans Memorial Auditorium will become a festive market place . . . where every type of Grecian cultural and ethnic custom will be featured."

Booths with Greek food, featuring loukoumades, baklava, pastituio and koulourakia, will be set up.

The auditorium will be filled with cultural exhibits and entertainment, including belly dancers and folk dancing.

On May 28, at 10 a.m., a Greek Orthodox Liturgy will be offered inside the auditorium, featuring the choir of the Greek Orthodox Church of Marin.

Mill Valley Rec Panel Endorses Regional Park

Mill Valley Park and Recreation commissioners have endorsed the concept of a regional park and open space district in Marin County, and have also asked the city council to endorse it.

The approval came Monday night after each commissioner reviewed the concept, proposed to the county board of supervisors by the county park and recreation commission and presented to the Mill Valley commission by representatives of the county group.

No mention was made of a proposal by others to form a countywide district, which would be governed by the board of supervisors. The regional district would be run by a separate board of governors.

Formation of some form of district is expected to be on the November ballot.

The Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission also:

TREE REMOVAL — Set its next meeting as a hearing date for removal of a catalpa tree at 11 Grove Street so that those objecting can register their complaints.

ART FESTIVAL — Heard from youth commission chairman Fred Wright that the youth art festival to be held May 14 at Boyle Park will consist of the paintings of about 30 artists and that folk music will be provided. Proceeds will go into the youth commission fund.

HARBOR — Received a letter from the Marin County Health Department which said that until the water in Mill Valley's boat harbor is acceptable by the Regional Water Quality Control Board, the harbor must not be used for any body-contact sports, including boating. The commission decided to post notices asking all boat owners to remove their boats from the area until it can be reopened.

TREE SPRAYING — Received a letter from Tree Service, Inc., explaining that it was necessary to spray some city trees with an insecticide called sevin, to which some persons had objected. The letter will be presented to the city council.

Driver Hurts Knee In Petaluma Crash

Laura Krauss, 25, of San Francisco, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for cuts of the right knee suffered when her car overturned Monday at 12:05 p.m. on Highway 101 at Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said the car in front of her slowed suddenly and that she veered into the median strip where her car overturned.

Retail Stores Plan In Canal Area Wins Backing

The San Rafael Planning Commission, over objections of the city's planning staff, approved construction of retail stores and service establishments at the corner of Larkspur and Alto streets.

Julius H. Selinger, owner of the property, told the commission that he intended to construct and lease buildings that could be used as quick-stop food markets, discount drug stores, shoe repair shops, beauty parlors or other similar convenience goods shopping.

He told the commission that he was also considering a combined office building and retail store structure on the site.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner vigorously objected to the proposed use of the property, stating, "It would be totally inconsistent with the city's general plan."

He agreed with Selinger's contention that the residents of the canal area were in great need of neighborhood shopping facilities but rather than isolated, individual stores, he suggested a small, neighborhood shopping center.

According to Hotchner, the stores planned by Selinger and others that would inevitably follow would diminish the likelihood that a shopping center would ever be built.

He warned the commission that its approval of Selinger's request would serve as a precedent for future applications.

After attaching one condition — that the applicant spell out the proposed uses of the retail stores before seeking architectural approval — the commission granted the use permit with a 5-to-1 vote.

Commissioner Albert J. Boro cast the dissenting vote.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

TENNIS CLUB — Approved a prezoning request from Ceasar B. Cardani to change his property located near Fifth Avenue and Mount Tamalpais Cemetery to planned unit development status so he can construct a tennis club, swimming pool and five dwelling units.

TOWNHOUSE — Gave "favorable reaction" to a proposed 30-unit development at Glen Park Avenue at Myrtle Avenue submitted by Frank Merz.

SUBDIVISION — Tabled for revision a request from Raymond Gill to subdivide his property between 100 Palm Avenue and Hubbell Court because the parcel did not meet the city's slope or access requirements.

USE PERMITS — Granted use permits to Robert Ross Jr. to operate a parts assembly shop at 69B Paul Drive; Sam Gardiner to dump earth fill on property at 2021 Francisco Boulevard and William and Dona Otey to permit more than one building in an apartment complex at 523 "C" Street.

CAR WASH BUILDING — Granted architectural approval to Jordan K. Smith, Edward Smith, Edward Clippinger and Enrico Marchisio to build a car wash-gas station at 1515 Second Street.

MUFFLER SHOP — Granted architectural approval to Glenn Wentz to add an additional 1,500 square feet to his shop at 128 Bellam Boulevard.

APARTMENT COMPLEX — Granted architectural approval to William and Dona Otey to build an eight-unit complex at 523 C Street.

OFFICES — Denied a request from First American Title Co. for a use permit to build offices at 1103 Irwin Street until additional information about the off-site parking situation can be obtained.

FREITAS PROJECT — Approved plans for Terra Linda Development Co.'s 107-unit townhouse project on Freitas Parkway after turning down several of the firm's request for design changes, including replacing stucco exterior walls with stained plywood.

MEETING — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m. May 2 in the Public Works Department Conference Room for a study session on new state legislation affecting planning, zoning and subdivision.

Woman Booked On Drug Charge

Kathleen Louise Sutton, 22, of 315½ Liberty Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs.

She was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said they stopped a car in which she was riding at 9:25 p.m. on Ellis Street after getting reports of persons in a similar car waving guns.

Officers said plastic water pistols were found in the car and that a vial of red and white capsules were found in Miss Sutton's possession.

Rounds Are Announced On Budget

The San Anselmo City Council last night scheduled six meetings in May and June to work on the city's 1972-73 budget.

City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel told councilmen he hoped to hand copies of the preliminary budget to them at the May 9 council meeting.

The council then agreed to sessions for May 16, 17 and 22 and June 6, 8 and 15. The May 16 session had already been scheduled to discuss the fire department budget with the Sleepy Hollow Fire Protection District, Kaeppel said.

Plans Said Ready On Hub Pipeline

Engineering is "practically completed" and bids should be awarded by this time next year for a 36-inch Ross Valley Sanitary District pipeline planned through San Anselmo, the city council was told last night by district spokesman Ralph Noah.

The pipeline, to replace an 18-inch line, would extend from the Ross town border through downtown San Anselmo and out Center Boulevard to the Fairfax border, Noah told the council. The district pumping station now under construction in Kentfield also will be completed by then, he said.

Noah also told the council that two of four creek obstructions at Mountain View Avenue and Morningside Drive had been cleared.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

THOROUGHFARE — Directed City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel to write the City-County Planning Council, reaffirming the city's resistance to any extension of Highway 17 through San Anselmo. The action was in response to a plea by former resident Anne West, who said such a thoroughfare proposed in the council's two-year-old balanced transportation program would have "an absolutely devastating effect" on San Anselmo and nearby communities.

AIR — Unanimously voiced the city's concern with the quality of air in Marin, recommending tough air quality controls as outlined in a Bay Area Air Pollution Control District report suggesting restriction of construction in the area.

SPRAYING — Cited the possibly negative effect on some insects, such as bees, and decided to halt spraying of the city's elm trees for one year in order to evaluate the effects of such a halt. Spraying in the past has been aimed at elm beetles but Councilman Martin G. Blinder had questioned the effectiveness of the spray upon the beetles.

VOLUNTEERS — Asked the chamber of commerce to pass the word in its newsletter that the city is seeking volunteers to fill a seat on the civil service board to review and to act as liaison with the county human rights commission.

HUB — Authorized the public works department to advertise for work bids for the Hub-Sequoia Drive irrigation system and topsoil.

SECRETARY — Hired Virginia Fogerty as administrative secretary, to be effective May 1 at a salary of $618 per month.

REC AREA — Notified the county board of supervisors that the council endorses in concept a proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area and that the area be used in a manner preserving Marin's unique natural character." The council also urged that specific planning be done by a citizen advisory committee to be appointed by supervisors.

CONGRATULATIONS — Congratulated Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein on his recent installation as president of the Northern California Juvenile Officers Association.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. May 9 at city hall.

Budget Proposes School Closing

The Petaluma Board of Education last night received a budget for its elementary district that proposes closing Grant School and putting all others on double sessions. Parents present vowed to launch a private fund raising campaign.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the $2,373,976 preliminary budget for 1972-73 was $67,373 less than the 1971-72 budget of $2,441,348. He said reserve funds have been depleted and operating expenses must be reduced to balance the budget.

A tax rate increase election was defeated by voters on March 21.

Dona L. Cook and Gwen Adkins, speaking for a newly formed group called interested citizens representing area schools, said they would organize the fund drive to raise $15 per child in the elementary district.

They said a nonprofit foundation will be formed and officers will be elected at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school administration building.

Meyer said board members expressed mixed emotions about the private fund drive and said they would wait until details of the organization are presented next month before approving it.

Paul Thomas presented the board with a petition bearing 678 names of Grant School area residents opposing plans to close the school and to relocate San Antonio Continuation High School there.

The board has considered moving the continuation school from the Sonoma-Marin fairgrounds to save the $6,000 per year rental fee.

The budget also called for deleting 13 teaching positions to save money and to halt bus transportation for the widespread Penngrove School attendance area.

The budget calls for the same amount to be spent on books and supplies, but parents complained it may be better to reduce supplies than to put students on double sessions. Teachers, however, told the board previously that they would rather teach on double sessions with adequate supplies than on the regular school schedule without supplies.

After reviewing the proposed reductions and hearing protests by parents for more than five hours, the board adjourned to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. to continue the discussion.

Lagunitas School Policy Reaffirmed

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District, after long discussion before a large audience, have reaffirmed in principle an earlier decision to offer a three-pronged educational program next school term.

Supt. William E. Johnson said the board, which met Monday night, reached the consensus after failing to reconcile differences growing out of a proposed merger of two parts of the planned program.

Johnson said some teachers and parents had suggested combining the Advance Capabilities Program, which stresses things a child will need to understand as an adult, and the district's present program, which includes some team teaching and individualized instruction.

The third part of the proposed new structure is the open classroom approach, in which the impact of a teacher on instruction is softened.

Johnson said that the board, after deciding in principle to proceed with the three-part program, asked him to return at its next meeting May 8 with cost figures and a proposed organizational plan.

In another matter Monday, the board received for study pay raise requests by the district's 24 credentialed staff members. Johnson, who had not figured the potential impact of the pay proposal on the district treasury, said the requests would raise the basic teaching salary from $6,641 per year to $7,300 and the top wage from $13,282 to $15,110.

Johnson quoted the teachers as saying the requests would bring their pay up to the Marin average.

Capt. Robert F. Scott and four companions reached the South Pole Jan. 17, 1912.

'Fairfax Greets You' Sign Recommended

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission recommended last night that the sign reading, "Fairfax Greets You," located at the east end of the Parkade, be removed and replaced with a large evergreen tree.

According to commission secretary Ernestine Healy, the vote was unanimous to take down the sign. The commissioners, she said, felt it made little sense to have a sign welcoming people to Fairfax located in the middle of town.

The commission also recommended that the city council enter an agreement, on behalf of the senior citizen program in Fairfax, with the county-wide Senior Citizens Co-Ordinating Council, established to assist local senior citizen programs with problems of transportation, coordination, and continuity.

The commission asked the city council for responsibility to organize the town celebration project, to be held during the summer or fall. While no definite plans were offered, September or October Fests, designed expressly for Fairfax residents, were suggested by commission members as possibilities

Judge Continues A Misdemeanor

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled not enough evidence was presented to hold Judy Kendell Lynn, 36, of Corte Madera on felony possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, a misdemeanor.

However, Judge Robert A. Smallman ordered her held on a misdemeanor possession charge and continued the case to May 12 to allow the district attorney to file an amended complaint.

She was arrested by Corte Madera police after an officer investigating a burglary said he had seen pipes with what looked like marijuana residue in the bowls in the Lynn home.

Novato Favors A Youth Panel

The Novato City Council last night approved creation of a youth commission to give youths a voice in matters affecting them.

Councilmen unanimously authorized the Novato Youth Advisory Committee to draft a resolution to establish the commission for council consideration.

Michael Ascuitto, a committee member, reviewed the committee's recommendation for a commission of indeterminate membership, including adults.

The proposed commission would "present ideas to the city council that indicate what the younger people think about youth and what should be done by the community in serving the youth," the committee reported.

Geoffrey Bywater, a parks and recreation commissioner and committee member, said a "youth commission would be a good experience for the city and for the young people."

The commission could work with the parks and recreation department in formulating programs, Bywater said.

The Novato City Council Also:

GUN CONTROL — Defeated 3-2 introduction of an amendment to the gun control ordinance to prohibit firing of air guns, B-B guns, blow guns, ulingshots, bows or any instrument that throws or projects bullets, pellets or missiles except in defense of person or property or on approved shooting galleries or on pistol, rifle, skeet or archery ranges. Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg, David Price Jones and Mayor F. Wayne Sartain voted against proposed ordinance with the intent that it be revised to make accommodation for people firing on their own property with no danger to anyone.

LEAGUE STUDY — Received notice from Dolores Cannon, chairman of the "Know Your Town" Committee of the League of Women Voters that the committee is making a study of Novato.

WATER COOLER — Received a water cooler for the Novato Community House as a gift from the Novato Senior Citizens Club. The cooler was estimated to cost $240.

TAMAK ESTATES — Approved a final map of Tamak Estates, a 16-lot subdivision at the northeast corner of Virginia and Sutro Avenues.

MENDOCINO UNIT — Approved a final map of Mendocino Gardens Unit No. 2 for 25 lots at Eucalyptus Avenue and Mendocino Lane.

FREEWAY BYPASS — Approved a supplemental appropriation of $4,750 for acquisition of right-of-way for Reichert Avenue railroad crossing from Novato Builders Supply for the Novato bypass project.

TRAILS SYSTEM — Continued until May 9 consideration of amending the Novato area general plan to include a revised system of horse, bicycling and hiking trails, after hearing protests from about half a dozen residents of Eucalyptus Avenue against establishing a horse trail past their homes.

CABLE TV — Continued until May 23 action on hiring an accounting firm to evaluate the request by G'Tec Cable Television Co., city franchise holder to raise its basic rate from $4.50 to $5 a month. Councilman George C. Quesada dissented and Ruegg abstained.

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Established a two-member finance committee and appointed councilmen Dorothy P. Young and Ruegg.

HIGHWAY 101 DELAY — Received a recommendation from Quesada to ask the California Highway Patrol not to delay crosstown traffic more than two minutes at Grant Avenue and Highway 101 during heavy weekend traffic.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned at 1:30 a.m. to a special joint meeting at 7 p.m. next Tuesday at the Novato Community House with last night's unfinished agenda items to be considered starting at about 9 p.m.

Almonte Sewer District In Budget Study

Directors of the Almonte Sanitary District have begun preparing next year's budget, according to board secretary John J. Crncich, but won't know until later whether rates will have to be raised.

Crncich said the distrit has not yet decided how much, if any, of the district's sewer pipe must be replaced, and directors have to wait until next month to ask the county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell exactly how much remains in their account.

But, he said, if Mill Valley, which treats the sewage collected by the Almonte Sanitary District, raises its rates very much, or if many sewer lines must be replaced, rates may have to be raised, though not by much, Crncich said.

Novato Urbanization Is Hit

By FRANK FARRARA

After a confusing, lengthy and sometimes heated public hearing, the Novato City Council last night recommended what amounted to a zoning moratorium on four agricultural preserves in the Novato area.

Councilmen voted 3-2 to recommend to the Marin County Planning Commission to delay any action on the parcels until July 15 or at least not to make any changes to urban zoning.

New council members Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young dissented.

Developers, land owners and estate executors protested against retaining the parcels in agricultural preserves, claiming it would result in economic loss.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the city planning commission recommended keeping the parcels in agricultural zoning as a "holding action" until the Novato area general plan is revised.

The parcels involved are:

The Bowman Canyon area 1,800 acres west of Novato including property held by G. J. Garlick of Salt Lake City, who plans development on about 450 acres.

The Olompali Ranch, 700 acres north of Novato and west of Highway 101.

Ten parcels on the east slope of Mount Burdell, opposite the Marin County Airport, acreage unspecified.

Burdell Ranch, 680 acres along San Antonio Creek, near the Marin-Sonoma County line.

When Mayor F. Wayne Sartain opened the matter for public comment, Timothy W. O'Donoghue of Novato, who had purchased Rancho Olompali, opened with a sharp attack against the Novato planning staff.

He said he had lost $1 million on the land and "had to let it go to the University of San Francisco," and he didn't get cooperation from the planners.

O'Donoghue said he had offered a 400-acre park as part of his plans, and that he met with a "negative attitude" from planners.

"You're going to break every land owner, like you broke me and end up with the highest tax rate in the nation," O'Donoghue said.

He described it "as one of the most ridiculous things I ever heard," and said any planning commissioner who voted the recommendation (3 to 2 last week) should be asked to resign.

Attorney Douglas P. Ferguson of Mill Valley reported tha the Renaissance Pleasure Faire was negotiating for land on the Burdell Ranch as a site for its annual fair and an education center, and asked such use not be ruled out. The fair sought a site in Lucas Valley last year but lost its bid.

Mattson, in reply to O'Donaghue's comments, said all O'Donaghue's "plans eventually were dropped."

Jean Powers of Greenbrae, representing Survival Inc., urged the council to consider "ethics not dollars and the individual versus the corporation," and George A. Amaroli of 11 Rebecca Way, Novato warned that urbanization is costly since it requires city services.

Ruegg said he didn't object to agricultural preserves, but objected "to forcing anybody into agricultural preserves against their will."

He also said the "city should have integrity," and that it was "indefensible to change the rules in the middle of the game."

The council voted unanimously against retaining the Jack West property, 1,250 acres in the Bel Marin Keys area, north of Hamilton Air Force in agricultural preserve.

They voted 4-0 with George C. Quesada abstaining against retaining the Nunes Ranch, 400 acres north and west of San Marin in agricultural preserve.

Since all the land involved was outside the city, councilmen were uncertain what effect their action would have.

Principal planner Rowland Darnell of the county planning staff said they "could ask" for what they wanted, but the final recommendation will be made by the Marin County Planning Commission, which is scheduled to hold hearings on the property involved May 8.

To Fill Vacancies

The Sausalito School District board will meet at 6 p.m. today in the district office to set a date for an election to fill two board vacancies created by the resignations of trustees Jerry L. Whitcomb and Delta Christ. The board will also elect new officers at the special session.

Supervisors Review Marin Capital Program

The Marin County Board of Supervisors reviewed but took no action yesterday on a proposed capital improvement program totaling $37.5 million for the next six years.

Supervisors agreed with Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst, that the program is strictly a working document upon which to base budget decisions in June.

During yesterday's discussion of the document, supervisors were urged by a group of tennis players to reallocate funds for courts which were scratched by the county administrator's office.

They said the need for courts is growing rapidly as not only more persons are playing but what few courts exist are being restricted, as in Mill Valley here only residents can play on weekends.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he agrees that courts should be provided but suggested the matter be continued to June budget hearings.

Supervisor Michael Wornum differed, however, claiming that if courts are provided for tennis players then golfers will be demanding a municipal golf course.

The document recommends no money be allocated for courts next year and suggests that if a county tennis center is ever constructed, it be financed through "user fees."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste urged the board to consider building bicycle paths in conjunction with future road widening projects proposed in the document.

Over the six-year forecast, about $19 million is proposed for road construction and maintenance projects. The remainder is slated for land acquisition, park improvement and capital construction.

Carol Staley of Corte Madera, speaking for the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, suggested top priority be given to open space land acquisition, trails and parks.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Denis T. Rice of Tiburon, Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley and Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito to succeed Supervisor Michael Wornum on the county disaster council in case of emergency. Also appointed David G. Greenlee of the Marin Builders' Exchange to the county's natural resources commission.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Martha A. Valliant from the mental health advisory board since she is moving from the county. Also the resignation of Ben F. Petrini from the Rafael Meadows Flood Control Advisory Board.

SUIT — Authorized the county counsel's office to file suit against Eugene T. and Patricia C. Murray to regain $2,014 in excess welfare payments.

LOT SPLIT — Denied a request from Fred Bitz of Mill Valley to overrule the planning commission's rejection of his proposal to split his lot on Hilldale Way in Tamalpais Valley into three parcels. The planning commission had approved two lots, which the board upheld.

CREEK — Rescinded its decision to condemn 41 parcels along Corte Madera Creek in Ross since the flood control project has been delayed at least one year.

LEAVE — Approved unanimously a six-month leave of absence for Philippa Denning-Kemp, a public health investigator. The leave, without pay, was requested for personal reasons.

DANCE PALACE — Approved unanimously a request from Alice P. Thul to use the 70-year-old Point Reyes Palace Food Market as a meeting place for youth. The use was granted on condition that more fire exits are provided.

STUDY — Continued indefinitely a proposal that the county finance an environmental-recreational study of the lower reach of Corte Madera Creek near Highway 101. The board decided to await resutls from a similar study by the Golden Gate Bridge District.

CAMPAIGN — Told supporters of Rev. Samuel Banks, candidate for the Third Supervisorial District, that he could use Paradise Park for a picnic-rally but could not reserve any part of it for exclusive use.

Supervisors Warn Marin EOC On Money Problems

Marin supervisors warned the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council yesterday they will withhold local funds next fiscal year if the agency's financial problems are not straightened out by June.

The board's warning came as EOC officials sought toquell growing discontent with their agency which last year misused more than $100,000 of federal money.

Ben Young, acting executive director of the poverty agency, told the board yesterday his agency can not survive without county funds. He requested $40,000 which would be used to put the agency back on its feet.

"I, for one, am not going to vote any more money for the EOC until you get straightened out," Supervisor Louis H. Barr told Young.

While other supervisors were not as outspoken, their comments followed the same line, refusing county funds until assured of financial responsibility.

As disclosed by the Independent-Journal Saturday, a preliminary federal audit has revealed the agency and two former employees misused about $100,000 last year.

The lion's share of that amount —some $63,000 mistakenly received and then used — was spent without authorization to cover operating deficits.

About $12,000 was used by former Executive Director W. Robert Lomax Jr. and a top aide, Alfred G. Edmonds, for personal expenses. All but $2,500 has been repaid, the audit said.

Young said other problems facing the agency include about $38,000 worth of bills from local businessmen and not enough money to cover the debts. His agency is also faced with claims running into thousands of dollars from the Marin County Legal Aid Society and Head Start.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, while sympathizing with the agency's problems, said he wouldn't vote more money until he saw a plan of how the funds would be used.

McInnis, a former member of the EOC board, said he resigned years ago because he could foresee what "has now happened" and could find no way of preventing it.

"The structure (of the agency) is such that what happened was inevitable," he said, referring to the federal audit.

He blamed much on the federal government for establishing the agency with no local control and said before he would vote more county money to the EOC he would have to be assured that local control had been established.

"If the federal government is the same as before, I don't think they will accept that," he added.

(The EOC was established as part of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "War on Poverty" and was purposely structured to prevent local governmental interference or influence.)

Young said he agreed with McInnis and added that "the federal government will not go on with this program unless we do as you say."

He added that the agency has a new plan which calls for the EOC to "mobilize community resources" and not act as a resource itself.

Plead Innocent To Burglary

Two San Francisco men, accused of burglary and having stolen property, have pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court. A jury trial was set for the week of June 5 for Walter James Brock, 30, and Vernon James Robinson, 23.

Brock and Robinson were arrested April 4 by Sausalito Police, who said they found the two burglarizing the home of Helme W. Schweikert at 5 Cloudview Trail.

W. Marin Sewage Funds Hit

By PAUL F. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — The financial rug may be yanked out from under separate sewage treatment systems proposed for Bolinas and Stinson Beach, the executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board warned yesterday. (Another water quality control story, page 1.)

Fred H. Dierker told board members he will oppose federal and state funding of the systems unless they can be shown to be big enough to serve both present developed areas and "reasonable anticipated development."

The alternative would be assurance that septic tanks in the two communities "will be adequately operated and maintained," he said. The county's new septic tank ordinance, however, discourages their continued use.

Without federal and state funds to pay up to 80 per cent of their sewage systems, the two small communities would be hard pressed to finance the systems. No cost estimate has been reported for the new systems.

FACE OF WARNING

Dierker issued his warning in the face of a request from the Stinson Beach County Water District to allow continued planning for a separate system — contrary to the regional baord's insistence for years that the two communities pool their limited financing powers to build a joint system.

The regional board, at Dierker's recommendation, approved the request — but stressed that the approval was granted only to allow further planning of separate systems. Neither community should build its own system if the other cannot finance its own system, as well, the board agreed.

Dierker and the staff refrained from commenting on the proposed systems pending a court hearing Friday on the Bolinas plan. The morning hearing, part of the regional board's cease and desist order against Bolinas, will be held in Contra Costa County Superior Court, Martinez.

Both systems envision treatment of sewage waste in evaporation ponds, with possible reuse of the treated wastewater for irrigation. A former director of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, Sherman R. Smith, objected in a letter that rainfall in winter and heavy fogs in summer would make evaporation "a doubtful factor"oand encourage overflows of sewage from the ponds.

BACKS SYSTEM

Smith, terming the new proposed systems "immature planning," urged development instead of the controversial $8.1 million joint system for conventional treatment and ocean discharge. This proposal, made while Smith was on the Bolinas board, was discredited by citizens in both communities last November when they voted Smith and other incumbents out of office.

Opponents of the $8.1 million joint system argued it was too costly and would encourage unwanted growth of the area. Bolinas is the only community in the nine-county Bay Area discharging raw sewage all year.

Tough Dredging Policy Is Adopted For The Bay

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Tough new dredging regulations for San Francisco Bay, despite objections they will skyrocket dredging costs up to 1,000 per cent and trigger a recession in Northern California, were adopted unanimously yesterday by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The action, after little discussion, brushed aside powerful opposition in an earlier hearing from industry, maritime interests and the Army Corps of Engineers. All of them argued for at least a year's delay to give more time to study the need for the regulation.

Small craft harbors depending on continued dredging for access to deep water, as do virtually all harbors in Marin and Southern Sonoma, could be wiped out by the increased costs under the regulations, according to maritime witnesses before the board's previous hearing on the regulations.

The regulations were required under federal standards on dumping dredged mud that is polluted with heavy metals or toxic chemicals.

These polluted spoils now will have to be dumped on land, unless it can be shown to the board's satisfaction that land disposal is not feasible. In such a case, the spoils then probably will be ordered dumped at least 30 miles outside the Golden Gate in depths greater than 100 fathoms.

The impact of such restrictions on cost already has prevented maintenance dredging in several harbors along San Rafael Canal, according to the board's staff.

The government issued its standards in the face of mounting evidence in recent years of the effects of heavy metals. State Fish and Game Department officials warned that these pollutants accumulate in ever-increasing concentrations in the food chain, thus can make fish products "dangerous for human use."

The new regulations govern dumping of spoils found contaminated with volatile solids, nitrogen, oil, grease, mercury, lead, zinc, copper, cadmium and pesticides.

The regional board agreed to review the impact of the regulations in six months.

Cigarette Tax Shares Are Told

Marin County and its cities received $63,188 and Sonoma County and Southern Sonoma cities, $37,842, in the April apportionment of cigarette tax money from the state.

Amounts allocated were: Marin County, $6,552; Belvedere, $597; Larkspur, $3,154; Ross, $594; Sausalito, $3,376; Corte Madera, $4,785; Mill Valley, $4,289; San Anselmo, $3,955; Tiburon, $2,192; Fairfax, $1,975, Novato, $9,499, and San Rafael, $22,218.

Sonoma County, $25,168; Petaluma, $9,925; Rohnert Park, $2,117 and Cotati, $632.

U.S. Wages Four Times Production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wages and salaries of American workers increased four times as much as their productivity, measured in output by manhour, during the first quarter of this year, the Labor Department said yesterday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also released a new set of statistics showing that growth of unit profits of nonfinancial corporations, after falling drastically in 1970, far outstripped increases in hourly compensation they paid their employees in 1971.

The BLS said compensation per man hour in the entire private economy increased at an annual rate of 8.6 per cent during the first three months of 1972, while output per man hour went up at only a 2.1 per cent annual rate, which was below the 3.6 per cent growth for all of 1971.

Even when the effects of inflation were taken out, the real purchasing power of the average hourly compensation went up in the first quarter at an annual rate of 5 per cent, more than twice the rise in productivity and nearly twice the 2.6 per cent increase in the purchasing power for 1971.

This resulted in a 6.3 per cent annual rate of increase in unit labor costs during the January-February-March period, the BLS said.

The report showed that since the first quarter of last year, output per man hour went up 2.8 per cent, compensation per man hour increased 6.3 per cent, the purchasing power of the hourly compensation advanced 2.6 per cent and unit labor costs rose 3.4 per cent.

The new report on nonfinancial corporations showed their compensation per an hour increased 7 per cent in 1971 while unit profits went up 11.6 per cent after declining 13.1 per cent in 1970, due in part to the long General Motors strike. Unit labor costs increased only 2.2 per cent while unit non-labor costs went up 6 per cent.

For employees of these corporations, however, inflation ate away more than half of their increased income as their purchasing power went up only 2.6 per cent.

GAZERS' GUIDE

Venus Shines Out In Evening Sky

By Dr. Thomas D. Nicholson
Director, the American Museum of Natural History, New York
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

May 2-3: The waning gibbous moon rises near Jupiter, about midnight daylight time, on the evening of the 2nd, and both move up the sky together on the morning of the 3rd. From moonrise until dawn the moon's motion toward the east (left) takes it close to Jupiter, while both cross the sky toward the west.

May 4: The Eta Aquarid meteor shower, so named for the star Eta, in Acquarius near its radiant, reaches maximum this evening, though observing is best after midnight on the 5th. There will be a waning moon in the morning sky, but the swift, bright meteors of this shower may be seen or two or three mornings before and after this date.

May 11: Venus, prominent as an evening star since last autumn, reaches greatest brilliancy in the evening sky. Having passed through greatest easterly elongation in early April, the planet is now setting earlier and becoming dimmer, both preludes to its leaving sky.

May 12: The moon is at perigee (nearest earth) 11 hours before new moon. The perigee spring tide will produce higher than normal high tides.

May 14: The moon is in conjunction with Saturn this morning. This evening Saturn will be below the day-and-a-half-old Crescent moon and difficult to see even with an exceptionally clear western horizon.

May 15: The moon passes Venus and Mars this afternoon, and after sundown the crescent moon and the two planets make an exceptionally striking scene. Venus and Mars are both to the right (west) of the moon, Venus above and the brighter planet, Mars below and closer to the moon. Mars is occulted by the moon over the Arctic and parts of Europe.

May 17: Venus and Mars, still close together in the evening sky, are in conjunction.

May 25: The moon is at apogee, farthest from earth.

May 26: Venus, prior to passing between sun and Earth, becomes stationary and begins its retrograde (westward) motion. This will take it rapidly toward the sun and out of the evening sky.

May 27-28: On the right of the full moon, the star near the moon, occulted by it over western areas of North America, is Antares, in Scorpius. The moon approaches Antares during the night and passes the star early on the morning of the 28th.

May 29-30: Jupiter rises after the moon late on the evening of the 29th and before the moon on the evening of the 30th. The planet is near the moon on both nights, with conjunction at 11 a.m., daylight time, on the 30th.

May 31: Saturn is in conjunction with the sun. The planet now enters the morning sky.

All month: Venus, Mars, and Saturn continue as evening stars. Saturn, still in Taurus, is too low at dusk to be seen, even in early May, and the planet leaves the evening sky by the end of the month. Venus and Mars remain close together all month while they move into Gemini. The sun approaches both planets during May, however, and both are setting perceptibly earlier by month's end. Jupiter rises in the late evening, moves up to the south by 4 a.m., daylight time, and remains until dawn, when it is low in the southwest among the stars of Sagittarius.

Full moon, May 27, 12:28 a.m., daylight time.

School Board Wants Charter Revision Talk

The San Rafael Board of Education last night decided it wants to get together with the city to discuss a revision of the city charter to allow the board itself to fill vacancies that occur.

Supt. John F. Plank also said the board set a special budget meeting for 7:30 p.m. May 2 at the administration building. The preliminary 1972-73 budget will be discussed at that time, he said.

The charter revision suggestion was in a letter to San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini, asking that a committee composed of two council members and two board of education members be formed. The city now fills vacancies that occur on the education board.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

EXCHANGE — Heard exchange teachers Greta Massey and George Bowron, both of England, praise the American education system for the amount of services and equipment available here.

TRIP — Heard a report by 25 science students who recently completed an eight-day trip to the Mojave Desert and Death Valley. The trip has been taken for the past four years by students during Easter recess.

AMENDMENT — Decided to inform community leaders and organizations of its opposition to the proposed Watson Amednment, which would limit the amount of property tax which can be levied in California.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Lynne Bishop, 123 Union Street, San Rafael, and Sharon DeBord, of Residence 74, San Quentin, to fill vacancies on the citizen advisory committee.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of San Rafael High School physical education teacher Lou Ann Graham, and approved brief leaves for Short School teacher Barbara Dittmann and Davidson Middle School custodian Joaquin Vargas.

CONTRACT — Authorized Plank to hire the firm of Sleezer and Eckhoff to audit 1971-72 district transactions at a cost of $4,800.

GIFT — Accepted for San Rafael High Schools physical education department the gift of a sailboat, valued at $295, from John H. Taylor Jr.

MATH — Heard teachers Sharon Brandenburger and Justin Kielty describe the mechanics of the individualized mathematics program at Sun Valley and San Pedro schools. Under the program, children are tested and then individual programs of study are set up, Kielty and Mrs. Brandenburger reported.

Poetry Reading

A poetry reading by Eugene Ruggles and Gunard Solberg will be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Sleeping Lady Cafe, 58 Bolinas Road, Fairfax. Contributions will be asked.

E. Mill Valley Moratorium On Building Eyed

A moratorium on development for the east Mill Valley area has been proposed by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

The commission broached the suggestion — a reaction to rapid development in the region — at its meeting Monday night, said secretary Evelyn B McCreary.

The commission did not set any area for the proposed moratorium, nor did it propose any duration for the ban, she said. The commission said it wanted to study the matter further before asking the city council whether it would favor such an idea, she said.

Members noted the effect of a moratorium on construction workers who might be thrown out of work, she said.

Wounded Policeman In Fair Condition

Lt. Philip D. Green, 32-year-old San Rafael police officer wounded in a gun battle April 14, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, hospital spokesmen said.

Green who was shot once in the lower back close to the spinal cord, had undergone surgery twice for his wound and had been listed in serious condition by hospital authorities.

School Bus Drivers Seek Pay Increase

The Marin County Schools Personnel Commission has heard a plea from a representative of bus drivers employed by the county schools office for a 10 per cent increase in pay.

Frank O'Connell, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association which represents the bus drivers, asked the commission Monday to reclassify the drivers to a higher salary schedule so they would get the increase.

O'Connell said that a salary survey of other school districts in the county showed that the county schools bus drivers are receiving less.

A report, also given at the meeting, by Thomas B. Lowry, personnel director for the county schools, showed that the county schools bus drivers' salaries are about 4 per cent below the average of other Bay Area suburban counties.

Other nonteaching employees in the county schools office are receiving salaries ranging from 6 per cent higher than the average in other suburban counties to 8 per cent lower, Lowry said.

According to Stephen Parodi, curriculum coordinator to the county schools, Gregory Dunn, who represented classified employees who belong to the California School Employees Association, objected to only the bus drivers being considered for reclassification.

Motorcycle Gone

Stanwood G. Brooks, 1537 Tamar Drive, Petaluma, told police that his 1969 yellow Yamaha Motorcycle was stolen yesterday from the parking lot at Petaluma Senior High School. It bore license number 763086.

Kentfield Fire Unit Has New Member

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board has appointed William Glascock to replace Raymond N. Vogel, former board member who drowned April 8 after a boating accident in the Golden Gate.

Glascock lives at 101 Diablo Drive, Kentfield. He works as an insurance salesman in Larkspur. He is also a member of the volunteer fire department in Kentfield.

ABC Appeal Hearing Is Tomorrow

An appeal hearing on the State Alcoholic Beverage Control's refusal to grant a beer and wine license to operators of the Civic Center cafeteria will resume tomorrow at the Civic Center.

Tomorrow's hearing — to be held in room 332 of the administration building — will be the fourth session to be held since January before state hearing officer Paul A. Winton.

During past sessions, the ABC has called nearly 20 witnesses to speak against the license and in support of the agency's refusal to grant the permit.

San Rafael attorney Gil Medeiros, representing Civic Center Caterers, is expected to question Marin County sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste during tomorrow's session.

Rescue Child In Restaurant Pond

Firemen and a San Rafael resident probably can take credit for the fact that 2-year-old Luther Cooke of Petaluma is alive today.

The child was rescued yesterday at 10:30 a.m. from the pond at Franchini's Chateau restaurant after he was found face down and apparently lifeless by his babysitter, Penny Grainger, of 7 Howard, Apt. 4, Petaluma, San Rafael police said today.

Mrs. Grainger and Luther, of 7 Howard, Apt. 3, had been at the pond when the child wandered off to feed bread to some nearby ducks. Minues later, missing the child, Mrs. Grainger found and dragged him from the water, and called to Philip C. Vogler of 220 Canal Street, Apt. 10, San Rafael, who had been inside the restaurant.

Vogler applied mouth-to-moutn resuscitation but by the time firemen arrived, the boy still was not breathing, police said. Firemen Marlen Williams, Stanley Bush, Geffory Johnson and Calvin Gay took over resuscitation efforts, and by the time an ambulance arrived the boy was breathing again, police said.

Luther was taken to Marin General Hospital, where he was listed in good condition and was expected to be released this afternoon.

Sleepy Hollow Girl Wins Competition

Vivienne Todd, 16-year-old sophomore at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow, yesterday was awarded third prize in the annual Invest-In-America competition.

Awards of stocks, deposits in savings accounts and life insurance policy were made to Miss Todd and 15 San Francisco high school students at a luncheon sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of San Francisco.

WORD-A-DAY

Hood Leads Mill Valley In Spending

The three candidates elected on April 11 to the Mill Valley City Council spent more than $4,500 on their campaigns, according to campaign finance statements filed with the city.

Gerald J. Hood spent $1,858 and received $2,196 in campaign donations; Robert E. Burton spent $1,397 and received $1,433, and Robert E. Capron spent and received $1,247. The three winners, by law, had to file their statements before they could be seated on the council. Losing candidates have until May 16 to file their statements, according to county election officials.

Hood's contributions of $2,196 included $1,000 of his own.

His larger contributors were: $100 — Mill Valley Cyclery, Robert Reynolds and Harvey Bragdon. John McSweeney gave $105. Hood raised $321 at a benefit event, according to the report, and there were many donors of lesser amounts.

Burton's larger contributors were Matthew Copenhaver, Janet and Robert Mountjoy and Dr. John Lee. He raised $100 at a fund-raising party, according to the report, and also had many donors of lesser amounts.

Capron's larger contributors were: $50 — Jerrold Ladar, Joseph Bodovitz, Kim Clark and Elizabeth Rodman. There were many donors of smaller amounts.

First, Third In Race Split Election Funds

The first and third-place finishers in the April 11 San Anselmo City Council race for two seats split their contributions and expenses, according to Caroline Foster, city hall clerk.

"We ran as a ticket," said third-place finisher James F. Reed. He trailed running mate Kenneth L. Anderson and Dr. Martin G. Blinder in the balloting.

Anderson and Reed both listed $371 in contributions and $536 in expenses. All contributions were to "Citizens for Reed and Anderson," Reed said. Their filings both listed $25 donations from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olive as the largest contribution, according to Mrs. Foster.

Blinder, who finished second in the tight balloting, listed $385 in contributions and $1,291 in expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Jack Burr II, who finished last in the voting, did not list campaign contributions or expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

The four other city council candidates — Pieter Toal, Judy Emis, Sarah Nome and Richard A. Raznikov — have not yet filed, Mrs. Foster said.

Candidates for public office are required by law to file within 35 days after an election or they are ineligible to run again for public office, according to the county elections office.

Blinder listed five $50 contributions. They were from Dr. Harris Blinder, Sam and Josephine Braco, Shirley Luthman, Dr. Mervyn Sahud and Family Therapy Institute.

In the city treasurer race, incumbent winner William P. Franchini and runner-up Patrick E. McHatton did not list contributions or expenses, according to Mrs. Foster. She also said Helen J. Ragan did not list contributions or expenses in her uncontested bid retaining the city clerk job.

Vote Leader Also Leads In Spending

E. Ross Parkerson, who led the field of eight Fairfax City Council candidates in the April 11 municipal election, had the largest amount of campaign contributions, according to City Clerk Eileen L. Foster.

Parkerson, with 858 votes, listed $1,010 in campaign contributions, and liste his expenses as $1,055, Mrs. Foster said.

Runner-up in the voting with 629 votes and subsequently named mayor was Albert E. Gately, who listed $109 in contributions and $311 in expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Parkerson's largest contribution was in the form of "miscellaneous cash" of $344. Bruce Duncan also contributed $100 to the Parkerson campaign, according to Mrs. Foster. Gately's biggest contribution was $50 from Erika McQuillan.

The six losing candidtes in the race, in order of finish, filed these figures:

Adelaide P. Wilson — Contributions $291; expenses $607. Largest contribution, $82 from a fund-raising event.

Joseph E. Martinez — Contributions $635 (including $290 from his personal account); expenses $634. Largest contribution, $190 from a fund-raising event.

Harold S. Lezzini — Contributions, none listed; expenses $262.

Randall L. Garrison — Contributions $295; expenses $532. Largest contributions, $200 by fund-raising party, $50 by Short Stop Markets.

Glenn B. Meagher — Contributions, none listed; expenses $695.

Urban M. Nielsen — Contributions, none listed; exepnses $444.

In the city treasurer race, winner Priscilla C. Gray, runner-up Benjamin F. Courtz and defeated incumbent Harold H. Taft did not list campaign contributions or expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Mrs. Foster, the lone candidate for her city clerk job, also did not list campaign contributions or expenses.

First Suspended Police Captain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The commander of the Police Department's Northern Station has become the first captain in the city's history to receive a suspension.

Capt. Ernest J. Rabb, 52, a veteran of 25 years on the force, was given a one-day suspension for allegedly being "unavailable" a week ago for an antiwar protest at the federal building, the department announced Tuesday.

The suspension cost Rabb $82.90 in forfeited pay.

Novato Sewer District Awards Pump Contract

The Novato Sanitary District board has awarded C. Norman Peterson Co. of Berkeley a $519,000 contract to construct a new Olive Street pump station and improve the Marin Village pump station.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the firm was lowest of 14 bidders on the work, approved by voters in 1970 as part of a $5.5 million construction program.

Directors awarded the contract Monday night with work scheduled to start within 30 days and be completed next spring, he said.

Joseph also reported it apparently isn't economically feasible to reuse waste water on the Highway 101 bypass project as proposed by Planning Commission Chairman John C. Schoonover.

Schoonover suggested several weeks ago the district consider using the waste water for landscape irrigation.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

WILSON AVENUE — Applied to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to annex 1.9 acres at the northwest corner of Center Road and Wilson Avenue.

SUTRO AVENUE — Annexed 5.2 acres at the northwest corner of Sutro and Vineyard avenues, part of the Tamarack Estates subdivision.

PUMP REPAIR — Approved pump repair at the Novato Treatment Plant at a cost of $1,900.

SECRETARY — Ratified the appointment of Shirley Hill as administrative secretary at $573 a month.

FILL MATERIAL — Approved additional fill material for the Novato Treatment Plant at a cost of $7,000.

Accident Victim's Condition Is Good

Norman J. Judson, 54, of 81 Pine Drive, Fairfax, was listed in good condition today at Kaiser Hospital, San Rafael, after a construction barrier fell on top of him Monday at 4:55 p.m. in Fairfax.

Judson was walking at Bolinas Road and Mono Alley when a plywood panel apparently blown over by the wind hit him, police said.

Younger Plans Crime Telecasts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Justice Department may have its own television station for broadcasts to law enforcement agencies in a year or two.

The disclosure came Tuesday from state Attorney General Evelle J. Younger during a community forum on law enforcement.

Younger said the broadcasts would be used for training policemen as well as for "operational" telecasts about actual crimes.

Hearty Food For Opening Day Of Sailing

With the opening day of bay sailing scheduled for Sunday, nautical chefs must begin their planning to provide sustenance for the men, women and children who enjoy the sunny, and possibly chilly San Francisco Bay.

The members of the Raccoon Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers, who will hold their annual "Opening Day of Sailing" fete by providing a ferryboat ride in and around Sunday's yacht parade, have put together a series of dishes especially for sailors.

This year's party will include a visit to Angel Island for a picnic, and the menu includes special dishes for that event.

The feature dish, Cornish Pastys, is one that Mrs. Robert Bernheim of Belvedere, has had in her family since her mother came to the United States from Land's End in Cornwall, England, where sailing and feeding sailors is a way of life.

Since opening day will start at the Windjammer restaurant dock in Tiburon at 10:30 a.m. and will include a two-hour jaunt on the Bay, the hospital volunteers, plan on a very hungry group.

CORNISH PASTYS

4 cups all purpose flour
⅛ tsp. salt
1½ cups (or ¾ lb.) lard or shortening chilled and cut into ¼ inch bits
8-10 Tbsp. ice water

In large, chilled bowl combine flour, salt, lard or shortening. Working quickly, rub flour and lard together with finger tips until it looks like coarse meal. Pour in eight tablespoons ice water, all at once.

Gather dough into ball. If dough crumbles, add up to two more tablespoons of ice water — a teaspoon at a time until particles adhere.

Dust pastry with a little flour. Wrap in waxpaper and refrigerate for at least an hour.

On a lightly floured surface, roll out dough into a circle about one quarter inch thick. With pastry wheel or sharp knife — cut into six-inch rounds (for large pasty, cut 12-inch rounds).

FILLING

2 cups finely diced lean, boneless beef — preferably top round
1 cup coarsely chopped onions
3 cups finely diced potatoes
1½ t. salt
1 t. freshly ground black pepper
1 egg lightly beaten
½ cup chopped parsley

With large spoon, toss beef, onions, potatoes, salt, pepper and parsley together.

Place about one-fourth of mixture in center of each pasty round (put dab of butter or margarine on pasty before adding mixture). If larger rounds are used, add more filling.

Moisten edges of rounds with a pastry brush dipped in cold water.

Fold rounds in half to enclose filling completely. Press seams together firmly and crimp them with your fingers or fork.

Place pastys on baking sheet and cut two slits about 1 inch long in top of each. Brush lightly with beaten eggs and bake in center of oven for 15 minutes at 400 degrees. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes longer or until golden brown. May be served hot or cold.

Recipe makes 16 six-inch pastys. Can also be baked in pie plate.

GOLDEN MUSHROOM SOUP
(for a cold day on the Bay)

1 can consomme
1 can golden mushroom soup
1½ cans water
Sherry to taste

Serve hot in mugs. Serves six.

SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN
(picnic style)

1 chicken (fryer) or equivalent pieces - cut up
2 cups pre-sifted flour
2 tsp. salt (or 2 tsp. savory salt)
Pepper, if desired
Cooking oil

Wash chicken pieces. Shake flour and seasonings in disposable plastic bag to mix. Add chicken pieces one at a time, wet. Shake each time to cover pieces with flour. Refrigerate at least two hours (can be left overnight). When ready to cook, heat oil in deep skillet or fry pan (oil one and one half inches deep, at least).

Separate chicken pieces (some will be stuck together). Add more flour if necessary and shake till all pieces are dry with flour, Fry in hot oil until brown, turning as required. Drain cooked pieces on paper towels and allow to cool. When cool enough not to be steamy when packed, put in paper towels and pack in picnic basket. Chicken will remain crisp if not wrapped in air-tight container. Serves four.

CHILLED ARTICHOKES WITH SHRIMP

6 large artichokes
salt
½ lemon, sliced
1 Tbsp. olive oil
½ clove garlic
⅓ cup mayonnaise

Some Foods Are Standardized

Foods that have been classified standardized foods by the Food and Drug and Cosmetic Act are not required to list ingredients of the package.

Breads, rolls, jams, jellies, catsup, mayonnaise, ice cream and many canned foods have established standards. These standards are available from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

¼ cup sour cream
1½ Tbsp. grated lemon zest
¼ teaspoon salt
½ tspj dried tarragon
½ tsp. dijon mustard
½ lb. cooked bay shrimp
6 lemon wedges

Trim artichokes, put in boiling salted water with lemon slices, oil, and garlic. Simmer 45 minutes. Drain and cool. Scoop out centers, remove artichokes, drain upside down, cover and cool.

Mix mayonnaise, sour cream, lemon juice and zest, salt, tarragon and mustard. Chill. Before serving put two tablespoons dressing into each artichoke and top with butter. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serves six.

APPLESAUCE DATE CAKE

2 cups unsifted flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. allspice
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cloves (powdered)
¼ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup soft butter or margarine
2 cups hot applesauce
1 cup chopped dates
¾ cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease well and flour a 9 x 9 x 2 baking pan. Into a large bowl sift flour with soda, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, cloves and salt. Then add eggs, sugar, butter and 1 cup hot applesauce. Beat until ingredients are combined. At medium speed beat two minutes and scrape bowl often. Add remaining applesauce, dates, walnuts. Mix for one minute by hand. Pour batter into prepared pan and bake 50 minutes, or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes and remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Frost with cream cheese frosting.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

3 oz. of cream cheese - softened
1 tsp. of soft butter or margarine
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups of sifted confectioners sugar

In small bowl combine cream cheese, butter and vanilla. Mix until fluffy. Gradually add sugar. Beat at medium speed until fluffy.

Stretching It

There are many ways to "stretch" a meat loaf. Many of the stretchers also will add flavor and good nutrition. For instance, an egg or dry milk powder will add high-quality protein, tomatoes will add vitamin A and vitamin C, chopped parsley vitamin A and wheat germ, which can be used instead of bread cubes, will add important B vitamins as well as iron.

A Banana Souffle Easy As Custard

Souffles are really spectacular desserts. They look delicate and hard to make, but this cool banana souffle is as easy to make as a custard. It can be made well ahead of time and be kept in the refrigerator until dessert time.

Bananas make this souffle especially rich in flavor and creamy smooth. You serve a warm buttered rum sauce on top of the cool souffle. Friends and family will be impressed with this bananas gone gourmet recipe — it's truly spectacular!

COOL BANANA SOUFFLE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ cups orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
6 large eggs, separated
4 bananas, mashed (about 2 cups)
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup powdered sugar

Mix gelatin, sugar and salt in saucepan; stir in orange juice and peel. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly. Grdually stir part of hot orange juice into egg yolks; then return mixture to pan. Over low heat, bring to a boil and simmer several minutes. Cool to lukewarm. Add bananas. Beat egg whites, then whipped cream, into banana mixture. Spoon into one and a half quart souffle dish. Chill several hours or overnight. Serve with Buttered Rum Sauce.

(To make a collar for souffle dish, tear off a piece of foil about 25 inches long; fold lengthwise, into thirds. Lightly brush with oil. Wrap around top of dish. Tape ends to hold securely.)

BUTTERED RUM SAUCE

⅓ cup butter
1½ cups brown sugar
3 tbsps. light corn syrup
⅓ cup milk or light cream
¼ cup dark rum

In saucepan, combine ingredients except rum. Heat until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat. Stir in rum. Cool to lukewarm. Spoon over banana souffle.

Never Too Young To Savor An Artichoke

Introduce your toddler to a new vegetable flavor. Prepare an artichoke timbale for baby, and stuff artichokes with a savory mixture featuring French onion crackers for the rest of the family.

SAVORY STUFFED ARTICHOKES

5 medium artichokes
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ cup finely chopped celery
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
45 French onion crackers, finely rolled (about 1⅓ cups crumbs)
1 (2¾-ounce) package pine nuts or 1 (2½-ounce) package slivered almonds
⅓ cup finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon paprika
Dash pepper

Protein Source

An egg is an excellent source of high quality protein, vitavin A and iron, according to General Fodds nutritionists. The average egg supplies 80 calories and can be cooked a variety of ways: scrambled, soft-cooked, deviled, poached, baked or fried.

Vegetable oil

Wash artichokes; trim stems and pull off and discard tough outside leaves at the base. Cut off about one inch from tops of artichokes upright in a deep saucepan just big enough to fit snugly. Add salt, lemon juice and enough water to cover.

Cook, covered, 30 to 45 minutes or until base is tender. Remove and drain upside down on absorbent toweling. Spread leaves open slightly and remove fuzzy thistle and tiny inner leaves with the tip of a teaspoon.

Reserve one artichoke for Artichoke Tiny Timbale. Cook celery in butter until tender. Add the next five ingredients; toss to mix thoroughly. Spoon into centers of four artichokes. Place in baking dish. Brush leaves with oil; cover and heat in preheated slow oven (325 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with melted butter for dipping leaves. Makes four servings.

'Fully Cooked'

"Fully-cooked" hams may be served unheated. Full flavor is developed, however, by heating the ham in a slow oven to 140 degrees.

This Oatmeal Bread — Real Home Winner

FRUITED OATMEAL BREAD

1 cake (1 ounce) yeast or 1 package dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup quick-cooking oats
¼ cup melted lard
° cup molasses
2 teaspoons salt
5½ to 6 cups flour
½ cup chopped candied fruit
½ cup raisins

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Pour boiling water over oats. Add melted lard, molasses and salt to oat mixture. Cool until lukewarm. Add yeast and mix well. Stir in one-third of flour, then fruit and raisins. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough, stirring to mix.

Knead lightly on a lightly floured board. Place in a greased bowl, cover, set in a warm place and let rise until double in bulk. Punch down and divide dough in half, shape and place in two greased 5 x 9-inch loaf pans. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 to 50 minutes or until done.

New Combo: Nutty Peanut Butter Bread

Let's face it. Some of us like to eat peanut butter by the spoonful. But admittedly we're in the minority. Over half of all peanut butter eaten annually in the United States is eaten in the form of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. The average shopper buys at least one loaf of bread each week and a jar of peanut butter every 2.8 weeks.

For an at-home peanut and bread duo, try this recipe for nutty peanut butter bread: Slice one roung (one-pound) loaf of bread vertically five to seven times nearly to bottom of crust; then slice five to seven times in the opposite direction. Place the bread on aluminum foil and curve it around the base of the bread, then place bread in a shallow baking pan. Melt half cup of margarine in a saucepan over low heat. Stir in 2 tablespoons Skippy peanut butter and three-quarter cup of light corn syrup. Spoon over top and sides of loaf dribbling mixture down all cut edges. Sprinkle half cup chopped peanuts into cut edges and on top. Place in 300-degree (slow) oven for 15 minutes or until heated through.

Sweet, Sour Pineapple Pork Plate

In sweet and sour pineapple pork, the meat is served in a clear, delicately thickened sauce. Pineapple chunks and juice add flavor and the dish is given color accent by the addition of tomato and bits of crisp green pickle.

SWEET AND SOUR PINEAPPLE PORK

1 pound boneless pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
Corn starch
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 cup pineapple chunks
¾ cup pineapple juice
½ cup cut up sweet pickle
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn starch
¼ cup vinegar
1 medium tomato, cut into chunks

Coat pork with corn starch. Heat corn oil in skillet over medium heat. Add meat; saute until browned and tender, about 15 minutes. Add pineapple, apple juice, pickle, soy sauce and salt. Bring to boil. Then, with a spoon, blend one tablespoon corn starch with the vinegar. Stir into mixture in skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add tomato; heat. Makes four servings.

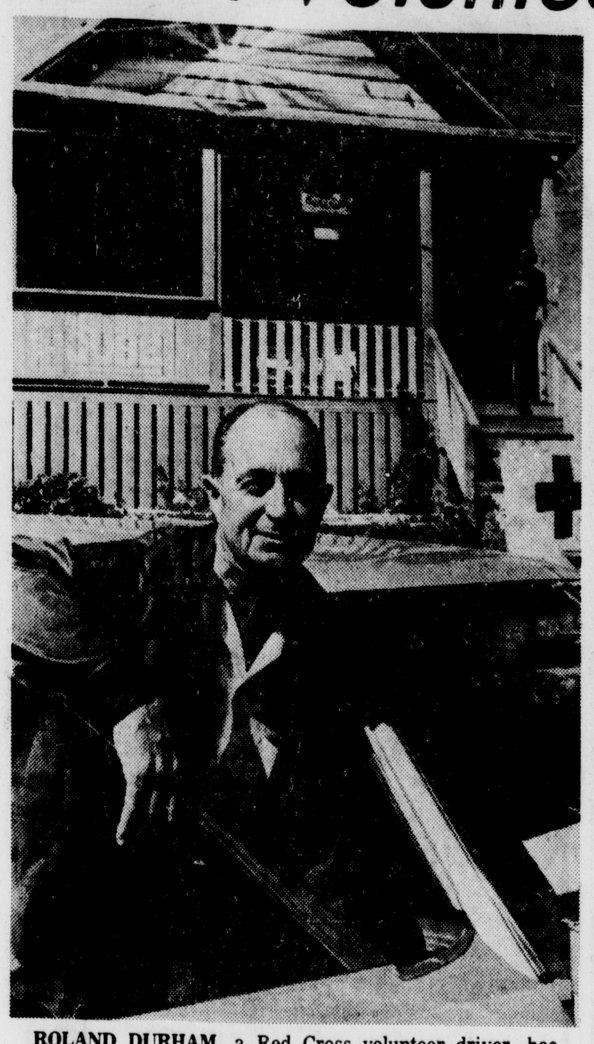
Marin Volunteers Honored



ROLAND DURHAM, a Red Cross volunteer driver, has been selected as one of three volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County. Much of this time is spent driving families visiting inmates to and from the House at San Quentin and doing repair work at the House.

A retired tugboat captain, an 85-year-old grandmother and a convalescent hospital patient have been named volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County.

Roland Durham, of San Rafael, the former tugboat captain, was honored for his participation in many projects that involve driving persons without transportation to appointments. Mrs. Sara Mullaly also of San Rafael and known as Grandma, has been a volunteer with the Marin Easter Seal Society for eight years, and Fred Zimbeck, a resident of Rafael Convalescent Hospital, operates a telephone service for shut-ins.

A native of San Rafael, Durham has been a Red Cross motor services volunteer for three years, driving at least 40 hours a month. As part of the Wheels of Marin project he takes people to medical and therapy appointments both in Marin and San Francisco.

For the past two months he has been a volunteer at the House at San Quentin. He drives families who visit inmates to and from the House and the bus station and takes inmates who are on temporary passes, to the bus so they can go job hunting. Between driving assignments he does repairs to the House.

Durham was praised by a member of the Red Cross staff for his dependability, willingness and sensitivity.

MRS. SARA MULLALY
Volunteer of the year

Mrs. Mullaly recently ran the 50-yard dash to set an example for a handicapped child. Her efforts at 85 were successful in motivating the child. Another activity for the Easter Seal recreation program was crocheting 60 Easter baskets this year. She is associated with the senior citizens group at Marinwood Recreation Center.

Last month Mrs. Mullaly accompanied four teen-age girls to Disneyland because they needed a chaperon. She is always "right there in case of an emergency" according to friends, who may need just a visit or to have their animals cared for in an emergency.

FOR HIS project TeleCare, a telephone service for shut-ins, Fred Zimbeck was honored as one of three volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County. A resident of Rafael Convalescent Hospital, Zimbeck calls clients daily to see if they are all right and has organized other hospital patients, who also make the calls.

Fred Zimbeck got together several other patients at Rafael Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael and organized TeleCare, a telephone service for shutins. They call clients at the same time every day to see that they are all right and summon help if there is no answer to the calls.

TeleCare began in November and is sponsored by the Marin County Department of Public Social Service's volunteer service. He said his only problem, operating the project, is to find more persons that he can serve by calling.

Boyd Marin Museum of Science was named agency of the year by the Volunteer Bureau for its "innovative use of voluntary help," according to Mrs. R. M. D. Childs, past president of the bureau.

The museum uses young persons, trained in veterinary medicine, to care for the animals, trains docents to discuss the museum's work in the public schools and has 12 guilds whose members raise funds for the museum.

Volunteers Given Pins

Eight members of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers were presented with pins in March to mark 100 hours of volunteer service to the hospital.

They included Mrs. M. E. Rickenbaugh and Mrs. Frank Tavel, San Rafael; Miss Anne Danielson, Kentfield; Miss Jane Kirschbaum, Belvedere; Miss Mary Riley, Novato; Miss Karen McGee and Mrs. R. L. Taylor, San Anselmo, and Mrs. Neil Munro, Mill Valley.

Ten volunteers received 200-hour pins, including Mrs. Richard Bradshaw and Miss Marsha Brandhorst, San Rafael; Miss Betty Cheesewright, Kentfield; Miss Mary Duhme, Mrs. Michael Linwood and Mrs. David Smith, Tiburon; Mrs. Frances Elvebak, Greenbrae; Mrs. William Findeisen and Mrs. Francis Keane, Mill Valley, and Mrs. Michael Morfe, Corte Madera.

Mrs. Ole Christensen, San Rafael, received a 300-hour award, while five volunteers — — Mrs. Whitman Alger, Tiburon; Mrs. Michael DeVinck, Greenbrae; Robert Disher, Terra Linda; Mrs. Richard Franks, Corte Madera, and Mrs. LeRoy French, Ross — were presented with pins for 400 hours of service.

Mrs. Hugo Bjork, Kentfield; Mrs. Harry Gibbon, Greenbrae, and Mrs. Richard Ives and Mrs. Harriet Massoni, San Rafael, received 500-hour pins.

Marin Women

Hospital Volunteers Select New Officers

Mrs. Donald E. Murray of San Rafael will begin as chairman of the Marin General Hospital Council of Volunteers on July 1. She began working as a volunteer at the hospital in the spring of 1953 and since that time has served on the scholarship committee, as a Pink Lady in-service volunteer, a member of the Peacock Branch of MGH Volunteers and was vice chairman of the Council of Volunteers for the past two years.

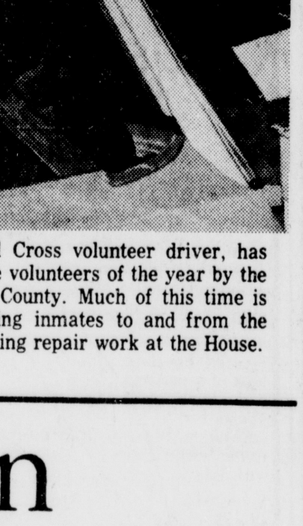
The council's purpose is to develop, maintain, coordinate and direct the efforts and activities of the volunteers, designated to advance the service of the hospital as a community health center, according to the chairman.

"More than 1,200 Marin County women serve voluntarily both inside and outside the hospital," Ann Murray said. "The in-service group helps make the patients' days more pleasant through the priceless gift of time and dependability. The branches assist in fund raising to help purchase needed medical equipment for the hospital."

Membership is open to anyone in the community, including young men and women who are interested in becoming volunteers.

Ann Murray has also been a director of the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club and president of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

A native of Santa Cruz, she has lived in Marin since childhood and was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended Dominican College. Her husband is senior vice president and a director of the Bank of Marin, and they are the parents of Don Jr., Lora Lee, Richard and Sheran Ann Murray and have a granddaughter, Samantha Ann.



MRS. DONALD MURRAY
Leads volunteers

Mrs. Murray said that the hospital is her favorite hobby, and family activities have top priority for her time. She said she enjoys sailing with her husband, and tennis and riding are her favorite sports.

Mrs. Milton D. Drueger of San Rafael will serve as vice chairman of the council. Mrs. Samuel Farber of Mill Valley is secretary and Mrs. John Fiske of San Rafael, treasurer.

Serving Melon

To enjoy melon at its best, store in room temperature until fully ripe. Then peel and cut into convenient chunks or slices and refrigerate in a tightly covered container to prevent transfer of odors. With pulp and peeling removed, melon will retain top texture and flavor longer.

Bathrobe Style For Little Girls

Popular coats for little girls, come fall, will be in two styles, according to Women's Wear Daily. Over pants, the popular style will be all weather short jackets with hoods, and with boots girls will prefer the long, bathrobe style.

The ready-to-wear trade newspaper predicts that bath robe styles in heavy wool plaid with fake fur trim and the short style done in nylon and trimmed in quilting will be best sellers.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Vanity Mwght Plunge By Mentioning The Hair Dye Job

DEAR HELEN:

My husband, at 28, is prematurely balding. He bought a hair piece last year and we think it looks great. At over $200, it should!

We haven't made a big secret of this, but most of our friends and relatives don't mention what looks so natural: it's a part of Dan.

. . .All except this one woman who, when recent acquaintances are around, always manages to give Dan a "compliment" on his new hair. Maybe she's just tactless, but I detect a smug look on her face when she sees a few people are surprised. Could be she's jealous, as her husband could stand some improvements, too. And so could she, in spite of a dye job and false eyelashes.

Telling her to cool it might only inspire her to more remarks. She's the type. What's a good, clever comeback? — HAIRASSED

DEAR HAIRASSED:

Why doesn't your husband, while acknowledging her "compliments" look her deep in the eyes and say, "Thanks, luv, but did you know your false eyelash is flapping?" Or perhaps you could note her new dye job.

A few allusions to her "transformations" should get the message across. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Years ago my wife was a sweet, devoted family woman. I may have taken her for granted, until the "affair" at her office cost her job.

Since then I have tried to give her all the things that might have been lacking: love, attention, compliments, the wine-and-dine bit. I even do most of the home chores and cooking, as she has a new job now.

But she rejects me, says we're too old to be "lovey-dovey," and she doesn't want affection. Her work is all-important to her. I'm scorned and ridiculed. Yet I still love and want her.

We tried a marriage counselor. He charged $400, and my wife said he was crazy.

Since she all but throws me out of the house, I've been going to a club where I've met a widow I admire very much. Things are still cool, but momentum could gather very easy. She's well off, and is used to the country club set, while I'm just an average guy. I'm flattered —and attracted!

But my marriage of 23 years means a lot to me. Why does a man keep on wanting a woman who seemingly hates him? I'e never been unfaithful. My wife has, though I never mention it. Should I keep a perfect track record, or try for the next best thing? — UNDECIDED

DEAR UN:

Why not asu your wife? Perhaps if she realizes she may lose you, she'll start working at her marriage again.

If she doesn't, then perhaps you've drifted so far apart there's no returning. A trial separation might give you both needed time to think. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I gave our daughter a birthday party and, naturally, she blew out the candles on her cake.

One of the mothers present wouldn't let her son eat any of the cake because of germs! She said blowing out candles can deposit them all over the frosting and she couldn't take chances. Our Cindy didn't even have a cold!

Isn't this too much? — BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED:

A mother this health-conscious shouldn't have allowed her son to attend the party: Think of all those nasty, swarming germs each time a kid breathes his way!

. . .Poor boy! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Join The Experts Who Can't Agree On Water

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you are not sure about what effect the water you drink is having on you, you are in good company. Even the most noted experts cannot agree.

Many of them were here last week for the Sixth International Water Quality Symposium, sponsored by the Water Quality Research Council, a private non-profit group.

For every speaker who warned of health dangers lurking in the popular colorless liquid, there was at least another who priased its value for almost anything that ails you.

Those who were critical of soft water cited studies that have shown death rates higher in soft-water areas. But at least one friend of soft water said his tests showed just the opposite correlation: lower death rates in soft-water areas.

ANOTHER TOPIC of dispute was the effect of minerals in water on human health. Dr. Henry A. Schroeder, a professor at Dartmouth Medical School, said he was concerned about the presence of cadmium in acid water and corrosive hard water.

He said the toxic metal, which has been linked with heart disease and hardening of the arteries in animals, is leached from both galvanized and black plastic pipes.

He calls cadmium a serious hazard to human health, especially because it builds up in the body and is not excreted.

He said one way to reduce the presence of the metal in tap water is to allow the faucet to run for a while before using water in the morning. He also warned against cooking with hot water because it picks up more cadmium than cold water does.

Another way to reduce cadmium is to install a deionizer, a type of water softener, under the kitchen sink.

Another speaker, however, emphasized the positive value of metals in water. Dr. Robert Kunin, an official of Rohn and Haas Co., said they were not at toxic levels yet and many were essential to normal life processes.

ONE PARTICIPANT suggested that cancer-causing substances are present in water, particularly radium. Dr. Mitchell R. Zavon, an official at the Huntington Research Center in Towson, Md., estimates that 75 per cent of all cancer is of environmental origin.

But if the problem is radium, he said, the answer is simple. It is installation of a water softener. He called the ion-exchange softener in common usage 99 per cent effective in removing radium.

A broader, optimistic viewpoint was presented by Edward A. Lew, a vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He reported an increase in life expectancy at birth of about .7 of a year over the last decade.

He concluded that water pollution has had no adverse effect on over-all human health.

A Canadian doctor, Dr. Terence W. Anderson, declared that some mystery element in water may contribute to heart disease.

For another speaker, however, water is a powerful therapeutic for many ailments. Dr. Anna Kara of Cornell Medical College was ecstatic about the benefits of warm tap water for such ills as arthritis, hypertension and nervousness.

Coffee, Pastry Not Adequate Meal

A breakfast of coffee and doughnuts is not adequate, according to nutritionists at General Foods. This breakfast is so low in nutrients that a midmorning slump will be noticeable.

Plan an adequate breakfast around the "basic four" and include foods from each category: meat or eggs, fruit, milk and bread or cereal. A well-balanced breakfast provides important nutrition and will help dispel the midmorning slump.

Bellbottoms Are Most Popular

The average high school girl spends $302.63 per year on clothes, according to a survey conducted by Seventeen magazine. For college freshman girls the figure increased to $318.50.

Bellbottoms were the single most popular apparel purchase in 1971, the survey showed.

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Vote" it says in big letters against a red, white and blue background of stars and stripes.

A political slogan? Not really. It is the latest fad for 18-year-olds who are getting to vote this year for the first time—a political print which, according to the men's clothing trade papers is a manifestation of "awareness fashion."

The first such awareness fashion came along at the height of protests against the Vietnam War when teen-agers went into army fatigues printed with military symbols and made khaki and jungle camouflage prints high fashion fabrics.

THE NEXT stage was the magic word "ecology" which suddenly came into prominence and brought with it a sunburst of ecology prints — butterflies, clouds, animals, printed slogans. Natural looking fabrics were in and so were earth colors.

But 1972 is an election year and the 18-year-olds are hopped up at the thought of voting and the enthusiasm shows itself in bright patriotic prints, mostly with stars and stripes but also a lot of elephants, which might be some sort of omen.

The exhortation to vote turns up on T-shirts, sweatshirts, jeans, ties, shoes, socks, sweater, all printed in red, white and blue as if this were the first election ever held in the United States—which it is, of course, for the 18-year-olds.

THEY ARE not exactly what you would wear to the office but are for such occasions as a beach party or hot fudge sunday at the neighborhood ice cream parlor. But they do reflect great enthusiasm over the next election.

One textile association, the American Printed Fabrics Council, has put together a traveling fashion show in a 40-foot van which will tell the political print story in cities and on campuses all over the country.

Eleanor McRae, 69 Keeps On Learning

By DIANE CURTIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When Eleanor McRae arrived in San Francisco on the Fourth of July in 1946, she was 44 years old and had a fourth grade education. Now, after 16 years in the San Francisco Adult Schools, she is a 69-year-old high school graduate who wants to keep on learning.

"I could have sat down and not used my brains," the smiling Mrs. McRae said. "But you're a pitiful person if you see something you don't have and you don't try to get it."

WHAT MRS. McRae didn't have was an education. Splitting rails, driving a wagon, milking cows and picking cotton on her stepfather's Alabama farm didn't give a young black girl much time for going to school.

Time was counted in seasons, not semesters. And although her mother and stepfather were willing to teach their 10 children to read and write, "being youngsters, we wanted to learn at school if we learned at all," she explained.

In her 20s and married to a man who could read and write, Mrs. McRae decided it was time to "do things for myself and not always have to be asking." She sought out her Baptist minister who, she said, gave her lessons and she was writing in three weeks.

Her newfound ability to read allowed her to begin perusal of her favorite book—the Bible.

Mrs. McRae's search for education has been with no particular goal in mind. She just knew there were things she didn't know and felt she should find out what they were.

She said that if she had started her quest earlier, she would have been "a musician or something like that." Presently she sings in a choir and teaches a Bible class at her church.

Although she received her diploma at the John Adams Adult School last month, Mrs. McRae said she has no intention of quitting now. She is taking a math class and a sewing class—for learning's sake.

"There is nothing I can get from my diploma," she said. "But I hope that I will be an example to young people to get off the streets and make an honest living.

"You have to try to keep on getting something from life."

Completes Training

Heidy Sue Burman of Kentfield has completed training and is now a flight attendant with World Airways of Oakland. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Burman of Kentfield, she is a graduate of the College of Marin.

Six Guests Announced For Next A.M. Series

The series of six lecture programs in the A.M. Series has been announced for Marin County's 1972-1973 season.

The series will open Oct. 20 with demonstration of gourmet meals by cookbook author James Beard, who will describe "The Art of Entertaining."

Subsequent programs will feature Alex Haley on his search to trace his family history to a small tribe in Africa; Claire Boothe Luce speaking about public affairs and politics; James Deakin on "The Power Struggle in Washington"; Frances and Wayne Ward, a husband and wife acting team, dramatizing the writings of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, and reminiscences by ballerina Moira Shearer.

The latter program will close with an afternoon showing of her film, "The Red Shoes."

Formerly presented for four years under the sponsorship of the Family Service League of Marin, the A.M. Series next year will not be sponsored by the local group next season.

Mrs. Wilma Lewis, coordinator of A.M. for Northern California, said that season memberships are currently on sale through the Marin Memorial Box Office at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

A MARIN PROJECT

Identification Markings To Make It Rough On Burglars

A young man walks into a pawn shop with a toaster, trying to hock it for $10.

Just as the cash is about to change hands the toaster ejects a small card saying "I am the property of Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue." The pawnbroker asks the stranger to prove ownership of the appliance and calls police when he flees.

Across town a new tape player is being offered at substantial savings during a well-advertised garage sale. One potential customer pushes the "play" button and is startled to hear the machine booming, "Return me to 101 Front Street, I have been stolen."

These little scenarios are not as far-fetched as they may seem. In fact, the picture took one step closer to reality today when "Operation Identification" was launched at the April meeting of the Marin County Police Chiefs Association.

The idea is to mark all property indelibly, saying whom it belongs to, preferably through the use of a driver's license number. Sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents Association of Marin, the program is geared to hamper the sale and facilitate the return of stolen property.

Leroy J. Wilkie, president of the association, said the group will be giving engraving kits, with revolving etching tips, to police departments in Marin County for loan to homeowners.

The insurance companies recommend using a driver's license number for the convenience of policemen. Drivers can be indentified quickly through a statewide police computer network.

Along with the etching, property owners will be encouraged to place labels on marked items, and their front door, stating goods have been marked for "Operation Identification."

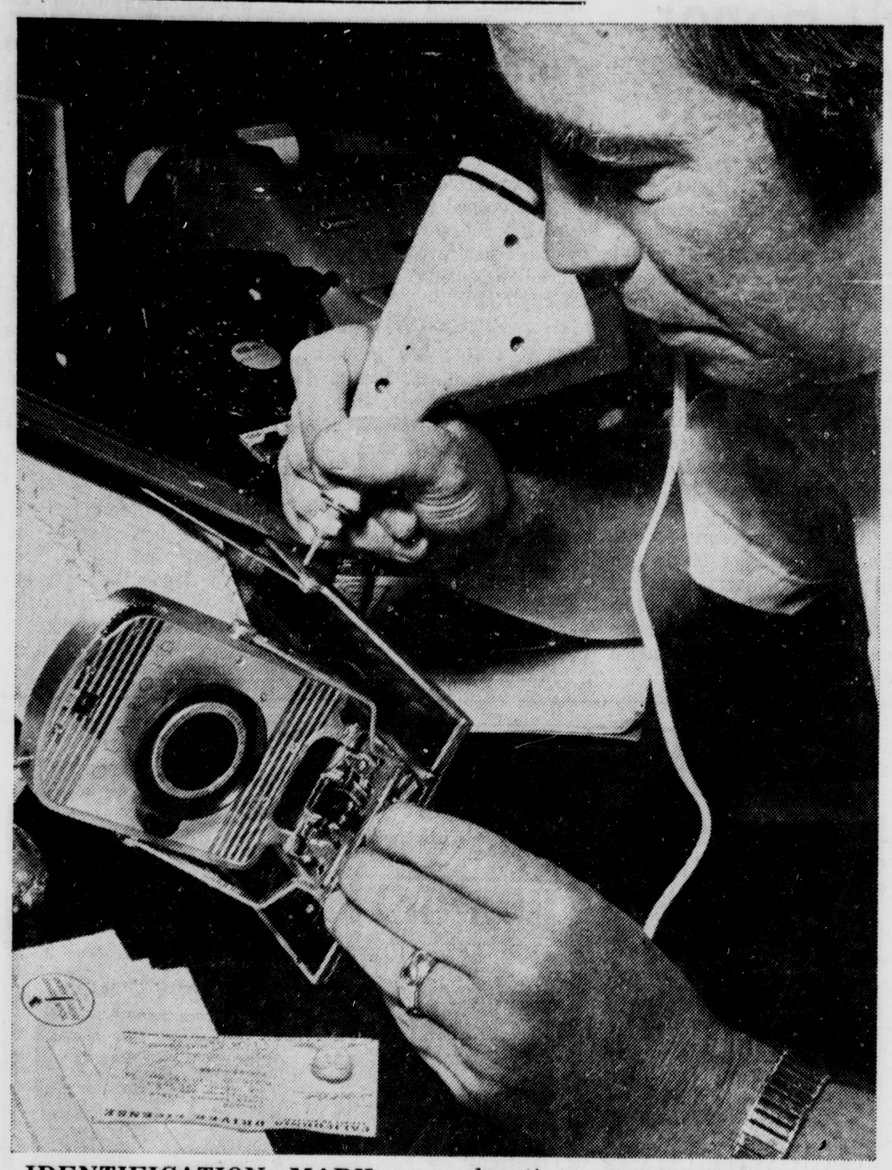
Wilkie said the idea was not new, but had met with great success in other parts of the country, and had been promoted through law enforcement magazines.

The insurance carriers belonging to the insurance agents association paid for the engraving kits, valued at about $20 apiece, to encourage local police departments to take part.

An insurance man said yesterday premium rates probably would not be lowered by participation in the project.

Wilkie said pawnbrokers will not deal in goods that are marked in this way, and that many "fences" (middlemen in the underworld) also refuse to handle marked goods.

He also said it would improve chances of return if objects are stolen, noting that many police departments recover stolen property only to auction it off later because they can't discover the owner's name.



IDENTIFICATION MARK — Leroy K. Wilkie, president of the Independent Insurance Agents of Marin, copies his driver's license number on a camera support hinge. The insurance group is donating engraving tools like this one to police departments in the county to facilitate residents marking their belongings as part of "Operation Identification."

All Supervisor Hopefuls To Air Views Tomorrow

All nine candidates for the Marin County Board of Supervisors are scheduled to appear at a candidates' night at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the meeting room of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building, San Rafael.

The session is sponsored by the Irate Taxpayers of Marin.

The candidates, vying in the June 6 election, will be asked their positions on such issues as county spending, Civic Center security, the proposed countywide general plan, agricultural preserves, proposed formation of a countywide or regional park and open space district and regional government, including control over the coastline.

The contestants are incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Dr. William J. Filante and Barbara Boxer in the Second District; incumbent Michael Wornum and Rev. Samuel J. Banks Jr. in the Third District and Gary T. Giacomini, Patricia T. Maginnis, James Dougan and Michael R. Peevey in the Fourth District.

Sausalito Ferry Plans Endorsed

Two-Terminal Idea Has $5.7 Million Price Tag

A master plan envisioning two Sausalito ferry terminals and related facilities costing up to $5.7 million was unanimously endorsed yesterday by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The building and operating committee recommended only that the full board approve the plan for reaction by Sausalito officials but not the projected cost.

Board president Lowell Edington of Napa County suggested that just the $1.7 million estimated for a downtown terminal may be too rich for the district's budget.

The plan was drawn by Environmental Planning and Design Associates of Sausalito under a $25,000 contract with the district. The estimates presented by Roland B. Mays of the firm also included $1.9 million at a terminal in Northern Sausalito and $2.1 million for underground parking at the downtown terminal.

The total cost was almost 350 per cent higher than estimates by district officials last year when they filed an application for a federal grant for the ferry system. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring commented, however, that the plan by Mays was "more elaborate than what we envisioned."

The plan also was more costly because it proposed improvements which could not be included in the application for a federal grant, such as a possible underground parking lot for 305 cars, Luehring said.

The downtown terminal would be on the same side of the sandspit as the old ferry Berkeley and the Sausalito Yacht Club, both of which would be displaced by bay fill for the terminal. The North Sausalito terminal would be outboard of the district's existing lot south of the Big G supermarket.

Mays recommended the district go ahead with development of the downtown terminal, and build the northern terminal only after securing agreements for joint development of parking, commercial and residential facilities with the city and adjacent property owners. The underground parking lot at the downtown terminal also would depend on city action, perhaps through its parking assessment district, Mays said.

Each terminal would accommodate two of the 165-foot ferries being planned for construction by the district. Passenger waiting areas would be landscaped extensively, with partial protection from poor weather. Public access would be provided to the tip of the triangular downtown terminal.

Parking in Lot No. 1 would be cut from 180 to 110 cars, and Park Street would be closed, according to the plan. The parking lot would be eliminated if an underground lot were built.

Both Gate Five Road and Marinship Way would be widened in the area of the northern terminal, and a new road linking the two would be built. Parking would be provided for 320 cars.

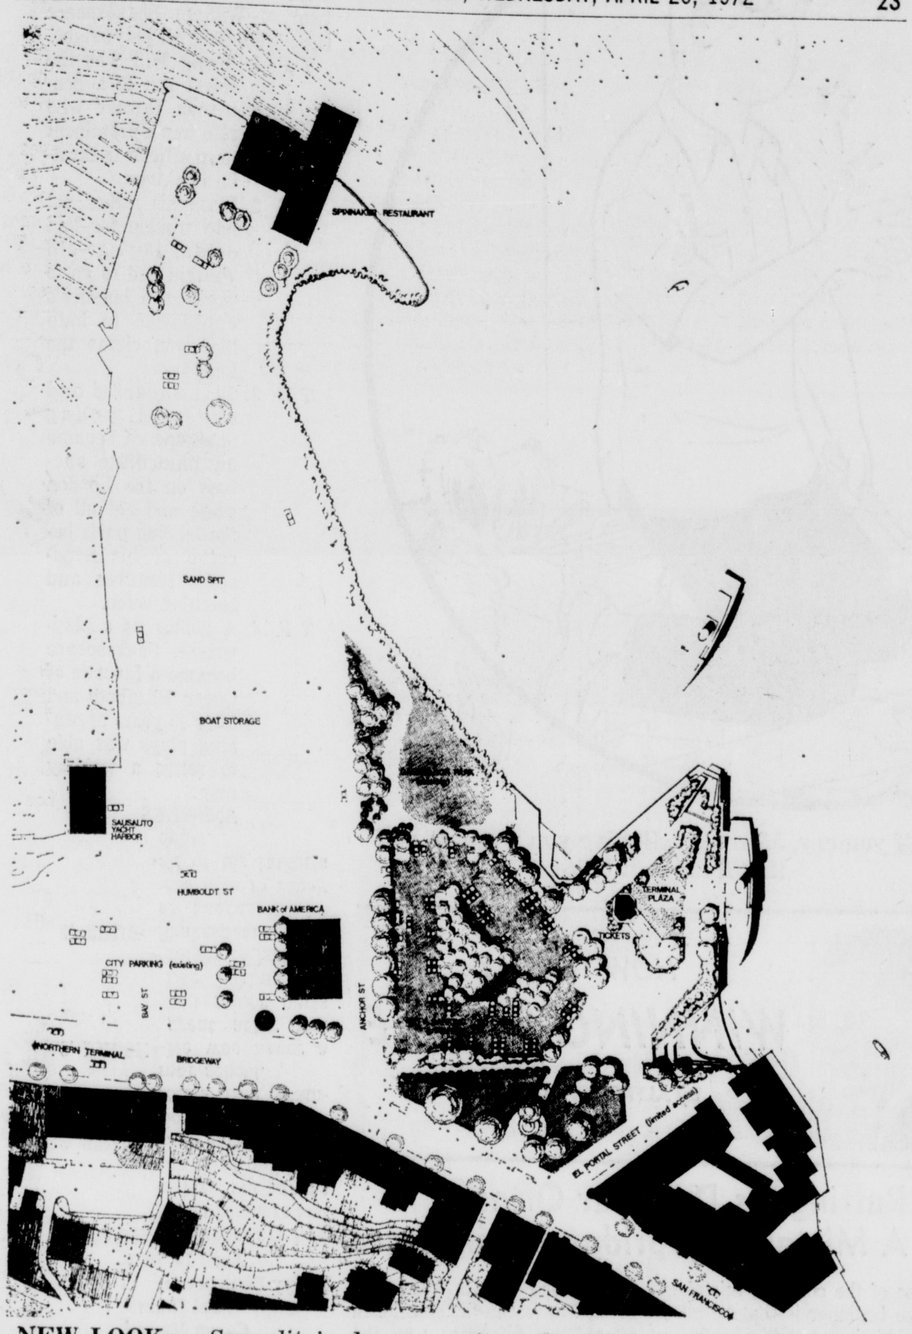
The cost estimates by Mays included $506,000 to buy the downtown terminal property and $544,923 to buy the northern terminal property. The downtown property is owned by the city, but part of it is leased to Herbert Madden. The northern property is divided among several owners.

The proposed displacement of the old ferry Berkeley from its downtown site was contrary to preliminary plans presented by Mays in February. At that time he said it could remain without interfering with district operations.

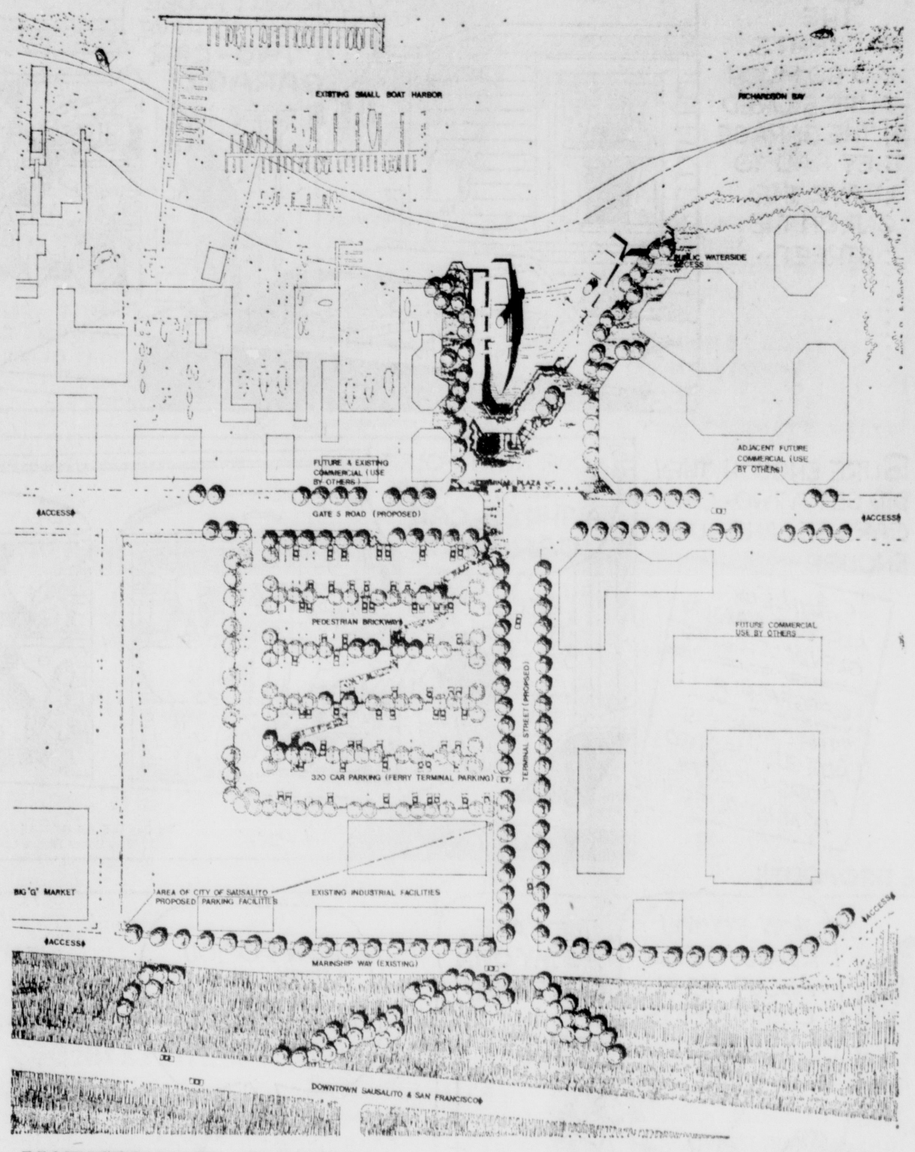
The committee also recommended a proposal by the San Francisco architectural and planning firm of Braccia-Debrer-Heglund to do a master plan for the Larkspur ferry terminal for $134,940. All but $51,000 of this sum would go to subcontracting engineers, landscape architects and other consultants.

The firm estimated that total consulting fees on the $5 million terminal would be about $500,000.

The new ferry system is to start operating by the spring of 1974.



NEW LOOK — Sausalito's downtown waterfront would be altered considerably by the addition of a permanent ferry terminal on the sand spit. The yacht club and old ferry Berkeley would be removed to make room for the terminal on new bay fill. Parking Lot No. 1 would be landscaped with trees and "grasscrete," a novel system allowing grass to grow up between cracks in concrete blocks.



MAINTENANCE TERMINAL — A Marinship terminal, shown here, would be used primarily for maintenance and night docking of ferries, with commuter service probably limited to peak traffic hours. Residential development will expand greatly in the area, however, bringing more commuters to the terminal, according to Golden Gate Bridge District consultants.

Driver Is Slain By Single Shot In Bridge Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Gregory T. Dimick, miffed by the insistent honking of the car behind his, stopped on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

"Pull over," he shouted to three men in a yellow car. "We might as well settle it here and now."

A single shot rang out.

"I've been shot," gasped Dimick, slumping into the lap of a girl friend. Blood poured from a head wound.

Another passenger in Dimick's car took the wheel and drove to the Toll Plaza. The 22-year-old motorist died before he arrived at a hospital.

The yellow car crossed the bridge ahead of the Dimick vehicle and has not been traced.

Police said they still don't know what initiated the fatal Monday night incident.

Judge Hands Out Short Jail Terms In Pot Packaging Case

Two persons, arrested last July in a Tamalpais Valley marijuana packaging operation, have been sentenced to short jail terms and a third has pleaded guilty to being in a place where drugs are used.

Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on Monday sentenced Clifford Michael McClure, 25, of 407 Ash Street, to six months in the county jail and five years probation on a reduced felony charge of possessing marijuana.

Linda Ann LaBaum, 23, of the same address, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and one year of probation for possessing amphetamines when agents raided the house.

A third person arrested in the raid, Anthony Bonico Mandracchia, 23, of no known address, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of being in a place where drugs are used and sentencing was set for June 12.

All three were originally charged with possessing marijuana for sale and possessing marijuana plus charges of having various other drugs, but each agreed to plead guilty to lesser charges.

They were arrested July 19 during a raid in which more than 200 pounds of marijuana and two machines for packaging it were seized. Agents said they believed the packing machines were the first ever seized in the United States. The marijuana was broken down into 111 kilo bricks, all packed and wrapped in brown paper.

According to the probation report, McClure traveled to Kansas and Nebraska and harvested a large quantity of wild marijuana in a field.

Judge Gardiner called it a "very careful, deliberate plan to become a large merchandiser of marijuana," but turned down advice of Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith Jr. that McClure be sent to state prison on the selling charge.

Charges against a fourth person arrested in the raid were dismissed last month when a superior court judge ruled his car had been searched illegally.

A Burial Wish Is Carried Out

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A retired chef and his dog were buried together Tuesday. It was the master's wish.

Horace Lee Edwards, 71, had lived alone with his dog for 22 years, since it was a pup. He expressed the wish that when he died the dog be buried with him.

Members of Edwards' family put the mutt to death Monday after Edwards' death following a long illness. It was placed at its master's feet in his coffin.

Five Plead Guilty To Drug Counts

Five persons arrested in 1970 in connection with the sale of 20 kilos of marijuana have pleaded guilty to various drug law violations and three have been sentenced in Marin Superior Court.

Following a negotiated settlement which included the guilty pleas, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced Gerald Keith Smith, 22, of San Anselmo, to six months in jail concurrent with a jail term in Napa and three years probation for felony sale of marijuana.

Virginia Jane Lucas, 27, of San Anselmo, and John Albert Lucas, 28, of Sausalito, each was ordered to pay a $500 fine after pleading guilty to misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Eric De St. Aubin, 36, of no known address, and Peter Lasoff, 25, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty to the felony sale count and sentencing was set for June 12.

The five were arrested after narcotics agents arranged to buy marijuana at a store in Tamalpais Valley, then were led to a home in San Anselmo to complete the transaction.

Giant Sports Show Will Open Tomorrow

Everything in the sports field, — from backpacking to boating and flying to mountain climbing — will be demonstrated or displayed tomorrow through Sunday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building and parking lot.

The Marin Sports Show is the result of two years' planning by Explorer Post 15 of San Anselmo, said Terry C. Halbert, executive director of the show. It will run 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and Friday, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

On display, Halbert said, will be such things as boats, campers, trailers, backpacking and camping equipment, dune buggies, sports cars and even an airplane.

The plane is a Piper belonging to Marin Aviation at Gnoss Field that will be flown to the auditorium's parking lot by pilot Michael Gates early tomorrow.

State and national park officials will show movies in the auditorium.

Lute Jurstad, one of a party of five that climbed Mount Everest in 1963, will lecture and show movies on the climb tomorrow night in the auditorium.

Not to be outdone, the San Anselmo Ascenders, members of Explorer Post 15, will demonstrate the technique of rock climbing on 60-foot towers in the parking lot. Demonstrations will be held each day.

The Coast Guard will show a movie on boating knowledge on Friday and Saturday, and a special craft called the Windsurf will be demonstrated on the Civic Center lagoon each day. The craft is a sail-outfitted surfboard.

The Foley and Burke carnival also will be on hand at the show.

Cost of the show to the post has been $10,000, raised by the troop itself with a portion donated by Halbert's father, Clayton. The Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America guaranteed to back the group, but the support has not been needed, Halbert said.

The post also has collected money from the exhibitors and the carnival, he said, and there will be a gate charge for persons over 12, he said.

Ruffing As Declarer Often A Mistake By Bridge Beginner

One of the common mistakes of the beginner is that he goes out of his way to ruff when he is declarer. In this situation there is seldom an advantage in ruffing with your own trumps. You may gain by ruffing with dummy's trumps, but you expect your own trumps to be good in any case; and you prefer to keep them as long as you can in order to keep control of the play. There are, however, exceptions to this rule.

POSSIBLE TRUMPS

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South counted losers: one spade, one diamond and possibly two trumps.

There would be no escape from these losers if declarer drew trumps in the normal way. South planned, instead, to make tricks with all of his small trumps by ruffing.

BEGINS AT ONCE

Declarer began his plan at once by taking the ace of diamonds, leading a club to the ace and ruffing a club. Then he led the king of hearts to drive out East's ace.

East returned a diamond to dummy's king, and declarer ruffed another low club. Now South drew two rounds of trumps with the queen and jack. If the trumps happened to break 3-3, there would be no further problem.

As it happened, the trumps broke 4-2. This meant that declarer was sure to lose two trump tricks.

CASHED ACE

South's preliminary work now stood him in good stead. He cashed the ace and king of spades and led dummy's last club.

East couldn't gain by ruffing, for then South would discard his losing spade. Therefore, when East discarded, South ruffed with his last trump. This gave declarer his tenth trick.

LOST IN SHUFFLE

East won the last two tricks with a top spade and the last trump, and West's good diamond was lost in the shuffle. In effect, the defenders won the diamond trick twice — once with West's queen of diamonds and the second time with East's high trump. It still counted as one trick.

ANSWER: Bid three hearts.

You have 13 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. This is ample for the double raise in partner's suit.

Consumers Move Stronger Car-Repair Bill

By ROBERT HEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — You, the American consumer, have just rescued a major consumer bill from oblivion.

As a result of your letters to members of Congress, there'll probably be a new law this year that will require automakers to build sturdier cars. Collectively you consumers stand to save $1 billion a year in auto repairs.

Three weeks ago a key House committee caved in to pressure from automakers and killed a weak auto-repair bill. Nearly everybody in Washington thought the issue was dead as the proverbial doornail.

Then you consumers picked up ballpoint pens and wrote your congressmen. You didn't like the fragility of today's cars and said so. Committee members of the House committee looked toward the November election, decided they wanted your votes, and felt very uneasy.

The committee voted again April 18 on the auto-repair issue. In a highly unusual move it approved a stronger auto-repair bill than it had killed two weeks earlier.

You consumers caused the turnaround — those of you who wrote and those who stood behind the writers. Congressmen knew where you stand.

Sources close to the committee think opponents of the bill probably could have mustered the votes to defeat it — if they had dared. "They had the votes, if they had used them," says one source.

But they decided "they'd rather give consumers a bill than an election-year issue," he says. And they did.

Prospects now are for House passage of the bill before long. Since the Senate already has passed a similar and wider-ranging bill, there then would be a Senate-House conference to iron out differences.

The House Bill would require the secretary of transportation to set standards for front and rear bumpers which automakers would have to meet. The standards would have to require that cars could survive low-speed crashes front and rear with greatly reduced damage. How much damage is left to the transportation secretary's discretion.

It also would be up to him to determine the speed of the crashes that the cars must survive; from legislative history it is expected to be 5 mph, no less.

The bill is similar to present law, which soon will require that cars be able to survive low-speed front and rear crashes without damage to safety-related equipment such as lights and tires. But tests have shown that hundreds of dollars of sheetmetal damage can be done in collision without damage to this equipment. Thus the need for this new bill, proponents argued.

While consumers take a well-deserved bow for their letters, they had plenty of help on this issue.

Consumer sources on the House committee credit scathing newspaper stories and editorials with having helped pressure members of Congress — and, of course, with having alerted consumers.

Organized consumer groups stepped up pressure on committee members; so did labor groups. "The insurance lobby went into high gear on this," in the words of one source.

Last there was what could be called persuading from proponents of the measure in the house, led by Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., Bob Eckhard, D-Tex., and Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va. The first two are long-time consumer champions who are members of the subcommittee that dealt with the bill. Staggers is chairman of the parent Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

By exerting a little persuasion and pressure, they got one of the seven sub-committee members to reverse his stand and support the bumper bill. That gave them a 4 to 3 advantage, instead of the frequent 4 to 3 disadvantage — and the bill was on its way.

Key Feature Of Welfare Act Is Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly voted overwhelming approval yesterday to legislation repealing a requirement that adult children pay increased support to their welfare parents, a key feature of the new Welfare Reform Act.

After an intense floor debate, the repealer by Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, went to the Senate on a 58-11 vote. It would become effective immediately upon the signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan, who opposes the measure.

The welfare reform contained as a key feature a provision requiring adult children to make increased contributions for the support of the parents receiving aid to the elderly.

CALLED 'CRUEL'

The provision was denounced as "cruel" by the 3rd District Court of Appeal recently but upheld as constitutional.

Gonsalves' legislation would restore the support levels that an adult child was required to make prior to enactment last year of the welfare reform.

Gonsalves said those hit hardest by the increased "relative responsibility section" were those who pay the brunt of welfare costs.

"I submit this is double taxation and then some," he said. "This is a burden to a young family that is struggling to get along and put their children through school."

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, another opponent, called it a "surtax."

"This legislature can find more equitable revenue measures than placing a surtax on the backs of children of poor parents."

A 'MARRIAGE'

But Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, one of the negotiators of the reform, argued the new law was a "marriage" that should be given more time to work.

"I think the taxpayers are certainly happy with this marriage," he said. "We haven't seen people ripped off the rolls."

Under the current law, a family of four with a net monthly income of $1,051 is required to make a monthly contribution for support of a welfare parent of $130. Under the Gonsalves legislation, the family would pay $15 a month as it did prior to the reform.

Another supporter of the bill, Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, warned that under relative responsibility regulations adopted by the Reagan administration some families are being required to "participate beyond their ability to the point where we are going to put them on welfare too."

ORDINANCE NO. 1892
AN ORDINANCE OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN AMENDING CHAPTER 22.77 OF THE MARIN COUNTY CODE BY CHANGING THE JURISDICTIONAL LIMITS AND MAKING CERTAIN TEXT CHANGES.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I: Section 22.77.010 is amended to read as follows:

22.77.010 Applicability and Exceptions. This Chapter shall apply to all tidelands, shorelines, waterways, beaches or salt marshes within the unincorporated area of Marin County which are below an elevation of 7.5 feet Mean Lower Low Water Datum and to contiguous land between that elevation line, and, either, a point 100 feet inland or the nearest publicly maintained road, whichever is closer. The following items shall not be subject to this Chapter:

1. Any structure, fill or excavation which is not within and which does not encroach on the tidelands and waterways as defined herein.

2. Any emergency work necessary to prevent or to minimize imminent damage to land or improvements from flood waters. Such emergency work shall be reported on the next normal working day and confirmed in writing within 10 days after the start of such work to the Department of Public Works.

3. Any maintenance work to buildings or structures which existed prior to the effective date of this Chapter or were approved under the provisions of this Chapter.

4. Any structure, fill or excavation which the Environmental Protection Committee finds to be minor or incidental.

5. Any structure, fill or excavation which has been approved as part of any application, action or permit by the Planning Commission, the Planning Director or Zoning Administrator except that such structure, fill or excavation shall not be deemed to have been approved by a building permit. Where a development is subject to other provisions of Title 21 and Title 22 of the Marin County Code approval of any fill, excavation, or structure within the scope of this Chapter, which is contained in the development, shall be subject to the findings of Section 22.77.040.4 of this Chapter.

6. Any structure, fill or excavation which is behind secure dikes, which existed prior to the effective date of this Chapter and which is normally not subject to tidal action by virtue of the dike, or which is only temporarily under tidal action due to defective tide gates.

7. Applicability of this chapter shall be limited in creeks, estuaries and rivers to areas downstream from certain defined points, as follows:

a. Coyote Creek: State Highway #1 Bridge. (Ord. 1834; July 13, 1971)

b. Corte Madera Creek: Downstream end of concrete channel.

SECTION II: Section 22.77.020 is hereby amended to read as follows:

22.77.020 Purposes. Marin County tidelands, shorelines, waterways, beaches, or salt marshes are vital natural resources which can provide great benefits to present and future human generations. They offer scenic views, open space, recreational activities such as fishing, swimming, boating, walking, wildlife habitats, opportunities for water transportation and sites for homes and for water-oriented resorts and industries. They fulfill an indispensable role in preserving the climate and air purity of the County.

These benefits could be destroyed or seriously diminished by uncontrolled filling, excavation or construction. Therefore, it is the purpose of this Chapter to encourage the fullest enjoyment of these potential benefits with a minimum of physical disturbance and to set forth the standards and procedures by which filling, excavation and construction in tideland areas will be controlled. (Ord. 1761; May 12, 1970)

SECTION III: Section 22.77.040 is amended by repeal of subparagraph 3 of paragraph d of subsection 4 thereof.

SECTION IV: Section 22.77.040 is amended by adding Section (4) (e) to read as follows:

e. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not adversely effect any existing public rights on the property.

SECTION V: Section 22.77.040 is hereby amended to read as follows:

22.77.040 Procedure.

1. Filing and Content of Application for a Tidelands Permit.

Application for fill, excavation or structures within tidelands as defined in Section 22.77.010 shall be made to the Department of Public Works in the form of a tidelands permit. The application shall include information showing existing and proposed grades, extent and amount of proposed fill or excavation, location of all existing and proposed structures, a tentative plan for the future development of the area, and sufficient detail to allow a determination of the impact of the proposal on the navigability, appearance and safety of the waterways.

2. Action by Environmental Protection Committee.

If the application includes only a structure and/or if the proposed fill or excavation covers less than one acre, the Environmental Protection Committee consisting of the Director of Public Works, the Director of Parks and Recreation and the Planning Director, shall approve, conditionally approve or deny the application within 30 days after the filing date of the application, unless a later date is agreed to by the applicant. The Environmental Protection Committee shall consider, in arriving at its decision applicable regional and state plans for tidal waterways and the criteria, standards, and policies developed by agencies administering such regional and state plans. Failure of the Environmental Protection Committee to act within the prescribed time shall constitute approval of the application.

3. Action by Planning Commission.

If the proposed fill or excavation covers one acre or more, the Environmental Protection Committee shall report to the Planning Commission its recommendations.

The Planning Commission shall approve, conditionally approve or deny the application not later than the third regular meeting after the filing date of the application, unless a later date is agreed to by the applicant. The Planning Commission shall consider, in arriving at its decision, applicable regional and state plans for tidal waterways and the criteria, standards, and policies developed by agencies administering such regional and state plans. Failure of the Planning Commission to act within the prescribed time shall constitute approval of the application.

4. Findings.

The Environmental Protection Committee or the Planning Commission shall approve or conditionally approve applications where it is found that:

a. The encroachment of the tidelands is the minimum necessary to achieve the purpose of the proposed work.

b. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not unduly and unnecessarily:

1. Inhibit navigation, or access to publicly owned tidelands.

2. Cause, or increase the likelihood of, water pollution;

3. Cause, or increase the likelihood of flooding of adjoining lands;

4. Destroy, or accelerate the destruction of habitats essential to species of fish, shellfish and other wildlife of substantial public benefit.

5. Diminish the scenic beauty of the shoreline in a manner which will impede future construction of parks, boat harbors and recreation facilities:

6. Create a safety hazard in connection with settlement of fill or earthquakes, or,

7. Diminish natural waterways by siltation, sedimentation or bank erosion.

c. The proposal is in substantial harmony with any adopted County General Plan or Specific Plan.

d. Public benefits will be created to off-set some of the detriments which may be caused by the nature of the proposal. However, this finding is not required:

1. Where the application covers lands wholly above elevation 7.5 feet Mean Lower Low Water Datum, or

2. Where the size or potential uses of the parcel are so limited that creation of a public benefit would be unfeasible and where the amount and effect of fill, excavating or structures are minimal.

These public benefits may be realized, through: development of new recreational opportunities; or provision of new public access to the water; or enhancement of shoreline appearance; or establishment of water transportation; or facilities for land or air transportation where all other alternatives have been exhausted; or construction of water-oriented industry or development of marine food supplies or other benefits considered by the Planning Commission to be of comparable importance.

e. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not adversely effect any existing public rights on the property.

5. Filing Date.

The filing date shall be deemed the date on which the Department of Public Works receives the last submission required as part of the application unless the Director of Public Works or his authorized representative agree in writing to an earlier filing date.

6. Noticing.

Not later than 3 working days after the filing of an application notice of the application and a brief description of its proposals shall be mailed to the owners of record of abutting properties on the adjoining and opposite shoreline within 1,000 feet of the proposed work, as shown on the latest County tax roll.

7. Expiration and Extension of Tidelands Permits.

A tidelands permit shall expire one year from the effective date of the approval, unless a different expiration date is stipulated at the time of approval. Prior to the expiration of such a permit, the applicant may apply to the Department of Public Works for an extension. The Environmental Protection Committee may make minor modifications of the permit at the time of extension if it finds that there has been a substantial change in the circumstances surrounding the original approval. Extensions may be granted for a period of no more than one year from the time of expiration of the original permit. If a building permit or excavation permit was issued during the effective life of a tidelands permit the expiration date of the tidelands permit shall be automatically extended to concur with the expiration date of the building permit or excavation permit.

SECTION VI: This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after the date of passage and approval and shall be published in the Independent Journal, a newspaper published in the County, at least once before the expiration of fifteen (15) days after its passage, with the names of the supervisors voting for and against the same.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, on the 11th day of April, 1972, by the following vote, to-wit:

Guilty Plea To Two Counts

Robert Eugene Pickens has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to felony possession of cocaine and misdemeanor drunken driving.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner then dismissed tow other counts — possessing marijuana and amphetamines — as part of a negotiated settlement worked out in a pretrial conference.

Sentencing was set for June 12.

Pickens was stopped Dec. 20 on Highway 101 in Greenbrae near the Lucky Drive turnoff by a California Highway Patrol officer who said he found two film cannisters of marijuana and a bottle of pills in the driver's pocket.

STRANGER IN TOWN — Liverlips, a visiting bear from Disneyland, gets checked by hand by a youngster evidently unable to believe his eyes. The San Rafael street scene took place yesterday outside the Independent-Journal, a pause in the busy rounds of the unusual creature.

AND A BANJO PLAYER

That Really Was A Bear Walking In San Rafael

By JAY GOODWIN

Ever wonder what it's like to spend your waking hours masquerading as a behemoth, Disneyland bear named Liverlips?

Patrick Cloud, a 21-year-old champion banjo player, is the man to ask. He can usually be found lumbering around children's hospitals, television and radio stations, or department stores stroes dressed in the goofy-looking Liverlips costume promoting Disneyland's newest attraction, Bear Country.

Liverlips — Pat Cloud, that is — caught his breath during a whirlwind tour of Marin County yesterday and agreed to bare the true story of his masquerade.

"To be a good bear," explained Cloud, "it takes a willingness to meet the kids, a propensity for scratching a lot and basically a lot of insanity."

While he's sure he possesses all three prerequisities, Cloud never intended to become a bear. A professional musician — who won the Topanga Canyon Fiddle and Banjo Contest four years in a row — Cloud heard about job openings for musicians at Disneyland.

As he tells it, he went down to Disneyland, played a few tunes and talked with the people in personnel. A few days later, he was called back.

"They gave me the good news first," he recalled. "Like how much they were going to pay me, where I would travel, and things like that. Then came the bad news: I was going to be a bear."

Since then he's traveled all over the country representing Disneyland at a hectic pace.

He's never allowed to take off his cotume in public, because that would "destroy the illusion", so he works up quite a sweat during the day.

"I'm getting in better physical shape, that's for sure," he gasped. "It's like a sauna in here!"

He's dropped 15 pounds since he first donned the Liverlips suit three weeks ago.

None of Disney's live characters are permitted to talk, so Cloud resorts to banjo playing, grunting, dancing, "and a whole lot of scratching" to keep his young audiences smiling.

Apparently, his daytime activities are playing havoc with his off-hours.

"I've been known to make animal sounds late at night," he confided. "I've thought about being Liverlips 24-hours-a-day but I don't wear it to bed because my old lady wouldn't approve."

"What I need is some nightlife," he whispered, as he shifted closer. "Know any nice girl bears?"

Cloud has a bachelor's degree in English from Long Beach State College and is undoubtedly better paid than most of his classmates.

The Disney organization pays him about $400 a week plus $15 a day living expenses and first class travel and hotel rooms.

In his brief tenure as Liverlips, Cloud cited a cocktail party in Omaha, Neb. as his most ridiculous experience.

"Most of the people at that party were so sophisticated they just accepted me as I was," he chuckled. "They didn't even notice I was a bear!"

"Then there was the day I christened a new bear grotto in Albuquerque, New Mexico with a coke bottle. What a trip that was," he said.

The work is great, he said, when he gets to play with young children.

"They really react to this costume, it's so real looking," he explained. "Sometimes the young ones will get scared at first, but when they do, I run away scared and then they always calm down."

The promotional tour for Disneyland's new $8 million "theme" land runs through July. So between now and then, Patrick Cloud will continue to grin and bear it.

EMOTIONLESS

Letters Fail To Stir Angela

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — During the weeks that the prosecution has presented more than half its witnesses, Angela Davis has sat impassively in the courtroom, usually wrapped up in one of her innumerable wool shawls.

She seems content to leave her defense, a combination of very clever trial work by her chief attorney, and a noisy effort to politicize her case, to others.

She attracts little attention these days from the press, as she strides to and from the heavily guarded courtroom. Except for an occasional television camerman, the press leaves her alone, probably mainly because reporters know she will not comment on the case because of the gag rule.

If she has emotions as the case against her unfolds, she does not show them.

Yesterday, the reading by prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. of her personal letters to convict George Jackson, the man whom the state claims she loved enough to plot to free him, brought no visible response from her.

Instead, it was an old, workworn black woman, who entered the courtroom blinking and unsure of what path to take to the witness stand, who brought a very human response from the usually cool Miss Davis.

Otelia Young who had been a neighbor of Miss Davis's in Los Angeles in 1970, had little to offer when she took the witness stand.

"Yes, I seen her," she responded to a question from Harris, and "I have talked to her," she added. Sometime, but "not too much," Miss Davis was accompanied by a young man, Mrs. Young said.

She didn't know who the "real tall, bright-haired" youth was, she said, until she saw his picture on television after the August 1970 Civic Center shootout and realized he was Jonathan Jackson, brother of George Jackson, who instigated and died in the shoot-out.

After her brief testimony, Mrs. Young, who said she works from 7 a.m. until 8:30 p.m., began her walk out of the courtroom. Midway, however, she stopped, recognized Miss Davis, as she sat behind her lawyers, and ducking her head, gave a friendly wave and said, "Hi."

Miss Davis looked surprised but she responded with a smile and a neighborly "Hi."

Outside the court, Mrs. Young told a deputy sheriff, "I didn't know who she was. I thought she was just any other black woman," during the summer they were neighbors. "Then all those investigators started coming," she said.

After the bridf warm interlude with Mrs. Young, which brought smiles to the faces of jurors and newsmen as well as Miss Davis's attorneys, the rest of the day was taken up with testimony from employees of a surplus store in Los Angeles, where Miss Davis is said to have purchased several boxes of ammunition during the months before the shoot-out.

Outside the courtroom, Miss Davis's supporters continued their attack on the case, calling it a political effort to destroy her because she is a Communist and a racist effort because she is black.

Yesterday, the subject was the letters which Harris had read into evidence. Unmentioned by representatives of the National United Committee To Free Angela Davis was another document, 18 pages variously called a diary or a letter, which was found in George Jackson's cell after he died in an escape attempt last August at San Quentin.

Judge Richard E. Arnason ruled yesterday that this document, unless the irrelevant material can be edited out in a manner that won't leave a lot of statements out of context, cannot be used as evidence.

Prosecutor Harris had apparently been counting heavily on the document, said to contain very explicit descriptions of Miss Davis's feelings for Jackson.

The committee members, however, in one of their customary noontime press conferences, dwelt on the three letters which had been read in court.

First, in a statement read by Communists Charlene Mitchell and Bettina Aptheker Kurzweil, the committee called Harris a "peeping Tom" who had pried into Miss Davis' private life.

"These letters were meant for the eyes of George Jackson alone," the statement said.

The committee called the letters, which were a mixture of revolutionary rhetoric along with expressions of love for Jackson by Miss Davis, "frankly political in nature."

"The fact that Harris has resorted to the exposure of these documents... affords us a singular conclusion: the state has never had a theory about Aug. 7. What it has had is a simple goal: get Angela Davis!" the committee concluded.

Meanwhile, the jury of seven women and five men, made up of more young people than commonly seen on juries and for the most part, casually dressed, continues to listen to evidence with daily admonitions from the judge not to read or listen to news reports of the trial.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Patient Can Get New Doctor But Doctor's Stuck With Him

Many people do not like certain physicians and vice versa. A personality clash may be responsible or perhaps the doctor-patient relationship has suffered from unhappy social, business, or medical experiences. Fortunately, each of us has a choice and he can change doctors if necessary. But the physician who is supposed to love all mankind does not have this privilege, especially when he is consulted by a person with longstanding emotional disturbances that never kill nor do they improve.

A CHICAGO psychiatrist refers to one type as the "poor me" patient. This is the man or woman who has been sick for months or years with multiple fleeting symptoms that cannot possibly be related to any one organ. Name a medical complaint and he has had it. Such problems have led to continual invalidism requiring much care from family and friends. According to Dr. John Cowen, the distress prevents the victim from doing what he ought to do, but not from doing what he likes to do. Headaches from eyestrain interfere with his work, but this doesn't stop him from spending hours in front of the boob ube.

THESE PEOPLE enjoy poor health and thrive on family and friends who feel sorry for them. After all, some consider it a miracle that they have been able to survive so much misfortune. These men and women are passive, overdependent and submissive and are helped slightly with placebos, palliatives, encouragement, and vitamins.

A more difficult and unpleasant patient is the individual with chronic disabilities who spends years proving that no one is skillful enough to cure him. His days are spent going from physician to physician or from clinic to clinic with a "sickness" that he claims to be too severe and mysterious for anyone to cure.

THESE PEOPLE do not plead for help, they challenge the doctor to try and see if he can. Their family catches on and leaves them to their own devices; the same takes place when they stay with relatives, friends, and acqaintances. They also are loaded with bizarre complaints that are incapacitating. Psychiatric cae may or may not help. What a way to spend a lifetime!

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SIX WEEK RASH

P.T. writes: The physicians said my pitryriasis rosea will last four to six weeks and nothing will hasten recovery. Is this true?

REPLY

Yes. If itching is annoying, a soothing lotion may be used or drying of the lesions may be hastened with a sulfursalicylic acid ointment. In rare cases, with marked inflammation, cortisone for a few days may be effective.

ENLARGED SKULL

L.B. writes: Does Paget's disease of the bone cause the head to get bigger?

REPLY

Yes, in many instances the first sign is that the person needs a larger hat. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease, also known as osteitis deformans.

MOONFACED

T.C. writes: What can be done for a round face due to taking cortisone?

REPLY

Stop the hormone and the swelling will disappear. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on corticosteriods.

Lottery Plan Is Given Strong Assembly Setback

By DAVID JENSEN.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly yesterday defeated legislation paving the way for legalization of a state-run lottery which supporters said could produce $189.9 million in revenue annually.

Opponents argued that it was "a poor man's tax" because the least affluent contribute the most to lotteries.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, was rejected 41-24. It needs 4 votes. Ralph kept the proposal alive by asking to have the vote reconsidered.

The measure, which would be submitted to voters, would allow the legislature to establish a lottery. The proceeds would go for education and other state functions.

Ralph declared there was "no justifiable or sound reason to turn down a proposal of this nature." He said the state needed additional sources of revenue.

He said poor persons are not the ones who participate the most often in lotteries. He stated that a survey of purchasers of lottery tickets in New Jersey showed that 70 per cent made $7,000 or more annually.

Assemblyman Robert C. Cline, R-Canoga Park, said a lottery would be a "voluntary tax" and would also have the added benefit of creating a "few millionaires at a cost of 50 cents a ticket."

But Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, warned that approving the amendment would lead to legalization of all gambling in California.

Citing Assembly passage of a proposal clearing the way for legalization of bingo, Biddle said the lottery measure was the second step. He declared that legalizing off-track horse race betting would be the third step.

The Republican lawmaker also contended that a lottery would put California in competition with illegal gambling run by organized crime.

Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, said that from his personal eerience it is the "least affluent, the least fortunate ... who contribute the most money to this type of operation."

He also warned that the cost of operating the lottery could be excessive, saying, "It's going to give the taxpayer an awfully bad break."

But Ralph said the cost of running the New Jersey lottery was 9 per cent of its gross revenues and the figure was expected to decline to 5 per cent.

Belvedere Homeowners Zoning Plan Rejected

The Belvedere Planning Commission has turned down a group of homeowners on block-long Acacia Avenue who sought to have a parcel of land now zoned to permit apartments changed to single family residential.

The group of about 10 persons appeared before the commission at its Monday night meeting, according to Secretary William H. Rafter, and argued that an apartment would be inappropriate to the area, but commissioners said they believed the land had been properly zoned in 1957 and refused to change it.

Rafter said they did, however, agree to look into what the residents said would be difficulties in parking and traffic movement if a road connecting the proposed apartments with Acacia Avenue were built.

The land is owned by the Belvedere Land Co., and its president, David Allen, has said no apartment is contemplated for some time on the site.

Rafter said commissioners also discussed height limitations for building in the Belvedere Cove, but were unable to decide what standards to use, and continued the discussion until Monday night at 8 p.m. in city hall

Nixon To Dine

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House has confirmed that President Nixon will go to Treasury Secretary John B. Connally's ranch at Floresville, Tex., this weekend for a dinner party.

A spokesman said Nixon would attend the dinner Sunday night and then spend the night at the ranch near San Antonio.

Girl's Body Is Identified

The body of a young girl found dead in a shallow creekbed south of Stinson Beach Saturday has been identified as Carolyn Mayfield, 17, of San Francisco.

Inspector Gus M. Coreris of the San Francisco police department's homicide bureau said the high school junior was identified by her mother, who read a description of her in the newspapers.

Coreris said police still have no idea how the girl died or how she was transported to the overgrown bottom of Lone Tree Creek, but police are checking out some leads.

She was last seen alive Wednesday night when she went out for an evening with friends. On Saturday morning a hiker found her fully clothed body in the gully two miles south of Stinson Beach.

The Music Stops

Larkspur police reported today a tape player, tapes and radio valued at $290 were taken from the auto of Michael Harrington, 130 Mono Lane, Fairfax, while the car was parked at Greenbrae Lanes, 101 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, from 10 to 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Algae Treatment Model Is Hailed By Engineer

If a new method of sewage treatment now being installed at the Tiburon Sanitary District plant works as well as expected, according to its manager, the district might not benefit from joining Improvement District A, the organization formed to study ways to improve sewage treatment in Southern Marin.

John B. McFarlane, retiring plant manager, made the statement at a Monday night meeting of the Belveere City Council.

He told the Independent-Journal later that other engineers may well disagree with him, but he believes that a full-scale algae treatment system will perform as well as its pilot model, and consequently, "it's not beyond the realm of possibility" that joining the district would be unnecessary. Further data is needed, he said.

"The pilot model is working quite well," McFarlane said. "The results are fantastic." There will probably be troubles with the full-scale model, but he said he is confident that engineers of biokinetics, the San Rafael firm which developed the process, can solve them.

At the Belvedere council meeting, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the council named Donald Davis, already the city's representative to the sanitary district, to represent Belvedere in any discussion with Improvement District A.

Extension Of Annex Ban Urged

The Strawberry Area Community Council has asked the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for an extension of a six-month moratorium on annexation so that plans for incorporation may be studied in more detail.

The ban on annexation of pieces of Strawberry by surrounding cities was granted in February, according to council cochairman Trudy de la Fontaine, and the council wants an additional six months.

She said council members were considering four possibilities: remaining an unincorporated area in the county, forming a city, annexing to Tiburon or annexing to Mill Valley.

Data lacking, she said, included next year's projected budgets for the two neighboring cities.

She said architect J. Martin Rosse, who lives in Strawberry, is preparing a master plan for the area, and copies of it will be mailed to residents of Strawberry, then volunteers will go door-to-door asking opinions of the plan.

The council will meet May 8 at 8 p.m. in the Strawberry Recreation Center to continue the planning, she said.

Marriage Ended In Marin Court

The marriage of Stephen M. Barker of Belvedere and his wife, Nancy, former head of the Marin Chapter of the Women's Division of the Jewish Welfare Federation of San Francisco, Marin and the San Francisco Peninsula, has been dissolved in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Barker received custody of the couples' two children, Lori, 10, and Jonathan, 7, plus support of $700 a month for herself and the children.

Barker is vice president of Monogram Co. of California.

The couple was married May 22, 1960, but separated last July. The marriage was dissolved on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

The family residence is at 5 Golden Gate Avenue.

Supermarket Is Threatened

Corte Madera police received a telephoned bomb threat yesterday afternoon against the Corte Madera Co-op supermarket on Tamal Vista Boulevard, but no bomb was found after a search.

Police said a young male caller threatened at 2:04 p.m. a bomb would explode in five minutes at the store. Police contacted the store manager, cleared the building and searched it.

After waiting 20 minutes beyond the deadline they allowed shoppers to reenter.

Guilty Plea To Auto Theft Count

Gary Clyde Kruger, 20, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of stealing a car in San Anselmo and driving it to Orange County.

The plea before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was part of a negotiated arrangement under which Kruger will be sentenced to no more than six months in jail. Sentencing was set for May 30.

Kruger was stopped Feb. 9 by Anaheim police who noticed two bald tires and a cracked windshield on the car Kruger was driving.

Police said Kruger and a girl hitchhiker tried to flee on foot, but were captured.

The girl was released, but Kruger was sent to Marin when a check revealed the car had been stolen in San Anselmo.

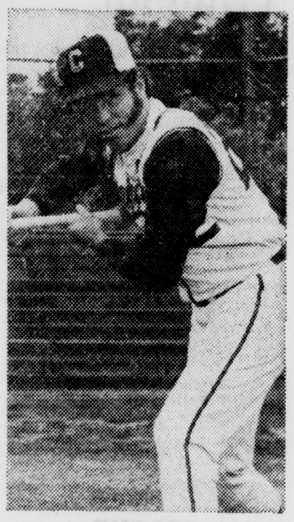
SPORT NOTES

Paul Lee Starring In College Baseball

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Word comes from University of California, Santa Barbara, that Paul Lee of Terra Linda is having a fine season for the Gauchos' baseball team.

Lee, a former all-around star at Terra Linda High, is now playing his senior year at UCSB and is among the team's batting leaders. The outfielder was hitting .333 after the team's first 28 games. In league play (Pacific Coast Athletic Association) Lee was at .500, on top of the loop, as the Gauchos won eight of their first nine PCAA games.



PAUL LEE

Paul appears headed in his big brother's footsteps to the big time. I'm talking about Bill, southpaw reliever for the Boston Red Sox.

IN OTHER BITS of baseball news:

Second baseman Dave Edson of Terra Linda is batting .250 after his first 128 at bats for Stanford, 32 hits, one home run, 21 runs batted in and five stolen bases. Freshman Steve Pond of Novato is batting .286 as a reserve first baseman at San Jose State. Out of action at College of Marin is baseballer John Kidder of Novato who underwent knee surgery recently.

YOUNGSTERS FROM Corte Madera will be stars of the show May 6 and 13 in the first of a 26-week series of athletic competition being put on by KRON-TV, Channel 4, entitled, "Junior Cpampions," about boys in Police Activities Leagues throughout the S.F. Bay Area.

The sports series is designed to follow the NBC baseball game of the week each Saturday, starting at 2 p.m. The show will be co-hosted by Channel 4's Bob Marsden and a special guest star representing Bay Area sports. Ken Stabler, Raider reserve quarterback, is featured on the first program. The youngsters, all under 15, compete in football throwing for accuracy, basketball shooting and high jumping. Winners of each weekly program will compete later in the series for grand prizes.

IT'S CALLED "Lunch With Charlie Fox and the San Francisco Giants," and is scheduled for Friday noon at the St. Francis Hotel. The cost is $7.50 a head and is being co-sponsored by the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and KSFO. Emcees for the program, open to the public, will be Jim Lange and Lon Simmons of KSFO and Lou Spadia, president of the S.F. 49ers and a member of the chamber's board of directors. In addition to Fox, the Giants' manager, some of the players will be scattered around to lend to the atmosphere.

THE TAM BOOSTERS are hoping for a good crowd at Saturday's 8 p.m. game between Tamalpais and Drake high schools at Albert Park, San Rafael. The profits from the concession stands operated by the Tam boosters will allow the Club to buy more equipment for the school's athletic program. Boys baseball, basketball and track-field, along with girls physical education program have already been helped along with money the Tam Boosters made at a Christmas tree sale last December.

12-Inning Victory For A's

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Oakland A's have taken their first road test of the young season and have passed muster — though it took them 12 innings.

For a while Tuesday night in Yankee Stadium, the A's looked as cold as the New York weather but finally pulled out a 4-3 victory over the Yankees in the 12th frame on a run-scoring double by pinchhitter Mike Hegan.

The win gave Oakland a 5-2 record and kept them 1-2 game in front of Minnesota in the American League West.

The Yankees got things rolling immediately in the first ining on Bobby Murcer's two-out homer off Catfish Hunter. New York added two more in the fourth when Johnny Callison's long sacrifice scored Murcer and Roy White came home on a single by Rich McKinney.

Gene Tenace narrowed the gap in the fifth with his first homer of the year, then in the sixth, Sal Bando tied it up with a two-run, two-out triple.

That was all the scoring for the next six innings until Hegan, sent into bat for winning pitcher Rollie Fingers, delivered a line drive double to right center that scored Bobby Brooks.

Fingers, who came in the eighth to relieve Hunter, allowed only two hits in 3 1-3 innings to record his first victory of the season.

Tonight, Denny McLain, the major leagues losingest pitcher last year, will try for his second victory with his new team, the A's, facing Mike Kekich, who is also 1-0.

TAKE THAT — Dan Tierney, No. 1 singles player for Redwood High School, hit this forehand smash yesterday while defeating Greg Kalemba of Drake, 6-1, 6-3.

A HUMMING TENNIS MACHINE

Redwood Blanks Drake

One star, plus one unified team effort, added up to a one-point victory yesterday for the Terra Linda High School swimming team, as the Trojans defeated previously unbeaten Redwood, 48-47, in the loser's pool.

Terra Linda's triumph avenged an earlier defeat, 52-43, at the Giants' hands. The two aquatic juggernauts, now finished with Marin County Athletic League dual meets, share the loop pennant with 9-1 won-lost marks.

In the other MCAL meet yesterday, San Rafael blasted Tamalpais, 66-29, cinching third place in the league.

Rick DeMont was predictably the individual star for Terra Linda, winning the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races in league-best times for 1972.

Terra Linda coach Bob Pollitt, while not de-emphasizing DeMont's swift showing, said, "When you win a meet by only one point — a point, now, is only a single third-place finish — you know the win must be a team effort."

The Trojans served notice from the start that they were to be contended with, winning the opening 200 medley relay event in 1:44.1, a half-second quicker than Redwood's quartet.

After DeMont's two sprint free wins (22.6 and 48.8) Terra Linda had run up a 38-24 lead over the Giants.

Following this, however, Redwood peeled off four straight first places, only to fall a point short in the bid for undisputed possession of first place in the county.

Spencer Eldred and Paul Cane each tallied double wins for Redwood, Eldred in the 200 and 400 free, and Cane in the 100 butterfly and 100 breaststroke. Eldred, only a sophomore, went 1:51.8 and 4:01.0 for his distance races, while Cane sprinted to a 1:03.0 in his breast specialty. DeMont and Cane concluded the year undefeated in individual races.

These three Redwood times, with DeMont's pair of clockings, comprise the five MCAL individual bests established in the season-ending meet yesterday.

TROJANS' ONE-POINT VICTORY

Terra Linda, Redwood Tie For Swim Title

By LEW CODDINGTON

It was probably an illusion, but for one lingering instant it seemed quite real. In the quiet valley by San Domenico High School, down by the tennis courts, above the occasional thwock of well-aimed serve, you could almost hear the humming of a machine.

Quietly efficient, and in no way out of keeping with the peaceful surroundings, the Redwood High School tennis machine systematically disassembled Drake High yesterday afternoon in a meeting of the Marin County Athletic League's unbeaten teams.

The score was 7-0 if you count matches, 14-0 if you count sets, 84-12 if you count games. Drake is good, and may not lose to anybody else the rest of the year. But the Pirates were, quite literally, out of their league.

"They are all club players," said Redwood coach Stan Buchanan about his team. "They've all played in tournaments, and many of them are ranked in their age groups. I wouldn't do a thing to change their styles."

The tall, quiet Buchanan spends most of the time marveling at his players' strokes, distributing the traditional victory oranges after the match, and offering well-taken psychological advice.

"The coach really helped my attitude," said Redwood's No. 1 player, Dan Tierney, who was defeated last Thursday by Dave Bacon of San Rafael. It remains the only individual match Redwood has lost in 35.

"He told me it is better to want to win instead of just not wanting to lose." Players riding long winning streaks sometimes get over-cautious and defensive. Tierney showed no symptoms of that yesterday as he handcuffed Greg Kalemba, 6-1, 6-3.

Tierney's biggest problem may be fending off Gary Walter, a lefthander with a wicked serve who clawed his way up to No. 2 singles, and in a recent challenge match nearly dethroned Tierney, losing 7-6 in the third set.

Walter was fearsome yesterday as he bombarded Gary Giesen, 6-0, 6-0. "You could hear his serve crackle," said Steve De Martini, Redwood's No. 4 player, who handily defeated Steve Harnsberger in his own match, 6-1, 6-0. Hum.

The only break in the machine-like functioning was provided by No. 3 Henry Jacobson,

Carlton Very Happy With Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Steve Carlton, for one, enjoys the remodeling job done at Candlestick Park.

The stylish lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies shut out the San Francisco Giants 3-0 on only one hit Tuesday night for his third straight victory. Chris Speier, the Giants first batter of the game, singled to center before Carlton slammed the door in the face of the Giants.

"This was a perfect night in which to pitch," said the 27-year-old southpaw who came to the Phils from the St. Louis Cardinals in a trade for Rick Wise in February.

"Usually it's too windy out here in Candlestick and I was 0-5 pitching in this park. But now the completed stands have cut down the wind considerably and the weather was just cool enough to help me."

Carlton, mixing a hopping fastball with his curve and cutting every corner of the plate, fanned 14 Giants to tie a Philly record for strikeouts by a left-handed pitcher. He walked only batter, Chris Arnold in the sixth inning, while extending his string of scoreless innings to 18.

He shares the major league record of 19 strikeouts in a game against the New York Mets.

"I wasn't as overpowering as I was when I fanned 19 of those Mets," said last year's 20-game winner with the Cardinals. "But I had good location tonight and my control was excellent. I worked real easy and was able to concentrate better without that wind whirling around me."

Catcher Tim McCarver of the Phils and Giants manager Charlie Fox agreed that Carlton hurled a masterpiece.

"I never saw control that good to a righthanded hitter," said McCarver. "He always kept the ball inside to those hitters and it would be hard for him to pitch much better. That ball Speier hit was a fastball."

Loser was Juan Marichal, now 1-2, who allowed the Phillies only one run and two hits through seven innings.

Prior to Tuesday night's game, the Giants recalled outfielder Garry Maddox from Phoenix of the AAA Pacific Coast League where he was hitting .438 with nine home runs and 22 runs batted in over 11 games.

Fox started Maddox in centerfield against Carlton and Maddox fanned twice and flied out to center.

"I was just overanxious," said Maddox about his big league debut. "He threw me everything. He was feeling me out and I was trying to do the same to him.

"No doubt about it, Carlton's a fine pitcher. But I'll be seeing him again."

Fox said he plans to keep Maddox in the lineup.

"Sure, I'll leave him in there for a while and give him a chance," said Fox. "Remember, he faced a pretty good pitcher tonight."

L.A. Picked Over Knicks In Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers and the New York Knicks, who have only one National Basketball Association championship between them, open a best-of-seven game series tonight to decide who will succeed the Milwaukee Bucks as the best club in the NBA.

The Knicks beat the Lakers in seven games two years ago, for their first league title. They will be making their fifth appearance in the finals.

Los Angeles is in the finals for the eighth time, bowing to the Boston Celtics on six ccasions before losing in 1970 to New York.

The Lakers are solid favorites to become the third different team to win the NBA championship in three years since the retirement of Bill Russell from the Celtics.

They eliminated Milwaukee and Kareem Jabbar four games to two in the Western Conference finals, and beat the Knicks four times in five tries during the regular season when they set a league record at 69-13. The mark included a record 33 straight victories.

Bruins, Rangers Rest 'Til Sunday

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The Boston Bruins would have been embarrassed if they had not swept the St. Louis Blues out of the Stanley Cup Playoffs in four games.

The Bruins' opponent in the Cup final, the New York Rangers, swept the Chicago Black Hawks in four games, and the Blues finished 30 points behind the Black Hawks during the regular season.

The fourth game of the Boston-St. Louis series Tuesday night was the closest game of the series after Boston victories by scores of 6-1, 10-2 and 7-2 in the first three games. The fourth game ended 5-3 after the Blues pulled goalie Jacques Caron with a chance to tie and Wayne Cashman scored an open net goal.

Boston Coach Tom Johnson was glad his players got a slight scare at the end of the game because "now they realize how much tougher the next series will be."

"I don't know what to expect from the Rangers," Johnson said. "We know they've been playing well and that's all we know."

The New York-Boston series starts in Boston Sunday, two or three days later than expected because of a commitment to television to have at least two games of the final series on Sunday afternoon.

Hunt, Tennis Group Call Off Long Feud

LONDON (UPI)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) and Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis (WCT) today called off their feud over professional participation in open tennis tournaments.

"The game's now truly open and WCT's goals are intact," Hunt told a news conference.

But he said his contract pros would still not play at Wimbledon this year because of other commitments.

Federation president Allan Heyman said that as WCT's existing player contracts expire, the distinction between contract professionals and independent pros will disappear.

Hunt's American-based WCT has 32 players under contract, including current Wimbledon Champion John Newcombe and former champions Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia.

Mellow Fellows Win

Rick Johnson hit a bases-loaded double to spark a six-run fifth inning and power the Mellow Fellows to an 11-7 victory over Chuck Hiller Men's Wear in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball game last night at Albert Park. Rich Ranier hit two triples to lead the Squid over Venders, 9-5.

Marin Catholic Wins Shutout

Don Bianchini pitched a two-hitter and was the beneficiary of an 11-hit attack as Marin Catholic High School defeated San Marin yesterday, 4-0, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at San Marin.

A line single by Mickey Simmons in the second inning scored Steve Sherry with the only run Bianchini was to require, and he went on to strike out seven, walking three.

Pete Arbios hit a bases-loaded single to right and Sherry subsequently hit a two-run single up the middle as the Wildcats added three more runs in the fourth frame.

Marin Catholic stranded 10 baserunners and had three more cut down at the plate.

San Rafael Whips Tamalpais, 10-0

John Klingler pitched a three-hit shutout and was vigorously supported with a 10-run assault as San Rafael High School trampled winless Tamalpais yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Tam, 10-0.

San Rafael spurted on top in the first inning on a run-scoring double by Dirk Gansloser, and pulled away with three more in the second when Bruce Howard tripled with the bases loaded.

The Bulldogs dded four more in the fifth, two scoring on an error by the shortstop and one each on singles by Tom Wilson and Klingler. Klingler and Lance Loughlin drove in seventh-inning runs with singles.

Redwood's 400 free relay (3:29.2).

Keith Strange lopped five seconds off his 200 individual medley time to win that event in 2:10.9. Besides DeMont's pair of wins, it was the only individual swimming first Terra Linda was to take on a day where depth proved overpowering.

Other first places were taken by Aaron Grossman in the diving for Terra Linda, and John Goepp of Redwood in the 100 backstroke.

In the Class B meet yesterday, Terra Linda moved to an unblemished 10-0, while winning the league title for the fifth straight time, according to Pollitt, with a 73-22 rout of the Giants.

Dick Attwood raced to a MCAL best of 1:00.3 in the 100 back for Tamalpais, but the Indians yielded to San Rafael, behind double winner Mike Kamler.

Drake Thumps Novato

The Drake High Pirates pounded Mike Lamb for eight runs and eight hits in five innings yesterday, taking an 8-2 Marin County Athletic League baseball decision from the Novato High Hornets on the loser's diamond.

Drake's triumph moved the Pirates into a three-way tie for second in the MCAL logjam, three games behind undefeated Redwood.

John Billings had a home run and a single for Drake, while Ken Zepponi chipped in two doubles and three runs-batted-in to support George Shawver, who went all the way.

Doug Harnsberger played a key role in Drake's second-inning rally with a bases-loaded, two-RBI single.

Redwood Nine Stretches Lead

Redwood High School pitcher Mark Ruggles continues to play the role of The Untouchable.

The left-handed curveball pitcher extended his current streak to 22 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run yesterday as he pitched his team to a 6-1 victory over Terra Linda in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Rampaging Redwood (7-0) now has opened up a three-game lead over pursuers San Marin and Novato, each of whom lost yesterday.

Ruggles, the MCAL's winningest pitcher at 4-0, got all the runs he needed when Redwood tallied twice in the first inning on an error and Mike Connor's triple.

The Giants got three more in the third on a run-scoring triple by Bob Brown, an error, and an RBI-double by Doug Hartman. Phil Bacigalupi's pinch single in the sixth scored the final run.

Bacon With Band, Not On Expedition

Tennis player Dave Bacon of San Rafael High School did not miss his team's match with Drake April 13 to attend an archaeological expedition to the San Joaquin Valley, as reported yesterday, but instead was given permission to accompany the school's band on a school-sanctioned tour of Oregon.

The archaeological expedition occured during Easter vacation. "I am not so permissive as to allow him to take time off from tennis just to go on an expedition of that sort," said coach Milt Hain.

Dolphins Pick Up Morrall From Colts

MIAMI (UPI)—On a Miami Dolphins team where nobody is even hinting that premier quarterback Bob Griese may not be next season's starter, seasoned veteran Earl Morrall finds himself in a battle for who can try harder to be No. 2.

Tuesday the Dolphins announced they had acquired the 37-year-old Morrall from the Baltimore Colts on waivers and would give him a shot as a backup quarterback.

Morrall immediately finds himself in competition with another NFL veteran and local favorite, George Mira, and also Jim Del Gaizo and rookie Craig Curry.

But Morrall, who says he still wants to play a few more years, has the proven record to show that if Griese should be injured or out of form, he could move into a starting position.

In the NFL championship game in 1968 he was the Colts' sparkplug and went on to be named the Most Valuable Player that season.

In the 1971 Super Bowl, Morrall came off the bench to relieve Johnny Unitas and hit 7 of 15 for 147 yards in a Colts' victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

He is one of the game's besttested quarterbacks, rising to prominence when he was drafted after his graduation from Michigan State University in 1956 as the top draft choice of the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Morrall has played and saved many a game for the Pittsburgh Steelers, Detroit Lions, and New York Giants, and was traded to the Colts in 1968 when Unitas was sidelined because of injuries for most of the season.

The Reshuffling Of S.F. Lineup

Loss of Willie McCovey's big bat created a chain reaction in the Giant lineup. Everybody was affected in the revised lineup, with one exception. Tito Fuentes remained in the No. 2 slot. Everyone else was shifted up or down in the lineup.

When McCovley's right arm was broken in a violent first base collision with John Jeter in San Diego April 18, Charlie Fox initially met the emergency with a minimum of lineup changes. The manager of the Giants moved Bobby Bonds from No. 5 to McCovey's No. 4 cleanup spot, Dave Kingman from No. 6 into Bonds' position and Alan Gallagher off the bench into the No. 6 spot.

BY THE TIME the Giants completed their first road trip of the naw baseball season, Fox knew he would have to juggle the entire lineup to get punch where it was needed. For the season opener in Candlestick last Friday night, he reluctantly junked the last of the his spring training strategy which had Willie Mays batting No. 1.

Mays was moved out of the leadoff spot back to his old No. 3 batting position. Ken Henderson was dropped from No. 3 to No. 6. Gallagher was dropped to No. 8 and Chris Speier was moved from No. 8 to No. 1.

NOW, SOME BALL players will say they don't care where they hit just as long as they are in the lineup. But, when pressed, they will admit there is considerable difference batting in the power positions of No. 3, 4 and 5, or as Mays calls them the "pressure points."

And there is a vast difference in the kind of pitches a No. 8 and No. 1 batter will get. A No. 8 batter isn't protected by a big bat behind him. The No. 9 bat in virtually all lineups, except those with a good hitting pitcher, is the weakest.

Thus, while it was alarming it wasn't a complete surprise that the chain reaction affected all Giant bats during the three-game opening Candlestick series with the Astros. By the third game of that series, the bats were getting accustomed to their new slots.

FUENTES, UNAFFECTED in the juggled lineup, continued to hit and extended his streak to nine games with a couple of doubles. Speier, getting better pitches than he saw when he was batting No. 8, singled, doubled and homered in the leadoff role. Kingman belted a three-run homer that wasn't enough in the third game to prevent a series sweep by the Astros who clobbered the Giant bullpen for 10 runs in the ninth inning of the finale.

The momentary breakdown of the bullpen now has Fox much more concerned than he was about the understandable batting letdown following McCovey's loss.

JUST AS THE Giants were emerging from their batting miseries, the worrisome troubles popped up in the relief department. The best of bullpen pitchers get whacked from time to time. It would be ridiculous to jump to any general conclusion about Jerry Johnson on one bad relief performance, such as his ineffective work against the Astros.

Similarly, it would be foolish to think that Don McMahon can't pitch better than he did against the Astros in Candlestick. In fact, he did in the Astrodome when he needed only 31 pitches for 10 outs over 3⅓ innings in saving Game No. 2 for Sam McDowell.

'Great Feeling,' Says New Lightweight Champ

HONOLULU (UPI) — World lightweight champion Ben Villaflor said Tuesday night "it's a good feeling" being champion.

The exuberant 19-year-old fighter from the Philippines said he knew he had won the title by the 13th round of the scheduled 15-round bout.

Villaflor said "I tried to knock him out but he's smart."

"It was my hardest fight," Villafor said after the battle at the Honolulu International Center. "I knew I'd end up winning. It's a good feeling."

Honolulu promoter Sam Ichinose of Boxing Enterprises said Villaflor would defend his title within 90 days "probably in Honolulu."

A dejected former champion Alfredo Marcano of Venezuela said through a trainer that his strategy was to counterattack Villaflor's sharp and powerful left thrusts.

He said the problem he had with Villaflor was that he was so fast with his left hand that consistently jabbed away at him.

Marcano's trainer, Willie Ketchum, said he thought Marcano would come back in the last few rounds to win the fight.

He said that Villaflor is "no boxer, he's just a good, tough young guy."

Ketchum said that Marcano's biggest problem was that he hadn't engaged in a fight for five months. In the future, Ketchum said, he'd like to have Marcano fight every two months. Ketchum said that Villaflor would definitely not give Marcano a return match.

Ketchum's main gripe, however, was referee James Scaramozi of San Antonio, Tex., one of two neutral officials requested by the Marcano camp. Ketchum strongly objected to the 74-64 score.

Ketchum's final statement concerned Villaflor. "It's hard to say if he'll last, Ketchum said, "but he's tough and he may go a long way."

A. L. ROUNDUP

Wilber Thrives On Work

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilbur Wood somehow seems out of place in 1972.

He belongs to a different era. The Chicago White Sox' knuckleballer would seem to be more at home back a half century ago when pitchers had nicknames like "Iron Man." In this age when most pitchers treat their arms as if they were Hope Diamonds, Wood simply goes out and pitches and pitches and pitches.

The baseball season is 11 days old and Wood already has started four games and he's pitched nine innings each time. He has allowed just one earned run in those 36 innings for an ERA of 0.25. Any day now, Marvin Miller may file a grievance claiming that Wood is overworked. But Wood, who tossed his third straight shutout in eight days Tuesday night to beat the Cleveland Indians 6-0, is thriving on all the work.

A firm believer in the ways of unorthodox pitching Coach Johnny Sain, Wood now has started twice with just two days rest. He didn't get the victory on opening day because he left after nine innings with the score tied 1-1 but he is now 3-0.

Chomping on a cigar given him by White Sox President John Allyn, Wood beamed Tuesday night, "I know the temperature was only 35 degrees outside but it didn't bother me a bit. As far as the weather is concerned, it's the same for everyone. When it's cold and dry, it helps because there's no moisture on my fingers. Since I depend on my knuckleball 75 per cent of the time, it's important that my fingertips remain in good condition.

"I couldn't care less about pitching with two days rest. I've got my rhythm and since I'm winnning, nothing seems to bother me. I'm still in a four-day rotation but it's just worked out that I've pitched four times in 11 days."

In the other games, Kansas City blanked Baltimore 3-0, Detroit beat Texas 4-1, Minnesota routed Boston 12-0, Oakland edged New York 4-3 in 12 innings and California stopped Milwaukee 4-1.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ROUNDUP

Controversy, But Astros Win

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

When things go right, they go very right and when they go wrong, they go very wrong. Just ask the Houston Astros and the Chicago Cubs.

The Astros gained their eighth straight victory and sent Chicago to its seventh consecutive loss Tuesday night with the help of a controversial call at home plate that proved to be the winning run in the 5-4 triumph.

Lee May hit his third home run in three days in the fourth inning to tie the game at 3-3 and Johnny Edwards' run producing single in the inning gave the Astros a 4-3 lead.

The controversy erupted in the seventh inning when Edwards and pitcher Jerry Reuss singled. Edwards was erased on a fielder's choice and Norm Miller singled Reuss to third. Reuss then attempted to score on Jimmy Wynn's sacrifice fly and apparently missed home plate. The Houston pitcher jumped up and ran back toward the plate but Cubs' catcher Randy Hundley tagged him.

Frank Pulli, a rookie umpire, then ruled that Reuss had touched the plate with his hand and permitted the run to score.

"Reuss tagged the plate with his left hand after he crossed it," said Pulli but interim manager Pete Reiser, subbing for the ailing Leo Durocher, said he got a different version.

"Pulli told me Hundley missed the tag and Reuss missed the plate but Reuss got back and touched the plate before Hundley tagged him," Resier explained. "He better not look at the instant replay."

Hundley said he could see no way in which Reuss possibly could have touched the plate. "He couldn't have tagged the plate with anything," said the Chicago catcher. "I'm on the plate and he slid away from me. There's no way that he could have touched it with his hand because it was a fallaway slide."

To add to the confusion, Reuss came up with an even different story, claiming he touched home plate with his left foot during the slide and that he wasn't really going back to the plate.

The Cubs added a run in the eighth to cut the margin to 5-4.

Reuss gained credit for the victory, his second without a loss, while Cub rookie Burt Hooton suffered his second straight loss since his no-hitter.

In other National League action Tuesday night, Philadelphia shut out San Francisco 3-0, Atlanta ripped St. Louis 9-3, Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 52 in 13 innings, Los Angeles defeated Montreal 6-1 and New York edged San Diego 2-1.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Here's Some Advice For Fishing Boats

It really doesn't matter what sort of boat you use for fishing — almost anything that floats will do in a pinch. But fishing is a lot more fun if your boat is fitted out with the needs of the sport in mind.

A fishing boat functions better if one follows an old adage: have a place for everything and have everything in its place. If you don't, you'll be unhappily surprised at the number of odd, loose items that you'll soon be kicking around underfoot in the bottom of the boat.

There are a number of good ideas and gadgets that will eliminate a lot of the clutter, and at the same time, make a lengthy stay in the boat more comfortable, less cramped and a lot safer.

The handiest of all things is a handle-bar carrier, either plastic or wire, designed for bicycles. When the carrier is hung on the gunwale so that it dangles inside the boat, it becomes a real filing cabinet for such items as sunglasses, spare hat, a lunch, first aid kit, transistor radio, sun-tan lotion and a dozen other things that you are sure to take along. They can add enormously to the clutter if not filed carefully.

The carrier is also good for hanging lures, plugs, flies or leaders without tangling.

Another good idea for lures is to fasten a half dozen small screw-eyes under the seat or thwart of the boat. Anytime you take a plug off the line and may want to use it again store it temporarily hooked through one of the screw-eyes rather than putting it back in the tackle box. It's much better than sticking one of the hooks of the lure into the gunwale. Teak, oak or mahogany gunwales will blunt hooks.

Some older aluminum boats are so slick and slippery on the decks or insides that they invite disaster if one of the occupants should stand up. Modern aluminum boats have a coat of abrasive or non-skid paint on the inside.

This non-skid paint can be bought; if your boat needs it, get some and give it greater safety. Another good thing is a rubber car mat. This will also make the inside of a boat non-skid, and at the same time protect the inside finish from ice buckets, bait cans, tackle boxes and gasoline containers.

The rubber mat is also a good fish cleaning board. And if you want to land on a pebbly shore just toss the rubber on the beach first and run the boat up on it. It will protect the outside paint.

There's a lot to fitting-out a fishing boat as the questions we get show:

Q. What do I do with 170 feet of anchor rope? I need that much to anchor in deep water off a big reef. We cast towards it.

A. I think I'd give the "rope" away and get some fine nylon or poly (polyethylene or polypropylene) line. Carry a plastic dishpan or pail in the bow and when you haul in the anchor, coil the line in the pan. You'll find it won't snarl this way. Put the anchor on top.

Q. I carry a pair of oars and two more awkward things in a fishing boat you couldn't devise. Any suggestions?

A. Convert the "pair" into a single item by slipping a rubber band cut from an old inner tube over each end of the oars. Then it's not too difficult to devise a couple of holding hooks just under the gunwale to which the bundled oars can be fastened by the rubber bands.

Q. My wife says she'll go fishing with me if I buy a safer boat . . . I think the one I've got is as safe as they come . . . any advice?

A. Take her out in a boat that's very stable, not tippy — even if you have to rent or borrow one. The one thing that makes a boat stable is beam . . . width. Try her a couple of times in a good, wide, stable boat; build up her confidence.

Softballers To Launch '72 Season

Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo will launch its 14th softball season tomorrow with a practice doubleheader in Alameda against Alburt's Clothing.

The Treemen, who have dominated Marin county softball for the past decade, will be playing on a somewhat reduced scale this season.

Sohner will play in the tough Santa Rosa AAA League and compete in five or six tournaments in Northern California.

This is a drastic change from Sohner's usual 70 to 80-game schedule.

"We may not be quite as tough as we have been, but we'll beat a lot of good teams," promised team captain Art Donati. "We're still looking for another good infielder or outfielder and one more pitcher."

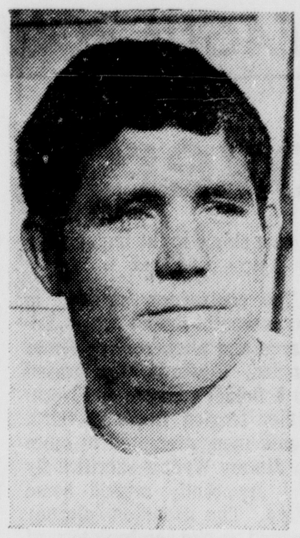
Veteran hurlers Chuck Tyson and Herb Dower will pitch Thursday's opening twin-bill. John Brookman will do the catching.

The infield will be comprised of Dick Spackman (lb), Dick Schultze (2b), Milt Hain (3b) and Ron Blum or Dick Cunningham (ss).

Donati, Keith Fraser and Bill Nichol are the starting outfielders.

Spackman, Schultze, Cunningham and Nichol are all newcomers to the Sohner lineup.

Blum, the teams all-league shortstop, moved to Napa during the winter and will therefore be ineligible to play for Sohner in the big tournaments later in the season.



ROCKY SHONE
To Europe

Shone To Play In Italy

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — University of California baseball coach George Wolfman has always said that Rocky Shone has a great mind for baseball — whether it be on the field or in the coaching box.

After one season as Cal's assistant varsity coach, the 24-year-old Cal graduate is returning to the field this summer, having signed a player's contract with Bologna of the Italian Baseball League.

He will leave the Bay Area May 8 and is scheduled to play May 13.

"I've been keeping in good shape, and I am anxious to play," Shone said. "They have told me that I am their catcher, and I want to help."

The Italians first saw Shone when he was with the Cal baseball team that conducted clinics and toured Italy this past summer. Although no statistics were kept, he batted well as the Bears won 18 and lost three against various Italian all-star teams.

"Rocky is an inspirational team leader and a superb handler of pitchers," Wolfman said. "Injuries hampered his collegiate career, but he was always one of our most valuable players. His fielding is just outstanding, and he carries a pretty solid bat."

Shone was actually the team's number two hitter as a senior, but he broke his index finger at midseason and had to settle for a .338 average in 71 times to bat. Having been elected team captain, he stayed on through the end of the season and helped with the coaching.

Wolfman secured his coaching help this spring, and the Cal coach said Rocky has been a very able assistant.

Petaluma Swimmers Tie Sonoma

Sonoma High School took the last event yesterday to force a 47-47 tie with host Petaluma in the final North Bay-Sonoma County League dual swimming meet this year for both schools.

In other Southern Sonoma County League swimming, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park was soaked, 62-32, by Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

Petaluma, which finished 8-11-1, had two double winners in Mike Caldwell and Fred Gibson. Caldwell took the 50-yard freestyle in 24.2 and the 100 backstroke in 1:03.5. Gibson swam to a 2:09.2 first in the 200 free and a 4:42.9 win in the 400 free.

Mike Dawson took two events for Rancho Cotate, winning the 50 free with a 23.6 and the butterfly in 59.3. The Cougars ended their season with an 8-11-1 record, to tie Petaluma for sixth.

Rancho Triumphs

Dave Christensen pitched a four-hit shutout yesterday to lead Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park to a 7-0 victory over El Molino in Forestville for the Cougars' fifth straight Sonoma County League baseball victory.

In other Southern Sonoma County baseball action, St. Vincent battered host Upper Lake, 7-1, in a North Central League II clash, and Tomales was belted, 7-2, by visiting NCL II foe Point Arena.

Christensen, who came into the game sporting a microscopic 1.12 earned run average, allowed only four El Molino singles while striking out eight and walking two. He picked up his third league victory against no losses.

The Cougars did their biggest damage in the third inning, picking up four runs on a double by Bob Murray, a misplayed fielder's choice, singles by Lou Goring and Wayne Hill and an error. Hill went two for four to lead Rancho Cotate.

St. Vincent hurlers Herm Benedetti and Jim McCaffrey combined to throw a three-hitter at the Upper Lake, which had handed the Mustangs an early league loss. Mike Graber and Pete Leoni led the batting attack, with Graber collecting a double and a single in four attempts and Leoni belting a triple to drive in Graber in the three-run seventh.

Tomales continued to have defensive lapses and they proved the Braves' undoing against the Pirates. Tomales committed three errors in Point Arena's fifth-inning four-run binge, three of which were unearned off starter and losr Jim Joyce. Joyce, the Tomales mound workhorse, suffered his third league loss against three wins.

Commodity Market Is 'Wild' One

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have done well in the stock market and can now afford to speculate. The possibilities of the commodity market interest me. What would you say to this type of speculation?—G.M.

A. A word of caution: Ability in the stock market in no way assures similar success in commodities. However, a secure financial position, with a good supply of venture capital, helps. Steady nerves and the ability to be wholly objective are also prime requisites for trading in this "wild and woolly" market.

Before you make the plunge you should do some studying to familiarize yourself with the modus operandi of commodity trading. Then narrow your study to a few specific commodities, getting information on supply/demand, inventories, export/import situation and anticipated consumption. Depending on which commodities you have selected, factors such as government subsidies, Dept. of Agriculture crop reports and international monetary exchange rates are important. Markets are also affected by conditions in competitive or contingent commodities. So, if these exist, you should familiarize yourself with them. For instance, a shortage of copper would affect aluminum futures, or soybean scarcity would help sorghum. Information is available from commodity market letters, brokerage houses which deal in this market and from the news media. In addition to fundamental factors, there is the technical side of the market requiring an understanding of open interest, volume and price chart patterns.

Margin requirements, which vary from one commodity to another, are significantly lower than on securities. Typically, contracts are purchased for 5 per cent to 10 per cent down. Since the transaction involves contracts not products there is no debit balance, therefore, no interest charge. Commission costs run $30 to $45 — on average — for the contract which includes both purchase and sale. From a tax standpoint there is greater flexibility particularly as to holding periods. Prior to investing decide how much you are able to invest in commodities and then observe your limit. Spread your funds over several markets, place stop limits to cut losses.

Mill Valley Man Is An Architect Fellow

John Fisher-Smith of Mill Valley, associate partner of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill of San Francisco, has been elected to the College of Fellows of the American Institute of Architects.

Fellowship is a lifetime honor given by the Institute for outstanding contributions to the profession. Current membership in the college is only 975 nationwide.

In 1968 Fisher-Smith won the AIA Slide Show Award for his "California — 3 Images", focusing attention on the crucial environmental problems of the state. He was the first recipient of the California Council AIA Architect's Service Award in 1970.

Fisher-Smith was founding trustee of the Planning and Conservation League, a citizens' lobby in the state Capitol. From 1967 to 1968 he served as consultant to the National Commission on Urban Problems to make recommendations for environmental improvements.

He was president of the Muir Woods Park Improvement Association last year, and was also president of Sight and Insight, Inc., a non-profit organization which teaches art through training the individual's perception of his environment.

PG&E Common Stock Earnings Take Good Jump

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. earnings per share of common stock jumped 8 cents the first three months of the year up to 87 cents per share.

PG&E president Shermer told stockholders Tuesday that primarily because of higher electric rates the 12 months which ended March 31 produced earnings per common share of $2.83, compared with $2.57 for the preceding 12 months.

"The first quarter's growth in earnings resulted primarily from higher electric rates which went into effect late in the first quarter of 1971," Sibley said.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

42 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Last Dec. 17, Dr. John S. Guerrant submitted his resignation as director of Marin's Community Mental Health Center.

Nearly four months later, County Supervisor Louis H. Baar raised a question as to what was causing the delay in finding a successor for this important position.

Two days after that, the board of supervisors got a report from Maren Rinne, county personnel director.

IT SAID THAT recruiting started on March 6 (nearly three months after Dr. Guerrant's resignation) with distribution of a brochure to "California Community Mental Health Agencies, other related agencies and standard recruitment and mailing lists."

On April 1 and 2, reported Miss Rinne, newspaper advertisements were placed in the Independent Journal and the San Francisco Chronicle. On April 5, an advertisement appeared in Psychiatric News.

"The late advertising dates were made necessary by the 30-day advance deadline requirement of Psychiatric News, the most appropriate trade journal for this position," reported Miss Rinne.

Deadline for applications was last Friday. The applications are being screened this week. The personnel office, according to Miss Rinne's report, hopes to interview candidates May 10.

IF THE BOARD of supervisors then acts promptly, this could mean that the vacant job of Community Mental Health Center director could be filled May 16 — five months, lacking one day, since Dr. Guerrant submitted his resignation. There would, presumably, be additional delay of up to a month since the person selected would have to give notice to his present employer.

In the meantime, the job is "filled" as another duty added to the multiple responsibilities of Dr. Donovan O. Cooke — who, not incidentally, was elected county coroner after campaigning that he would be "full-time coroner."

WHY IT WAS necessary to prepare a brochure to recruit a new mental health center director escapes us. Certainly anyone competent to fill a job paying $31,500 per year — and wanting that job — would investigate what it entailed, including visiting Marin County to find out on the scene. A mimeographed job description would be adequate.

Since Dr. Guerrant resigned in mid-December, it would appear that the 30-day advance deadline for advertising in the Psychiatric News (assuming that was necessary) would have allowed the advertisement to appear in its February issue, instead of April.

Dr. Guerrant gave the county adequate notice. He did not leave until the end of February. If the county personnel director, county administrator and board of supervisors had acted expeditiously, Dr. Guerrant's successor could have been on hand when he departed.

The county administrator is paid $27,500 per year. The personnel director is paid $18,240 per year. It would seem that for those salaries, more efficiency could be expected than is indicated by a five-month delay in finding someone to recommend for such an important position as director of the Community Mental Health Center.

Toting Up The Tax Takes: 44 Per Cent Of Incomes

By RUS WALTON

The California Taxpayers' Association has just published its tote card on taxes for 1971-72. And all those mean things you have been saying about taxes are true.

California taxpayers will shell out $42.6 billion for this fiscal year ending June 30. That's for all taxes — federal, state and local. A tax is a tax is a tax.

The Governor's Economic Report says the total personal income for the state for the same period should be about $96 billion. It was $93 billion for 1971 and is estimated at $100 billion for 1972.

I'M NO WHIZ at math but the way I figure it, if the personal income total is $96 billion and the tax total is $42.6 billion, taxes are running about 44 per cent of total personal incomes.

Right about here is where some student of Economics I-A is supposed to stand up and say something smart about the taxes paid by business and industry, banks and corporations.

Well, fella, you don't have to have a sheepskin to know that corporations don't pay taxes. They just collect them. People pay taxes. One way or another, people end up paying all the taxes.

And here is where the taxes go this year:

To the state — $6.5 billion.

To local governments (city, county, school and special district) — $7.1 billion; $6.4 billion of that from property taxes.

And finally, or first, to Uncle Gimmie — $28.1 billion, including $3.3 billion in gasoline and social security taxes.

IN 1967-68, Californians paid a tax total of $26.6 billion. Since then we have been fed by sweet nothings about federal tax reductions and property tax relief. And it has been just about that — sweet nothings; because in four years the tax take has increased by $16 billion a year — a spurt of 60 per cent.

The per capita income for Californians for 1971, was $4,610. The per capita tax will come to about $2,130. But that doesn't really tell the tax tale. Some folks pay less, some pay more, and some pay nothing. And when you get right down to reality, it's the middle income family that proportionately pays the most.

There are 2.3 million taxpayers in the state in the $10-25,000 income groups. They pay a total of $575 million in state income taxes, which is about half of the total take. Their share of sales and excise and property taxes is even greater.

Add to those ranks the folks who once earned in that income bracket but who are now retired — retired and watching their incomes washed away by rising taxes and racing inflation.

Underneath them are the welfare programs and the low-low tax rates. Above them are the very wealthy and the tax loopholes and dodges. Last year, in this land, there were 18,600 families with incomes of $100,000 or more who paid taxes at the rate of 7 per cent.

The way things are, we're socializing the bottom and the top and forcing the family in the middle to pay for it through free enterprise.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Nice Part-Time Work If You Can Keep It

In her letter to your paper, Mrs. Marty Kent Jones, Peter Arrigoni's campaigner, derides candidate Barbara Boxer's offer to replace the second district's friendly, pleasant and very part-time supervisor Arrigoni with a hearty, vigorous full-time devotion to the job.

Our part-time supervisor, Mr. Arrigoni, is drawing more than the average Marinite earns in a full-time job (over $14,000 yearly) and Mrs. Jones suggests that whether or not we have a full-time supervisor should be voted on as a separate issue. Perhaps so. Especially in view of the fact that the salaries for supervisor are not voted upon by the public.

For example, Mr. Arrigoni recently voted himself a $100 per month raise.

Surely Mrs. Jones and Mr. Arrigoni would agree that this is nice part-time work if you can keep it.

Pollution Begins With Family 'Taxi'

The average person thinks "big industries" are responsible for our polluted environment. The millions of automobile commuters are also blamed for the same reason. I am not going to defend big business or the commuters, but tell you where our big problem is.

I was recently feeling physically unfit, so have taken up bicycle riding for 1/2 hour in the mornings. The exercise is great for this middle-aged body. I would say that exercise is good for anybody. There are several schools in Terra Linda. I wish you could see the cars with mothers and children by the hundreds, every day, rain or shine. A mother's responsibility is to feed her children nourishing food to build up their bodies. Don't you think it makes sense for the same child to walk to school, for exercise? Now, I know there are extenuating circumstances, where a child lives too far from school or lives in a remote section where it might be dangerous to walk. In my three-mile travels, every day I see cars filled with children, that do not have to be chauffeured. I have mentioned this matter to European friends, who walked to school every day. It's unheard of to drive a child to school, there. Why don't we learn from a continent that has survived for so many hundreds of years?

I think there are far too many unnecessary second and third car families, in our country. It helps Detroit and the oil companies. Let's save our environment and our lives. I've never heard of anyone dying of walking.

Arrigoni Refuses To Join In Debate

Since debates bring out the issues more clearly, and since I would like to become an informed voter, I have been trying for weeks now to arrange a debate among the three candidates running for supervisor in the Second District. To date two candidates, Dr. William Filante and Mrs. Stewart Boxer, agreed to debate but the incumbent, Mr. Peter Arrigoni, refuses to participate. Could it be that he is running away from his record instead of standing on it?

Cites Taxes Paid On Mobile Home Park

An article in your paper April 18 by Earl G. Waters, entitled, "No effort made to correct mobile home tax inequities," is not entirely correct in its reasoning. A short time ago I had occasion to investigate a mobile park since the owners had increased the rent based on a tax boost. The facts of that investigation are as follows:

At the time land was purchased for the park in 1967-1968 the tax was $1144.56. The area was zoned light industrial and was used for grazing land. According to a survey made by a reputable company hired by the city for an overall evaluation of the city, this piece of property was not suitable for anything except grazing land . . . However the mobile home park was built on the property with a swimming pool and recreation hall. The entire lot was fenced to provide privacy. The park consists of 134 spaces with water, gas, electricity, telephone, and TV at each space. The roads, lighting, sewers, and plantings are owned and maintained by the park and require no services from the city. The police and fire department are required but rarely. There are 34 children in the park, 15 of which do go to school. With the improvements on the land the taxes in 1971-1972 are $18,104.56 which is a difference in taxes from 1968 is then $16,959.66 which in turn is $126.12 per space, which indirectly is paid by the space rentor. The value of the mobile homes in this park would average $11,000 since it is a relatively new park. In fact then each tenant in the park is paying $140.00 in lieu tax plus $126.12 land tax for a total of $266.12. Considering that each space is approximately one half the size of a conventional building lot it would seem that the return to the tax collectors for this piece of grazing land does not seem to be quite as inequitable as it would first appear, if all the facts are taken into consideration . . .

Hanoi Clarifies The Issues And Dispels Some Old Myths

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's refusal to allow the United States to be driven out of Vietnam by Hanoi's massed invasion is getting new and unexpected support.

It would be a reasonable assumption that opinion is by now so firm and the lines of political campaigning so fixed that no development in Vietnam could alter it.

Not so. Change is significantly visible on Capitol Hill and the sign of that change is that two of the Senate's most influential and respected doves — Senators George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. — are endorsing the action the President has taken in response to Hanoi's massive attacks.

A few days ago I had occasion to ask Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., why he thought such earnest and honest critics of the administration's paced withdrawal from Vietnam had come to approve the decision to bomb the north. Senator Cranston was the leader of the anti-administration side in the Vietnam debate last week. His reply was:

"I just don't understand it."

IT DOESN'T SEEM hard to understand.

What has happened is that Hanoi has provided the full and final evidence that it is engaged in a calculated, all-out armed aggression to conquer South Vietnam by force.

It has torn away its pretense that it has been giving just a bit of help and leadership to a strong and popular indigenous revolution of South Vietnamese, the Viet Cong.

If this were true, would Hanoi have to send nearly its entire army —12 of its 13 divisions — across the frontier to fight the VC's "revolution?"

In the "understanding" reached between President Johnson and Hanoi as a condition to begin the Paris negotiations, North Vietnam gave its assurance there would be no further attack on major South Vietnamese cities and that the DMZ would remain inviolate.

Both of these undertakings have been brazenly violated.

Hanoi has been pouring division after division across the DMZ.

Hanoi's armies have been attacking cities with heavy arms.

In the face of such open and bald aggression, it does not seem difficult to understand why Senators Aiken and Cooper, who in the past have been on the side of the McGoverns and the Fulbrights, should change their stance.

Aiken and Cooper, too, are men of peace, but it is evident that they do not think that condoning aggression is the way to peace.

HANOI HAS ALSO wiped from the slate and removed from the realm of rationality the myth that it is the United States which is escalating the fighting. Two facts destroy this fiction and fiction doesn't become true by repeating it.

There was no renewed bombing of the North until Hanoi launched its all-out invasion.

Hanoi has slyly suggested that it would resume the Paris talks if we would cease the air strikes.

In other words, Hanoi wants to negotiate while fighting if the United States will negotiate without fighting.

That is adequate evidence as to who started the escalating.

Conceivably, the resistance which the U.S. air and naval strikes are helping Saigon to mount will persuade Hanoi it is not going to wipe out the South Vietnamese forces. Then, serious negotiations will be possible.

THOSE WHO WOULD end the war under any condition would readily give South Vietnam to the invaders as the price.

Those who think that rewarding aggression means planting the seeds of future war —as at Munich —will want to see two crucial ingredients in any negotiated settlement.

1—A standstill cease-fire under international supervision.

2—The right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam —this, too, under international guarantees.

Hanoi's expanding aggression has been a great clarifier.

Minority Hiring Problems Plague Assembled Editors

WASHINGTON — As a long, long-time observer of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Jaycees, Communists, Democrats, Republicans and other types of humanity gathered together into conventions, I must say the newspaper editors meeting last week in Washington showed more professional concern for what ails them than any specialized group I can remember.

On some of the issues they discussed, like government secrecy, the answer was easy: Carry on as we always have, with aggressiveness and responsibility. On others, there was a clear consensus about what needs to be done, but nearly unanimous frustration about doing it. The most frustrating of these is the hiring and full use of black, Chicano and other minority group newspapermen.

It was a rare old bird in the group who failed to acknowledge that the minorities are under-represented on the news staffs of American papers, and that the time to hire and train more such newsmen is yesterday and today. But, to deal with the largest minority, there simply are not enough qualified blacks to fill the slots available to them. Even if you skip qualifications and make allowances for educational background in order to hire more blacks, you cannot find them. There are increasing and legitimate demands for the hiring of blacks, especially by papers in cities with heavy black populations. Yet barely .75 of one per cent of the country's newspaper professionals are from the standard minority groups.

THERE ARE THREE overlapping reasons:

1—Most minority families are undereducated and have no tradition of reading—books, papers or anything else. Ghetto dwellers spend more time watching television than any other group. Newspapers, specifically, have little appeal because they offer very inadequate coverage of the black community.

2—Among those young blacks who do turn toward a media career, a high proportion looks first at the fast-buck fields of television and advertising. The newspaper business, despite great advances in recent years, remains a competitive field that demands high competence but returns relatively low pay.

3—Therefore, even when a black student is enticed into reporting, editing or photography, sometimes hired ahead of a white with better strictly professional qualifications, sometimes paid a premium above that set for his experience level, his background raises the odds against his success. Then, when a given individual is successful, he is such a hot item on the market that he often is hired away by television, the government, public relations or a bigger newspaper.

It is discouraging. Not unique to the newspaper business, by any means. The demand for educated, talented blacks and Chicanos is belatedly heavy in every profession, and the supply is nowhere near catching up. But the newspaper business has a double duty to bring them in—the same obligation to open opportunity it shares with all enterprises, plus the need to improve its own coverage and understanding of those minority groups.

By 1972, nearly all papers, including those in the South, have accepted this in principle. Most are trying to put it into practice. Some of the papers that fought desegregation hardest over the last two decades are now among the leaders in hiring blacks.

WHAT HAPPENED lately at the paper with the best minority hiring record in the country —the Washington Post — has given some reluctant editors an excuse for hanging back. The liberal Post has enough black newsmen for them to form a caucus of their own within the staff and to file a formal complaint that they have not been promoted fast enough to senior positions.

Without judging that internal situation, it is simple to gauge its effect on the nationwide effort to bring minorities onto newspapers. It has hurt. Any old-fashioned publisher who has been prodded along into 1972 by a realistic editor can now point at the Post and say, "See? We don't want any of that around here."

The refreshing thing about the editors' convention was that after deploring the shortage of qualified or merely interested candidates, after shaking their heads about the unpleasantness at the Post, most of them expressed just as much determination as before to find and hire minority newsmen. As a class, these are unusually conscientious men, and they intend to do what they should despite the discouragements.

Marin's A Lovely Place —But Pay Your Dog License

Marin's a lovely place. For those of you who have lived here a long while and perhaps have lost perspective, let me assure you, Marin's a lovely place.

I'm relatively new, having lived in other parts of the Bay Area but (alas!) not having had much exposure to Marin. During casual drives and bike rides it seems the quaint little streets here are quainter and the picturesque little parks are more picturesque and the funky shops are funkier. And these things somehow seem natural to Marin.

All this lends to my proposition that Marin is different — vibrant, yet more relaxing than, say, San Francisco with its towers and plains of concrete and the East Bay with its scattered overdevelopment and contrasting expanses of browned and slowly undulating hills.

You've probably heard all this before, but I just thought I'd mention it. Must keep things in perspective, you know.

ONE POOR SAP who couldn't keep his mouth shut literally paid for it one recent afternoon. It seems the fellow parked his car downtown in Fairfax and left his unlicensed pup inside the car. His master out of sight, the pup scrambled out of the car and like all good dogs, took to sniffing about.

Someone from the Humane Society got wind of the pup running free and, when the guy returned to his car, tried to persuade him to pay the licensing fee. The dog's owner became pretty vocal, refusing loudly to pay. Local police were called in, as is generally the case in fee-collecting flaps such as this, but the man still refused to pay.

After listening to the fellow's plaint for a few minutes the police decided to run a routine check on his license plates. Within 30 seconds came the message on police radio: the car had outstanding traffic warrants in the amount of $55. That did it. The man was escorted to the poice station where he was given two choices — post the $55 bail or be booked at county jail. Grumbling, he paid the $55.

So instead of quietly paying the license fee in the first place — a matter of a couple of bucks —it cost the guy close to $60 just to get out of town.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — It was deep into the night and the agenda item before the San Rafael City Council was approval of a final map for a subdivision called El Pavo Real Estates. By the time the routine item came up, Mayor C. Paul Bettini was anxious to keep the meeting moving quickly to other items on the lengthy agenda. He inquired of the council's pleasure on the matter, hurriedly pronouncing "Pavo" with a long "a." Laughter erupted everywhere inside the chamber. "That," chortled Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, a large smile creasing his face, "has got to be the worst name for a subdivision."

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

50 Pct. School Financing By State Pushed Again

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

In each annual session of the Legislature, the California Teachers Association backs a school finance bill. In recent years, a regular feature of these bills has been a provision that the state must pay 50 per cent of the cost of public school education.

This year is no exception. CTA's finance bill in the current session is Senate Bill 90, by state Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro. And a key section says: "The Legislature hereby declares that . . . it is in the best interest of the state to provide, from other than ad valorem property taxes, not less than 50 per cent of the cost of education in the public school system."

It then spells out how this is to be done (though not how the money is to be raised). It provides that the state superintendent of public instruction shall compute the expenditure per pupil for education in each school district, and increase that by whatever inflation percentage is shown by the January cost-of-living index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Half of the resulting amount per pupil shall be provided by the state. If there is not enough money in the state school fund (which there won't be), the state controller must transfer from the general fund whatever is necessary to make up the difference.

This is essentially the same formula that was included in Proposition 8 two years ago, which was rejected by the voters in the June, 1970, primary.

A MAJOR FLAW in it is that, although expressing intent to equalize support "to provide adequate educational programs for all pupils regardless of where they reside," it preserves existing inequities in financial support of the schools.

If a district (such as Sausalito Elementary School District) spends more than $2,000 per pupil on its schools this year, SB 90 would assure that the state will contribute some $1,000 per pupil to that district hereafter. If other districts (such as quite a few of California's rural districts) spend only about $500 per pupil this year, they will get only about $250 per pupil (plus whatever is necessary to meet one-half of the cost-of-living inflation) from the state hereafter.

SB 90 also contains a definitely inflationary provision, calling on the controller to transfer to the state school fund an additional amount of 50 per cent of the cost of "any new educational program or expansion of any existing program (which is authorized or required by law."

A good case can be made for the state to provide half — or even all — of the cost of any new educational program it requires. Too often the Lelislature has mandated programs without providing the money for them. But many experimental and "enrichment" programs are authorized by law which are perhaps desirable but are not necessary for the schools. The high-spending districts add such programs; the low-spending districts do not. Providing that the state will pay half the cost would encourage high-spending districts to add still more — thus increasing the disparity between "rich" and "poor" districts. Also, it would tend to increase costs by giving a special-interest groups leverage to lobby for new programs "because the state will pay half" — leaving the district to dig the other half out of the property tax, often at the expense of essentials.

IT IS NOTEWORTHY that CTA, which is backing this measure, also is pushing for a permissive Education Code, which would allow school districts carte blanche in adding new programs. Coupled with this tax bill, such a code would obligate the state to pay half of undetermined and even unpredictable new programs in districts that love to experiment.

SB 90 does nothing to reform the ludicrously complicated system of state school apportionments. The complicated formulas are retained as in the present law, with only the figures changed.

College Play In Final Week

"The Andersonville Trial," a Civil War drama by Saul Levitt will have its final four performances beginning tonight.

Produced by the College of Marin Department of Theater Arts, the play is being presented in the San Francisco Theological Theater on Kensington Road in San Anselmo.

Curtain time through Saturday is 8 p.m.

Players Ready In Ross Valley

"Forty Carats," a comedy from Broadway, will be presented by the Ross Valley Players each weekend through May 27, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Adapted by Jay Allen from an original French play, "Forty Carats" deals with a 40-year-old divorcee and her 22-year-old suitor. It humorously refutes the notion that age makes a difference in romantic affairs.

Featured in the cast are Jean McKimmey, Ernest A. Widlund, Jack Powell, Dale Kleine, Barbara Morrisey, Della DeMoss, Rey Collins, Arden Sampson, Joanne Kunz, Alexander Ross and Gary Hermes.

The play is directed by William Derveniotes.

Road Cutting Brings A Fine

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday fined a development company $2,000 for illegally cutting roads in an 800-acre tract next to Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Judge David Menary said he fined the Lone Star Lands Corp. $500 on each of four counts of violating the county's grading and excavating ordinance. "They are the real culprits apparently," he said.

On Monday, the judge fined L and M Equipment Rental Co. $1,000 for violating the ordinance.

However, charges against the partnership of Thomas E. Pierce, Tania A. Ludlam and Robet L. and Dolores J. Pinney were dismissed when they promised to repair damage to the land.

A criminal complaint was filed against the four persons and the two companies Nov. 24 after county public works employees discovered the land south of Nicasio had been extensively graded and stream beds had been filed with rocks and brush.

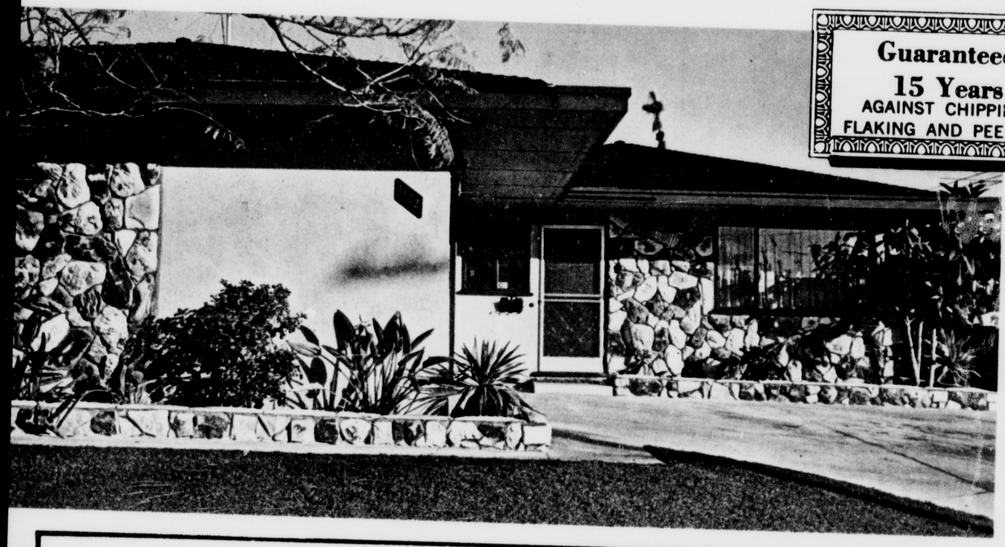
ADVERTISED IN LIFE

DURA-FLEX the "Climatized Coating" WILL GIVE YOUR HOME LASTING PROTECTION AND BEAUTY NEVER BEFORE OFFERED



Guaranteed 15 Years AGAINST CHIPPING FLAKING AND PEELING

DURA-FLEX

The "Climatized Coating"

Applied with special heavy duty equipment under 450 lbs. of pressure per square inch to a thickness approximately 20 times that of ordinary paint, that coating actually fuses itself to the wall surface and becomes a permanent part of the wall assuring longer lasting beauty, protection and insulation.

Partial Roll Call of Satisfied DURA-FLEX Users

- U.S. Customs Court House and Federal Office Building, New York City
- Dobbs Catering Kitchens throughout the U.S.A.
- Holiday Inn, Mobile, Alabama
- Bank of America Branches throughout the State of California
- Eastman Kodak Building, Atlanta, Georgia
- U.S. Air Force Bases, Far Eastern Command
- Mayport Naval Station, Mayport, Florida
- American Telephone and Telegraph Buildings, Texas and Oklahoma
- Supreme Sugar Refinery, Louisana

SAVE MONEY YEAR AFTER YEAR

One high pressure application bonds directly onto any surface without mess or odor . . . insulates, waterproofs, eliminates repainting and increases your property values.

COVER ALL SURFACES TO SEAL CRACKS, HOLES AND ALL OTHER DEFECTS.

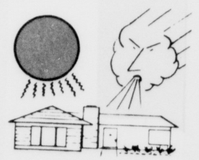
FOR – WOOD – STUCCO – CONCRETE BLOCK – ASBESTOS SIDING – ETC.

Carefully selected by leading decorators, each color is outstanding in its ability to enhance the appearance of any building, in addition to its weathering resistant qualities. The "Climatized" Coating may be applied over any existing color or finish . . . it wil not fade or discolor and is easily washed.

EASY CREDIT TERMS AVAILABLE

WATERPROOFS

Provides a "raincoat" for your building . . . stops constant absorption of moisture. The "Climatized" Coating will not oxidize; its waterproofing ability fully meets U.S. Government Specification SS-W-00110 (SA-FSS).

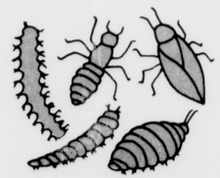


INSULATES

SAVE MONEY ON FUEL BILLS! You get better insulation than with many conventional insulating materials . . . your house will be warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

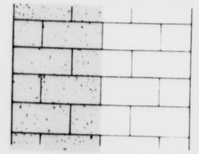
BEAUTIFIES and PROTECTS

Surface imperfections are covered by a beautiful, unblemished finish that is guaranteed to resist deterioration. Eliminate year in and year out need for costly repainting and maintenance.



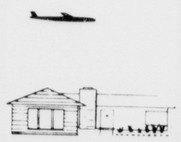
FIGHTS BUGS and FUNGUS

Formulated with TERMIKILL (an especially prepared additive), the "Climatized" Coating is designed to eliminate fungus, dry-rot, mildew, milspores, termite life and other noxious growth. Meets and exceeds U.S. Government Specification TT-P-29B.



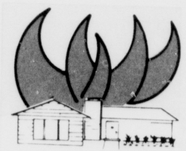
WILL NOT CHIP FLAKE or PEEL

Built-in toughness and flexibility make it possible for the "Climatized" Coating to retain its "brand-new" look for years and years . . . you'll be glad you chose this fully tested and guaranteed product!



REDUCES NOISE

Nature's most effective sound barrier is trapped, still air . . . in the "Climatized" Coating there are millions of air bubbles doing the job of absorbing sound waves from traffic, overhead aircraft, neighbors, etc.



FIRE RETARDANT

Extensive laboratory testing, plus years of experience in the field, show the "Climatized" Coating to be absolutely unable to support combustion. In many cases this ability to endure heat and flames has saved the building.

INCREASES VALUE OF PROPERTY

Protection against deterioration means your property will be worth even more as the years go by . . . you'll be relieved of worry about maintenance, paint and repair bills . . . you'll be happier with a beautiful "brand-new" appearance that is guaranteed to last.

ONE HOME RAZED: SECOND DAMAGED

Dillon Beach resident Frank Martin shoots water on the remains of his house at 8 Ocean View as his wife views the site. Fire today razed the Martin home and extensively damaged the adjacent house of Louis Gerkin at 6 Ocean View (rear). Neither home was occupied when the Martin house was engulfed in flames about 4 a.m. The Marin County Fire Department sent five trucks to the blaze. The Martins estimated loss of the one-bedroom rental unit at $13,000 to the house and $1,000 to the contents. No estimate was available on damage to the Gerkin house.

Key Viet Pass Is Opened

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied soldiers opened the vital An Khe pass along east-west Highway 19 in the Central Highlands today, temporarily spoiling a Communist attempt to cut the country in half. However, South Vietnamese troops lost another base on north-south Highway 1, 40 miles away and were pushed back another mile at the city of Kontum.

Closer to Saigon, six Americans were believed killed when North Vietnamese ground fire blew up their C130 transport plane. The men were trying to drop supplies to South Vietnamese forces at An Loc, 60 miles north of the capital.

In Cambodia, Communist guerrillas disguised as government troops captured two freelance journalists and their Cambodian driver only 30 miles from Phnom Penh. One of the men—Terry Reynolds, 30, of Grainfield, Kan. — and the driver were on assignment for United Press International. The third man was identified as Alan Hirons, 24, of Melbourne, Australia.

The apparent Communist strategy in the Central Highlands is to seize Kontum city, almost 300 miles north of Saigon, then move 30 miles south and seize the city of Pleiku.

From there, North Vietnamese troops could move east on Highway 19 and link up with Communist troops now trying to seize control on the coast near Qui Nhon, thus cutting the country in two.

President Nguyen Van Thieu reportedly ordered a counterattack near Kontum and told his troops to recapture Tan Canh base 25 miles north of the city. A Communist force of 4,000 men backed by tanks was reportedly advancing on the city.

South Korean infantrymen opened the An Khe pass—which lies approximately half way between Kontum-Pleiku and Qui Nhon—after a 16-day battle. They said they killed 705 Communists and lost 51 of their own men in the fight.

The Communists would have to recapture the pass to link up with their troops, on the east and west and sever the country.

A similar attempt to cut South Vietnam was made in 1965 but it was stopped by large numbers of American troops.

U.S. airpower in South Vietnam has doubled since the North Vietnamese offensive began March 30, but there are less than 5,000 ground combat troops still in the country, and President Nixon said he does not plan to send more into the country.

Despite the loss of An Khe pass, Communists seized artillery base Salem 30 miles north of Qui Nhon and pushed South Vietnamese defenders back another mile north of Kontum.

The Communists are now battling South Vietnamese at the village of Vo Dinh only 11 miles from Kontum, a provincial capital.

Thieu wants to set up a defense line north and northwest of the city to keep the Communists from overruning Kontum and seizing Pleiku.

The North Vietnamese earlier outflanked a string of eight bases set up to defend Kontum.

On the coast, artillery base Salem fell after 25 hours of fighting. Military sources said the 150-200 South Vietnamese "stood and fought and were overrun." It is only seven miles south of Hoai An, a district

Old Courthouse Sale Approved By Supervisors

San Rafael Council To Consider Agreement At Monday Meeting

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved an agreement to sell the old county courthouse site in San Rafael to the city for $650,000. (Other supervisors stories, page 9.)

The agreement, approved on a 4-1 vote with Supervisor Michael Wornum dissenting, will be considered Monday by the San Rafael City Council.

If it accepts, the city will have six months to come up with the $650,000 or forfeit $10,000 to the county. It must also be in the process of working on a development plan by July 25 with approval not later than Oct. 25.

The agreement requires that 40 per cent of the downtown site be left in open space with about half that fronting on Fourth Street.

Hanging in the wings throughout the months of negotiations has been a $650,000 offer from McKeon Construction Co. of Sacramento which proposes a six to eight-story office building, three-story building and covered parking on the site.

The firm, represented yesterday by San Rafael attorney Albert Bianchi, said it agreed with the sale conditions which it will assume if it acquires the property from the city.

Supervisor Wornum, in voting against the sale, said he opposed the action since under McKeon's proposal the Fourth Street frontage would be partially blocked by the eight-story building.

He proposed setting an 85-foot setback along Fourth Street but the idea was rejected as unreasonable by other supervisors.

The board's action also was protested by Elizabeth Falk of San Rafael who said the agreement did not insure that the open space would remain available for public use.

With the exception of Wornum, supervisors agreed that they had never intended for the property to be kept as a public park if privately developed.

Mrs. Falk was joined by Joan Seminario of Marin Alternative in urging that the agreement be amended to provide that the Fourth Street frontage be kept open for public use.

Attorney Bianchi said his client intends to keep the land available but would not agree to be bound legally.

"We want the right to complain about the use of land just as any other private landowner would," he said. "We want the right to complain if the Hells Angels decide to hold their regional, semiannual pageant on our front yard," he added as the room erupted in laughter.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar, who noted the site has been a white elephant for seven years, said he felt it was "wonderful that someone was willing to develop it." He added that while the $650,000 was $100,000 less than the original asking price, tha original figure was "arbitarily" selected to start negotiations.

On a motion by Supervisor John F. McInnis, who has been involved in trying to sell the property for years, the board approved the agreement with Wornum dissenting.

Prices Tie Up Salmon Fishing

Commercial salmon fishermen up and down the Pacific Coast, including numerous skippers in Sausalito, have stayed in port since the season's opening April 15 in a dispute over prices.

The tieup has, in turn, forced retailers to other markets, driving up store prices in some cases.

About 1,000 boats, including some 50 moored in Sausalito, are affected.

Zeke Grader, operator of Ocean Trader, a Sausalito seafood wholesaler, said today the fishermen have refused to leave port until buyers offer a higher price for a catch.

Local fishermen are asking 97 cents a pound for large king salmon (12 pounds and above), 77 cents for a medium king (at least eight pounds) and 67 cents for a small king (below eight pounds.) Buyers are offering 80-60-50 cents, respectively.

Said an East Bay skipper, "Last year the markets informed us that salmon was being forced into the gourmet range of foods because of high costs and so forced us to take a 30 per cent reduction in top proce from $105 a pound to 76 cents. "The 50-60-80 they are offering just doesn't take up the slack of that drop."

The fisherman, who are not organized into a union, refused last year to fish for three weeks in a similar dispute.

Walter Milani, manager of Greenbrae Fish and Poultry in the Bon Air Shopping Center, said he had no fresh salmon last week, but this week obtained some from Alaska. Where the normal price in season is $1.19 to $1.29 per pound, salmon now sells from his market at between $1.99 and $239 a pound, Milani said.

Rick Reynolds, operator of Del Reeno's Meat, Fish and Poultry on Fourth Street, San Rafael, said he also has obtained salmon from out of the area but that it hasn't affected the price much.

Navy Is Spurning Oil Probe

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — The U.S. Navy, facing prosecution for spilling oil in San Francisco Bay, stymied state officials yesterday by classifying its evidence and spurning subpoenas to testify at a hearing on the spill.

The hearing by the Regional Water Quality Control Board had been set at 2:15 p.m. in the Alameda County Public Works Building, but was scratched for at least a month after the Navy said the U.S. attorney's office in San Francisco had advised the Navy not to testify. (Other water quality control stories, page 10.)

Without evidence or Navy witnesses, there could be no hearing. And without the hearing, the board cannot procede with prosecution through the attorney general's office.

The Navy could be fined up to $6,000-a day in a court order under a 1971 state law authored by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. It would be the first case under the new state law.

The regional board's legal adviser, William R. Attwater, told the Independent-Journal he will attempt to get a written statement from the Navy on the spill before the board's May 23 hearing.

According to the board's staff, the aircraft carrier Midway spilled approximately 3,000 gallons of bunker oil while berthed on March 12 at Alameda Naval Air Station. The persons responsible for the spill, the staff reported, are Capt. William Harris, commanding officer of the Midway, and Secretary of the Navy John H. Chafee.

Court Schedules Bolinas Director

A director of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District was to be arraigned today in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of malicious mischief stemming from March 24 vandalism in Bolinas.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter W. Evans said Gregory Hewlett, 31, is charged with smahing four windows at the Seashore Realty on Brighton Avenue and slashing seven tires on two autos belonging to William L. Creitz, secretary of the Bolinas Property Owners Association.

Evans indicated the property damage was the result of conflict between property owners and the utility district board, four of whose members came to office last November in an election and recall which ousted two incumbents.

At its first meeting the new utility board imposed an indefinite moratorium on new water connections in the district, a move opposed by area land owners.

And in January the board increased water charges, particulary for larger users, and also levied sewer charges against downtown property. A group of Bolinas businessmen have filed suit against the district in Marin Superior Court to invalidate the new rates and charges, claiming they will cause serious financial hardships for many small businessmen.

Another dispute in the community centers around a waste disposal system now being planned for the area. Property owners would like to see a larger system than that now envisioned by the utility district board which is seeking to limit population by keeping the system small.

Evans said Hewlett is charged with causing damages totaling $1,400 in the two incidents in the evening hours of March 24.

The criminal charges were brought at the request of Creitz, George F. West, owner of the realty firm, and Charles L. Pepper who owns the building where seashore realty is located.

Hewlett, a former teacher's aide who lists his occupation as "volunteer worker," was elected to the board November 2 in an election in which directors Sherman A. Smith and Edwin O. Cadogan were recalled from office.

Nixon's Paris Policy, Moscow Visit Linked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's offer to resume the Paris peace talks, coming barely 24 hours before tonight's address to the nation on more troop withdrawals from Vietnam, provided more evidence today that Nixon has decided not to let escalation of the war torpedo his trip to Moscow next month.

The offer, made simultaneously in Washington and Saigon last night, followed Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger's secret weekend trip to Moscow. And in saying he was willing to resume peace talks—provided the Communists made their current offensive and how to end it the No. 1 topic—Nixon appeared to be trying to reassure both the Kremlin and the American public that what he really wants is less, not more, war.

Tonight's 7 p.m. PST radio and TV address was expected to contain an announcement that U.S. troop strength in Vietnam will be down to 69,000 by May 1, as Nixon had promised. It was in excess of 500,000 when he took office more than three years ago.

The future pace of troop with-

Committee Kills State Fair Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation abolishing the California State Fair and requiring the state to sell Cal Expo has been defeated by the Assembly Efficiency and Cost Control Committee.

Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Garden Grove, the author, told the committee the fair should be abolished because it is not financially self-sufficient.

LBJ Recuperating

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson's condition was reported unchanged Tuesday. He is recuperating in Brooke Army Medical Center from a heart attack he suffered April 7.

Viet Peace Talks Will Be Resumed Tomorrow

PARIS (UPI)—All four sides agreed today to resume the Paris talks on Vietnam tomorrow, and Xuan Thuy, the chief Hanoi negotiator, indicated the North Vietnamese were also ready to resume scret talks with the United States.

Thuy conferred for 30 minutes with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann, who had requested the United States to return, and then told newsmen that Hanoi's special emissary, Le Duc Tho, could return to Paris "at any time" now that the regular talks are resuming.

Thuy's statement went further than an earlier one by deputy Hanoi negotiator Nguyen Minh Vy who indicated the secret talks would not resume unless the United States halted its bombing of North Vietnam.

Tho, seventh-ranked member of the Hanoi Politburo, is special adviser to the Hanoi negotiation and was the man who held 13 secret meetings with U.S. Presidential Adviser Henry A. Kissinger. Tho returned to to Hanoi when the talks ended fruitlessly.

Thuy made no mention of his previous demands for a complete halt to the raids over North Vietnam although Vy did. The talks have been suspended since March 23 when President Nixon said they were being used only as a Communist propaganda forum.

"Our leader, M. Xuan Thuy, has often said that if the Kleber Avenue negotiations resume with the participation of the United States, and if the latter stop its bombing of North Vietnam, M.Le Duc Tho might return to Paris (from Hanoi) for

Ex-Postmaster Summerfield Dead At 73

FLINT, Mich. (UPI)—Former Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, credited with engineering President Dwight D. Eisenhower's election in 1952 and an early confidant of President Nixon, died today.

Summerfield was 73.

Known as "Mr. Mchigan Republican," Summerfield was a prominent behind-the-scenes political force nationally and a highly successful businessman, heading one of the nation's largest Chevrolet dealerships.

Senate To Question Kleindienst Further

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Judiciary Committee voted today to recall Richard G. Kleindienst to give further testimony about his role in settlement of the controversial antitrust suit against ITT, which has snagged his confirmation to be attorney general.

Committee Chairman James O. Eastland of Mississippi said Kleindienst would be summoned for another round of questioning at 10:30 a.m. EST tomorrow.

Eastland added that the committee agreed to vote on Kleindienst's nomination no later than 5 p.m. EST tomorrow.

Eastland described the committee action as a "compromise" between the Republicans backing Kleindienst and Democrats who claim his role in the ITT dealings makes him unfit for the Cabinet post.

He said Kleindienst was recalled to give testimony on information contained in a letter to the committee from White House aide Peter Flanigan.

Flanigan informed the committee he had discussed settlement of the antitrust case with ITT director Felix Rohatyn, and subsequently informed Kleindienst of that conversation.

Kleindienst had testified that he did not remember discussing the case with Flanigan.

The confirmation hearings on Kleinjienst already have gone on for six weeks.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., proposed after recipt of the Flanigan letter that nine more witnesses be called to testify.

The committee previously approved the nomination, but reopened its hearings six weeks ago after columnist Jack Anderson published charges that there might be a link between an ITT pledge to help underwrite the Republican national convention and government settlement of an antitrust suit seeking to stop the merger of ITT and the Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

Kleindienst was linked to some of the discussions surrounding settlement of the antitrust case, and when the ITT matter was published he asked that the hearings be resumed to clear up any misunderstandings surrounding his role.

Humphrey, McGovern Big Guns Now

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George S. McGovern took charge today as the chief contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination by winning the Pennsylvania and Massachusetts primaries and all but eliminating Sen. Edmund S. Muskie as a serious challenger.

Between them, Humphrey and McGovern whipsawed Muskie in the fifth and sixth primaries of the 1972 election year. Humphrey boomed through on the labor and black vote in Pennsylvania. McGovern parlayed antiwar sentiment and economic worries into victory in Massachusetts.

McGovern also forged ahead of Muskie in the race for Democratic convention delegates. He now has 235 to Muskie's 138. Humphrey is in 3rd place with 78.

Muskie was not only severely beaten by McGovern in Massachusetts, he was involved in a close fight for third place in Pennsylvania and fell far short of picking up the number of convention delegates he was banking on.

Despite strong talk of staying in the primaries to the end, Muskie, once an odds-on favorite for the nomination, now may have to look to a deadlocked convention as his best chance to become President Nixon's challenger in November.

He may even come under strong pressure from big state politicians, who have supported him, to get out of the primaries and hope the party will turn to the Maine Senator as the only candidate who can unite the Democrats in the fall.

Although both McGovern and Humphrey face dangerous hurdles in the remaining primaries, they seemed headed for a showdown in California's winner-take-all election June 6.

As for Muskie, he refused to give up despite the grim news flashed to his Philadelphia campaign headquarters as the votes rolled in, showing Humphrey with an unbeatable lead in Pennsylvania and McGovern with an overwhelming edge in Massachusetts. In addition, Muskie appeared headed for fourth spot in Pennsylvania, behind McGovern and Gov. George C. Wallace.

In a conference call to his campaign workers in Boston, the senator pleaded: "Run with me, stay with me" and pledged to go on to the Ohio, California and New York primaries and then to the convention itself.

"The challenge won't be decided until we decide (at Miami Beach)," Muskie said. "It's either going to be Ed Muskie or he (the eventual winner) is going to have a helluva time taking it away." He didn't say who might win if he didn't.

Addressing his jubilant campaign workers, McGovern declared:

"This is victory for peace, not war. This is a victory for peace and love, not fear and division; for truth and candor rather than deception and manipulation. We are going to make this the great and good country that we know it can be."

Humphrey, the "happy warrior," who had never scored a primary win since he first went after the presidency in 1960, broke through solidly in Pennsylvania, trouncing Muskie, McGovern, Wallace and Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

He called it "a wonderful uplift for me—the sort of thing we had hoped for. I really believe it will give us the momentum to go on."

Wallace, although he campaigned neither in Pennsylvania nor Massachusetts except for hit-and-run missions, Wallace showed that he has a reservoir of support even when it is not actively encouraged.

And McGovern, the 49-year old prairie populist disregarded as little more than a fringe candidate until he won in Wisconsin three weeks ago, beat Muskie in a field of 12 by a better than 2-1 margin in Massachusetts.

The next big test comes next week in Ohio where all the leading candidates will be competing for that state's 153 delegates — and in Indiana where Humphrey and Wallace are in a head-to-head race.

PRIMARY HAPPINESS — A happy Sen. George McGovern gave a victory sign in Boston last night as he made his way through a crowd at the Statler-Hilton Hotel after Massachussetts' Democratic voters overwhelmingly picked him as their presidential candidate.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Endorse Kennedy

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Delegates to the United Auto Workers/convention Tuesday overwhelmingly endorsed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for the Democratic presidential nomination if he decides to seek it.

However, Kennedy told reporters after the straw vote, "My position is unchanged. I won't be a candidate for '72, even if there is a draft movement."

DDT Boon Or Bane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acknowledging that DDT is both boon and bane, a federal hearing examiner has ruled that the pesticide does more good than harm and should not be banned.

The recommendation by examiner Edmund M. Sweeney went to William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Ruckelshaus must rule by June 15 whether DDT should be banned.

B.A. Degree Study

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A committee of the State College Trustees decided Tuesday to recommend a study to re-evaluate the traditional four-year course of study leading to a bachelor's degree.

The B.A. "has come to signify a certain number of hours of lecture and laboratory in a prescribed pattern, but in many instances without regard to any overall unity of knowledge or broad evaluation to determine proficiency," said W. B. Langsdorf, vice chancellor for academic affairs.

He said it was now appropriate "to award the degree for achievement at a certain level without undue regard to the time or courses completed.

Religious Longevity

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Seventh Day Adventists, who don't drink or smoke and eat less meat than the average American, are rewarded with six additional years of life, a heart researcher reported today.

Dr. Richard T. Walden, of the Loma Linda University Medical School, said a 10-year study of California Adventists showed they suffered their first heart attacks a full decade later than most Americans and lived longer.

The 1.75 million members of the faith don't drink or smoke, use coffee and tea sparingly, eat much less meat than the national average, exercise regularly and avoid overweight, he said.

New IRA Tactic

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The wounding yesterday of seven soldiers in Belfast and Londonderry by snipers reflects a new tactic on the part of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), a security source said today.

"In the past, we had gunmen who fired off a burst from a machine gun from a corner and then disappeared," the source said. "Now the stress is on high velocity rifles, firing from a good position, and making every bullet count."

Three of the soldiers were hit in Belfast's Roman Catholic Lower Falls area, three in the city's Andersontown district and one in Londonderry.

Talk Is Set On Alcoholism

A speech on alcoholism and the state's education and prevention programs — illustrated by television messages — will be given at 1 p.m. May 5.

Leona Kent, education-information officer of the state Rehabilitation Department, will address a combined meeting of the Alcohol Information Committee of Marin Institute, the Community Planning Group for Drug and Alcohol Problems and school nurses in the Blue Room of Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. Kent is on the faculty of University of Arizona and American River College and is currently lecturing at University of Southern California.

March Food Cost Down 4 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The retail cost of a typical market basket of food dropped 0.4 per cent last month, ending a four-month surge that boosted prices 4.3 per cent from last October through February, the Agriculture Department said today.

Even with the decline, the market basket cost was still second highest on record —5.4 per cent above March of 1971. Average beef prices for March were unchanged at the record February level, but pork went down.

One official said the extent of the actual downturn may be greater than the report showed. The department's surveys probably did not catch all the meat price declines which came in the last week of March after Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called in food chain leaders to try to talk them into lowering prices, the spokesman said.

The February-to-March decline in average retail food costs came largely because of a 2.5 per cent drop in farm prices which was partly offset by an increase in the farm-to-retail price spread, the department said in its monthly report on "Price Spreads for Farm Foods".

Member Of Hospital Board Quits

Gwendolyn M. Campion resigned from the Marin Hospital District board last night, after serving since 1965.

Dr. Campion, a physician who is not now practicing, resigned from the board for "personal reasons," effective May 24, according to hospital administrator Ray K. Bollinger.

Board president George H. Folsom asked that any resident in the district interested in serving on the board submit a resume to Bollinger before the board's next meeting, May 23. He said the board would review applications that night, and possibly choose a successor to Dr. Campion.

Folsom also asked that interested residents plan to attend that meeting.

The appointee will fill out Dr. Campion's term, which ends Dec. 13, 1972. She was elected to the board in November, 1964 and reelected in 1968.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

FIRE — Set a meeting for an undetermined date next week for Folsom, Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and County Administrator John F. Barrows to discuss fire protection for its buildings.

RAISES — Referred to its personnel committee and legal counsel a request for retroactive raises from Stationary Engineers Union local 39. The request was received yesterday by the board and no further details were available today.

REPRESENTATION — Asked for a recommendation from the State Conciliation Service on a request by the Association of Federal, State, County and Municipal Employees to represent the stall of the district's mental health center.

ADVICE — Rejected a reques by the Marin Psychiatric Society for a role in selecting a director of in-patient psychiatric services, saying the board would make the appointment.

UTILITIES — Referred to its legal counsel a proposal from the National Utility Service to review the districts use of utility Service to review the districts use of utilities for possible savings.

BAD DEBTS — Wrote off $20,500.07 in bad debts for January through March, .82 per cent of its income of $2,496,393.38, according to Bollinger.

capital captured by the Viet Cong last week.

Salem is on Highway 1, the major north-south Highway running from Saigon to Hanoi. Communists have also made several attempts to cut the highway farther north in Quang Tri province.

Military sources said 54 Communists were killed in a fight near Cu Chi 24 miles northwest of Saigon, Tuesday. It was the closest major battle to the city in the current offensive.

UPI correspondent Leon Daniel reported from Highway 13 north of the capital that South Vietnamese relief forces have been pinned down 28 miles from Saigon.

He said two South Vietnamese battalions were within 200 yards of each other but unable to link up because of stiff Communist resistance.

Northwest of Saigon, South Vietnamese A37 fighter-bombers reportedly destroyed four of 10 Communist tanks operating in the Parrot's Beak area on the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border.

B52 bombers dropped an estimated 1,200 tons of explosive over Kontum province in 14 missions, flew five missions near An Loc and also bombed targets in Cambodia and Laos for the first time in three days.

Hearing Halted On Open Space

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee chairman, declaring "two members can't act on this," halted a hearing Tuesday on a controversial $100 million open space program.

Assemblyman Paul Priolo, R-Pacific Palisades, cut short the hearing when he noted five of the seven members of the Planning and Land Use Committee were not present.

The hearing, attended by about 35 persons, was recessed for 10 minutes while an attempt was made to bring other committee members to the hearing room.

When only one other member appeared, Priolo adjourned the hearing.

Driver Accused Of Drinking and Drugs

Gene Richard Glasscock, 27, of Hermosa Beach was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court on charges of felony possession of marijuana and drunk driving.

Glasscock, who was arrested by the highway patrol March 30, is to be arraigned May 8.

Apollo Crew Playing Down Big Rock Find

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) —Apollo 16 commander John W. Young told eager scientists today to avoid jumping to conclusions on what the astronauts found in the moon's highlands and to wait until the rocks get back.

"It's too soon to be making any major conclusions about the region," Young told ground communicator Tony England. "It just ain't good science."

Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke were on target for a parachute landing at 2:45 p.m. EST Thursday in the Pacific Ocean, 1,550 miles south of Hawaii.

England, an astronaut who also is a geophysicist, told the astronauts scientists have changed their ideas on the makeup of the moon landing area and are beginning to think You..g and Duke may have sampled rock splashed out of the primitive lunar crust by the tremendous impact that created the great Sea of Rains basin.

Geologists had thought the Cayley Plains were a relatively simple volcanic lava flow.

"I think it's premature to be making those kind of things, Tony," Young said. "I'd like to wait until we get all the data in and take a look at it. It's just too soon on hearsay and not having the real evidence and not having all the data analyzed."

England said scientists can't wait until the rocks get back this weekend and he quizzed the astronauts on what they found during three days on the moon.

At one point, Young was asked about rocks collected last Saturday and he said:

"I can't remember what the dang rocks look like, to be honest with you."

After answering the questions, the astronauts turned to their final scientific studies of the mission —a closed-eye look at mysterious light flashes and an x-ray search for puzzling black holes in space.

The astronauts began their day at 8:32 a.m. and Young reported their sleep during the night was "good to better." He also said the ship's supply of peanut butter mysteriously vanished when the pilots stowed film casettes in a food compartment.

Jackson's Lawyer Will Not Testify

SAN JOSE (UPI) —George Jackson's attorney refused to answer questions in the Angela Davis trial today on grounds it would violate the attorney-client relationship and might open him to litigation or possible disbarment. (Another Davis trial story, page 34.)

John Thorne, a San Jose lawyer who represented the slain black prison revolutionary, showed up to answer a prosecution subpoena accompanied by his own lawyers, Black Panther attorney Charles Garry.

Thorne answered questions about his name, profession and place of business but when Prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. started asking him about court appearances by Jackson in 1970, Garry told Judge Richard E. Arnason Thorne would not answer.

Jail Term Starts Six Years Later

Six years after her arrest on suspicion of soliciting for prostitution and being a madam, a former Sausaltio resident has begun serving a jail term.

Barbara E. Benson, 47, an impassive woman with long blond hair, said she had been selling antiques in Berkeley during the five years police looked for her to serve a 55-day jail term.

She was convicted by a jury on a charge of arranging a "date" between an undercover police officer and Donna Lee Donaleche of San Francisco, but acquitted on a charge of running a house of ill repute.

Miss Donaleche was also arrested at Miss Benson's Sausalito apartment Oct. 27, 1965, when she went into the bedroom with the officer and allegedly undressed. She also was convicted.

Miss Benson appealed, then disappeared when a Marin Superior judge ruled against her in June of 1967. A four-year-old bench warrant was finally served on her last week.

The other woman has been sought since 1966 when she failed to appear for sentencing.

The pros and cons of the initiative to legalize marijuana in California will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

Speaking for legalization will be Stuart F. Dritz, Varin coordinator for the initiative proposed for the November general election and Reginald Woods, student at College of Marin and Vietnam war veteran. Opposing the initiative will be Capt. Lincoln M. Borba of the San Rafael Police Department and Lt. L. Tony Stout of the Novato Police Department.

Questions telephoned in during the broadcast tomorrow morning will be answered on the broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape-recording at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

San Anselman Faces Misdemeanors

Only misdemeanor charges have been filed in Marin Municipal Court against Michael J. McCarthy, 25, of San Anselmo who was arrested yesterday by the California Highway Patrol.

McCarthy was stopped on Highway 101 near Third Street in San Rafael on suspicion of drunk driving. Marijuana and a device for holding a marijuana cigarette were found during a search, according to officers.

TALKS

private conversations with the American side," Vy said.

"After having interrupted the Paris conference unilaterally and unreasonably for more than a month, the American administration has had to say that it accepts the resumption of the 148th session of the conference April 27, 1972," the Viet Cong said.

"If this is so, it is because U.S. efforts aimed at sabotaging the conference and intensifying the war have been vigorously condemned by public opinion throughout the world, including the United States, and have received a resolute riposte from the Vietnamese people," the statement said.

The United States and South Vietnam informed the Communist delegations officially yesterday they were lifting the suspension of the conference.

The Hanoi delegation, however, rejected a U. S. request that the current Communist offensive in South Vietnam be the first order of business in the renewed talks.

"We reject all fallacious allegations on the part of the United States on the so-called invasion of South Vietnam by North Vietnam,' violation of an understanding,' etc.," the Hanoi statement said.

"The American administration continues to pose preconditions to the negotiations," the Viet Cong statement said, "applying its 'Vietnamization' policy and undertaking military adventures in North and South Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations had continuously demanded the United States and South Vietnam return to the talks since Nixon suspended the conference.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said today parallel secret negotiations, conducted on North Vietnam's behalf by Le Duc Tho, could only begin when the regular sessions resumed and U.S. bombing raids into North Vietnam end.

He pointed out that only one of these two conditions had been met.

Oakland Pair Held For Court

Two Oakland residents were bound over yesterday to Marin Superior court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from an assault on two Novato women in October 1970.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled sufficient evidence was presented at a preliminary hearing to hold Charlisse Joy Brant, 21, and Donald Duane Smith, 32, for trial and ordered them to appear in superior court May 10.

They are accused of beating and threatening to kill the two women in a disagreement over a narcotics debt.

One of the women, Shirley Jean Fabian, 27, was found dead of what police speculate may have been a murderous overdose of drugs April 10.

said might be as high as 35,000 men.

The White House said Kissinger's trip to Moscow was not related to tonight's address to the nation. It was known, however, that Vietnam was the prime topic at the four days of talks.

There was speculation that Nixon, concerned about what additional steps he might have to take to preserve the Saigon government, feared that more bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong might damage or sink his meeting with Russia's leaders scheduled to begin May 22.

Kissinger in turn was either sent or invited to go to Moscow where the two governments tried to work out some way the summit could be kept alive without embarrassment to the Kremlin or the White House.

In agreeing to resume the talks, on his conditions, Nixon retreated slightly from a previous U.S. position that there would be no more discussions as long as the Communist offensive continued. But he may have demonstrated to the Russians that he does indeed want next month's summit meeting.

The United States pulled out of the talks March 24 saying there was no point in continuing a discussion which had degenerated into a propaganda match, until there was some sort of "signal" from the other side that it was ready for meaningful negotiations.

In Moscow, diplomatic sources said Communist Party Chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev initiated the Kissinger talks and that they led to the U.S. decision to resume the Paris peace talks.

The diplomats said the White House at first thought Kissinger would be too busy with other work, but later decided to accept Brezhnev's offer due to the gravity of the Vietnam situation and signs of increasing crisis in the Middle East as well as the possibility of a rejection of West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's Ostpolitik.

Mill Valley Rec Panel Endorses Regional Park

Mill Valley Park and Recreation commissioners have endorsed the concept of a regional park and open space district in Marin County, and have also asked the city council to endorse it.

The approval came Monday night after each commissioner reviewed the concept, proposed to the county board of supervisors by the county park and recreation commission and presented to the Mill Valley commission by representatives of the county group.

No mention was made of a proposal by others to form a countywide district, which would be governed by the board of supervisors. The regional district would be run by a separate board of governors.

Formation of some form of district is expected to be on the November ballot.

The Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission also:

TREE REMOVAL — Set its next meeting as a hearing date for removal of a catalpa tree at 11 Grove Street so that those objecting can register their complaints.

ART FESTIVAL — Heard from youth commission chairman Fred Wright that the youth art festival to be held May 14 at Boyle Park will consist of the paintings of about 30 artists and that folk music will be provided. Proceeds will go into the youth commission fund.

HARBOR — Received a letter from the Marin County Health Department which said that until the water in Mill Valley's boat harbor is acceptable by the Regional Water Quality Control Board, the harbor must not be used for any body-contact sports, including boating. The commission decided to post notices asking all boat owners to remove their boats from the area until it can be reopened.

TREE SPRAYING — Received a letter from Tree Service, Inc., explaining that it was necessary to spray some city trees with an insecticide called sevin, to which some persons had objected. The letter will be presented to the city council.

Driver Hurts Knee In Petaluma Crash

Laura Krauss, 25, of San Francisco, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for cuts of the right knee suffered when her car overturned Monday at 12:05 p.m. on Highway 101 at Petaluma Boulevard South, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said the car in front of her slowed suddenly and that she veered into the median strip where her car overturned.

Retail Stores Plan In Canal Area Wins Backing

The San Rafael Planning Commission, over objections of the city's planning staff, approved construction of retail stores and service establishments at the corner of Larkspur and Alto streets.

Julius H. Selinger, owner of the property, told the commission that he intended to construct and lease buildings that could be used as quick-stop food markets, discount drug stores, shoe repair shops, beauty parlors or other similar convenience goods shopping.

He told the commission that he was also considering a combined office building and retail store structure on the site.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner vigorously objected to the proposed use of the property, stating, "It would be totally inconsistent with the city's general plan."

He agreed with Selinger's contention that the residents of the canal area were in great need of neighborhood shopping facilities but rather than isolated, individual stores, he suggested a small, neighborhood shopping center.

According to Hotchner, the stores planned by Selinger and others that would inevitably follow would diminish the likelihood that a shopping center would ever be built.

He warned the commission that its approval of Selinger's request would serve as a precedent for future applications.

After attaching one condition — that the applicant spell out the proposed uses of the retail stores before seeking architectural approval — the commission granted the use permit with a 5-to-1 vote.

Commissioner Albert J. Boro cast the dissenting vote.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

TENNIS CLUB — Approved a prezoning request from Ceasar B. Cardani to change his property located near Fifth Avenue and Mount Tamalpais Cemetery to planned unit development status so he can construct a tennis club, swimming pool and five dwelling units.

TOWNHOUSE — Gave "favorable reaction" to a proposed 30-unit development at Glen Park Avenue at Myrtle Avenue submitted by Frank Merz.

SUBDIVISION — Tabled for revision a request from Raymond Gill to subdivide his property between 100 Palm Avenue and Hubbell Court because the parcel did not meet the city's slope or access requirements.

USE PERMITS — Granted use permits to Robert Ross Jr. to operate a parts assembly shop at 69B Paul Drive; Sam Gardiner to dump earth fill on property at 2021 Francisco Boulevard and William and Dona Otey to permit more than one building in an apartment complex at 523 "C" Street.

CAR WASH BUILDING — Granted architectural approval to Jordan K. Smith, Edward Smith, Edward Clippinger and Enrico Marchisio to build a car wash-gas station at 1515 Second Street.

MUFFLER SHOP — Granted architectural approval to Glenn Wentz to add an additional 1,500 square feet to his shop at 128 Bellam Boulevard.

APARTMENT COMPLEX — Granted architectural approval to William and Dona Otey to build an eight-unit complex at 523 C Street.

OFFICES — Denied a request from First American Title Co. for a use permit to build offices at 1103 Irwin Street until additional information about the off-site parking situation can be obtained.

FREITAS PROJECT — Approved plans for Terra Linda Development Co.'s 107-unit townhouse project on Freitas Parkway after turning down several of the firm's request for design changes, including replacing stucco exterior walls with stained plywood.

MEETING — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m. May 2 in the Public Works Department Conference Room for a study session on new state legislation affecting planning, zoning and subdivision.

Woman Booked On Drug Charge

Kathleen Louise Sutton, 22, of 315½ Liberty Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs.

She was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said they stopped a car in which she was riding at 9:25 p.m. on Ellis Street after getting reports of persons in a similar car waving guns.

Officers said plastic water pistols were found in the car and that a vial of red and white capsules were found in Miss Sutton's possession.

Rounds Are Announced On Budget

The San Anselmo City Council last night scheduled six meetings in May and June to work on the city's 1972-73 budget.

City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel told councilmen he hoped to hand copies of the preliminary budget to them at the May 9 council meeting.

The council then agreed to sessions for May 16, 17 and 22 and June 6, 8 and 15. The May 16 session had already been scheduled to discuss the fire department budget with the Sleepy Hollow Fire Protection District, Kaeppel said.

Plans Said Ready On Hub Pipeline

Engineering is "practically completed" and bids should be awarded by this time next year for a 36-inch Ross Valley Sanitary District pipeline planned through San Anselmo, the city council was told last night by district spokesman Ralph Noah.

The pipeline, to replace an 18-inch line, would extend from the Ross town border through downtown San Anselmo and out Center Boulevard to the Fairfax border, Noah told the council. The district pumping station now under construction in Kentfield also will be completed by then, he said.

Noah also told the council that two of four creek obstructions at Mountain View Avenue and Morningside Drive had been cleared.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

THOROUGHFARE — Directed City Administrator-Controller Alfred C. Kaeppel to write the City-County Planning Council, reaffirming the city's resistance to any extension of Highway 17 through San Anselmo. The action was in response to a plea by former resident Anne West, who said such a thoroughfare proposed in the council's two-year-old balanced transportation program would have "an absolutely devastating effect" on San Anselmo and nearby communities.

AIR — Unanimously voiced the city's concern with the quality of air in Marin, recommending tough air quality controls as outlined in a Bay Area Air Pollution Control District report suggesting restriction of construction in the area.

SPRAYING — Cited the possibly negative effect on some insects, such as bees, and decided to halt spraying of the city's elm trees for one year in order to evaluate the effects of such a halt. Spraying in the past has been aimed at elm beetles but Councilman Martin G. Blinder had questioned the effectiveness of the spray upon the beetles.

VOLUNTEERS — Asked the chamber of commerce to pass the word in its newsletter that the city is seeking volunteers to fill a seat on the civil service board to review and to act as liaison with the county human rights commission.

HUB — Authorized the public works department to advertise for work bids for the Hub-Sequoia Drive irrigation system and topsoil.

SECRETARY — Hired Virginia Fogerty as administrative secretary, to be effective May 1 at a salary of $618 per month.

REC AREA — Notified the county board of supervisors that the council endorses in concept a proposal for a Golden Gate National Recreation Area and that the area be used in a manner preserving Marin's unique natural character." The council also urged that specific planning be done by a citizen advisory committee to be appointed by supervisors.

CONGRATULATIONS — Congratulated Police Lt. G. Albert Howenstein on his recent installation as president of the Northern California Juvenile Officers Association.

MEETING — Adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. May 9 at city hall.

Budget Proposes School Closing

The Petaluma Board of Education last night received a budget for its elementary district that proposes closing Grant School and putting all others on double sessions. Parents present vowed to launch a private fund raising campaign.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the $2,373,976 preliminary budget for 1972-73 was $67,373 less than the 1971-72 budget of $2,441,348. He said reserve funds have been depleted and operating expenses must be reduced to balance the budget.

A tax rate increase election was defeated by voters on March 21.

Dona L. Cook and Gwen Adkins, speaking for a newly formed group called interested citizens representing area schools, said they would organize the fund drive to raise $15 per child in the elementary district.

They said a nonprofit foundation will be formed and officers will be elected at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school administration building.

Meyer said board members expressed mixed emotions about the private fund drive and said they would wait until details of the organization are presented next month before approving it.

Paul Thomas presented the board with a petition bearing 678 names of Grant School area residents opposing plans to close the school and to relocate San Antonio Continuation High School there.

The board has considered moving the continuation school from the Sonoma-Marin fairgrounds to save the $6,000 per year rental fee.

The budget also called for deleting 13 teaching positions to save money and to halt bus transportation for the widespread Penngrove School attendance area.

The budget calls for the same amount to be spent on books and supplies, but parents complained it may be better to reduce supplies than to put students on double sessions. Teachers, however, told the board previously that they would rather teach on double sessions with adequate supplies than on the regular school schedule without supplies.

After reviewing the proposed reductions and hearing protests by parents for more than five hours, the board adjourned to next Tuesday at 8 p.m. to continue the discussion.

Lagunitas School Policy Reaffirmed

Trustees of the Lagunitas School District, after long discussion before a large audience, have reaffirmed in principle an earlier decision to offer a three-pronged educational program next school term.

Supt. William E. Johnson said the board, which met Monday night, reached the consensus after failing to reconcile differences growing out of a proposed merger of two parts of the planned program.

Johnson said some teachers and parents had suggested combining the Advance Capabilities Program, which stresses things a child will need to understand as an adult, and the district's present program, which includes some team teaching and individualized instruction.

The third part of the proposed new structure is the open classroom approach, in which the impact of a teacher on instruction is softened.

Johnson said that the board, after deciding in principle to proceed with the three-part program, asked him to return at its next meeting May 8 with cost figures and a proposed organizational plan.

In another matter Monday, the board received for study pay raise requests by the district's 24 credentialed staff members. Johnson, who had not figured the potential impact of the pay proposal on the district treasury, said the requests would raise the basic teaching salary from $6,641 per year to $7,300 and the top wage from $13,282 to $15,110.

Johnson quoted the teachers as saying the requests would bring their pay up to the Marin average.

Capt. Robert F. Scott and four companions reached the South Pole Jan. 17, 1912.

'Fairfax Greets You' Sign Recommended

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission recommended last night that the sign reading, "Fairfax Greets You," located at the east end of the Parkade, be removed and replaced with a large evergreen tree.

According to commission secretary Ernestine Healy, the vote was unanimous to take down the sign. The commissioners, she said, felt it made little sense to have a sign welcoming people to Fairfax located in the middle of town.

The commission also recommended that the city council enter an agreement, on behalf of the senior citizen program in Fairfax, with the county-wide Senior Citizens Co-Ordinating Council, established to assist local senior citizen programs with problems of transportation, coordination, and continuity.

The commission asked the city council for responsibility to organize the town celebration project, to be held during the summer or fall. While no definite plans were offered, September or October Fests, designed expressly for Fairfax residents, were suggested by commission members as possibilities.

Judge Continues A Misdemeanor

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled not enough evidence was presented to hold Judy Kendell Lynn, 36, of Corte Madera on felony possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, a misdemeanor.

However, Judge Robert A. Smallman ordered her held on a misdemeanor possession charge and continued the case to May 12 to allow the district attorney to file an amended complaint.

She was arrested by Corte Madera police after an officer investigating a burglary said he had seen pipes with what looked like marijuana residue in the bowls in the Lynn home.

Novato Favors A Youth Panel

The Novato City Council last night approved creation of a youth commission to give youths a voice in matters affecting them.

Councilmen unanimously authorized the Novato Youth Advisory Committee to draft a resolution to establish the commission for council consideration.

Michael Ascuitto, a committee member, reviewed the committee's recommendation for a commission of indeterminate membership, including adults.

The proposed commission would "present ideas to the city council that indicate what the younger people think about youth and what should be done by the community in serving the youth," the committee reported.

Geoffrey Bywater, a parks and recreation commissioner and committee member, said a "youth commission would be a good experience for the city and for the young people."

The commission could work with the parks and recreation department in formulating programs, Bywater said.

The Novato City Council Also:

GUN CONTROL — Defeated 3-2 introduction of an amendment to the gun control ordinance to prohibit firing of air guns, B-B guns, blow guns, ulingshots, bows or any instrument that throws or projects bullets, pellets or missiles except in defense of person or property or on approved shooting galleries or on pistol, rifle, skeet or archery ranges. Councilmen Fred F. Ruegg, David Price Jones and Mayor F. Wayne Sartain voted against proposed ordinance with the intent that it be revised to make accommodation for people firing on their own property with no danger to anyone.

LEAGUE STUDY — Received notice from Dolores Cannon, chairman of the "Know Your Town" Committee of the League of Women Voters that the committee is making a study of Novato.

WATER COOLER — Received a water cooler for the Novato Community House as a gift from the Novato Senior Citizens Club. The cooler was estimated to cost $240.

TAMAK ESTATES — Approved a final map of Tamak Estates, a 16-lot subdivision at the northeast corner of Virginia and Sutro Avenues.

MENDOCINO UNIT — Approved a final map of Mendocino Gardens Unit No. 2 for 25 lots at Eucalyptus Avenue and Mendocino Lane.

FREEWAY BYPASS — Approved a supplemental appropriation of $4,750 for acquisition of right-of-way for Reichert Avenue railroad crossing from Novato Builders Supply for the Novato bypass project.

TRAILS SYSTEM — Continued until May 9 consideration of amending the Novato area general plan to include a revised system of horse, bicycling and hiking trails, after hearing protests from about half a dozen residents of Eucalyptus Avenue against establishing a horse trail past their homes.

CABLE TV — Continued until May 23 action on hiring an accounting firm to evaluate the request by G'Tec Cable Television Co., city franchise holder to raise its basic rate from $4.50 to $5 a month. Councilman George C. Quesada dissented and Ruegg abstained.

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Established a two-member finance committee and appointed councilmen Dorothy P. Young and Ruegg.

HIGHWAY 101 DELAY — Received a recommendation from Quesada to ask the California Highway Patrol not to delay crosstown traffic more than two minutes at Grant Avenue and Highway 101 during heavy weekend traffic.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned at 1:30 a.m. to a special joint meeting at 7 p.m. next Tuesday at the Novato Community House with last night's unfinished agenda items to be considered starting at about 9 p.m.

Almonte Sewer District In Budget Study

Directors of the Almonte Sanitary District have begun preparing next year's budget, according to board secretary John J. Crncich, but won't know until later whether rates will have to be raised.

Crncich said the distrit has not yet decided how much, if any, of the district's sewer pipe must be replaced, and directors have to wait until next month to ask the county auditor-controller Michael Mitchell exactly how much remains in their account.

But, he said, if Mill Valley, which treats the sewage collected by the Almonte Sanitary District, raises its rates very much, or if many sewer lines must be replaced, rates may have to be raised, though not by much, Crncich said.

Novato Urbanization Is Hit

By FRANK FARRARA

After a confusing, lengthy and sometimes heated public hearing, the Novato City Council last night recommended what amounted to a zoning moratorium on four agricultural preserves in the Novato area.

Councilmen voted 3-2 to recommend to the Marin County Planning Commission to delay any action on the parcels until July 15 or at least not to make any changes to urban zoning.

New council members Fred F. Ruegg and Dorothy P. Young dissented.

Developers, land owners and estate executors protested against retaining the parcels in agricultural preserves, claiming it would result in economic loss.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the city planning commission recommended keeping the parcels in agricultural zoning as a "holding action" until the Novato area general plan is revised.

The parcels involved are:

The Bowman Canyon area 1,800 acres west of Novato including property held by G. J. Garlick of Salt Lake City, who plans development on about 450 acres.

The Olompali Ranch, 700 acres north of Novato and west of Highway 101.

Ten parcels on the east slope of Mount Burdell, opposite the Marin County Airport, acreage unspecified.

Burdell Ranch, 680 acres along San Antonio Creek, near the Marin-Sonoma County line.

When Mayor F. Wayne Sartain opened the matter for public comment, Timothy W. O'Donoghue of Novato, who had purchased Rancho Olompali, opened with a sharp attack against the Novato planning staff.

He said he had lost $1 million on the land and "had to let it go to the University of San Francisco," and he didn't get cooperation from the planners.

O'Donoghue said he had offered a 400-acre park as part of his plans, and that he met with a "negative attitude" from planners.

"You're going to break every land owner, like you broke me and end up with the highest tax rate in the nation," O'Donoghue said.

He described it "as one of the most ridiculous things I ever heard," and said any planning commissioner who voted the recommendation (3 to 2 last week) should be asked to resign.

Attorney Douglas P. Ferguson of Mill Valley reported tha the Renaissance Pleasure Faire was negotiating for land on the Burdell Ranch as a site for its annual fair and an education center, and asked such use not be ruled out. The fair sought a site in Lucas Valley last year but lost its bid.

Mattson, in reply to O'Donaghue's comments, said all O'Donaghue's "plans eventually were dropped."

Jean Powers of Greenbrae, representing Survival Inc., urged the council to consider "ethics not dollars and the individual versus the corporation," and George A. Amaroli of 11 Rebecca Way, Novato warned that urbanization is costly since it requires city services.

Ruegg said he didn't object to agricultural preserves, but objected "to forcing anybody into agricultural preserves against their will."

He also said the "city should have integrity," and that it was "indefensible to change the rules in the middle of the game."

The council voted unanimously against retaining the Jack West property, 1,250 acres in the Bel Marin Keys area, north of Hamilton Air Force in agricultural preserve.

They voted 4-0 with George C. Quesada abstaining against retaining the Nunes Ranch, 400 acres north and west of San Marin in agricultural preserve.

Since all the land involved was outside the city, councilmen were uncertain what effect their action would have.

Principal planner Rowland Darnell of the county planning staff said they "could ask" for what they wanted, but the final recommendation will be made by the Marin County Planning Commission, which is scheduled to hold hearings on the property involved May 8.

To Fill Vacancies

The Sausalito School District board will meet at 6 p.m. today in the district office to set a date for an election to fill two board vacancies created by the resignations of trustees Jerry L. Whitcomb and Delta Christ. The board will also elect new officers at the special session.

Supervisors Review Marin Capital Program

The Marin County Board of Supervisors reviewed but took no action yesterday on a proposed capital improvement program totaling $37.5 million for the next six years.

Supervisors agreed with Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst, that the program is strictly a working document upon which to base budget decisions in June.

During yesterday's discussion of the document, supervisors were urged by a group of tennis players to reallocate funds for courts which were scratched by the county administrator's office.

They said the need for courts is growing rapidly as not only more persons are playing but what few courts exist are being restricted, as in Mill Valley here only residents can play on weekends.

Supervisor Louis H. Baar said he agrees that courts should be provided but suggested the matter be continued to June budget hearings.

Supervisor Michael Wornum differed, however, claiming that if courts are provided for tennis players then golfers will be demanding a municipal golf course.

The document recommends no money be allocated for courts next year and suggests that if a county tennis center is ever constructed, it be financed through "user fees."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste urged the board to consider building bicycle paths in conjunction with future road widening projects proposed in the document.

Over the six-year forecast, about $19 million is proposed for road construction and maintenance projects. The remainder is slated for land acquisition, park improvement and capital construction.

Carol Staley of Corte Madera, speaking for the League of Women Voters of Central Marin, suggested top priority be given to open space land acquisition, trails and parks.

Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Denis T. Rice of Tiburon, Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley and Alexander R. Imlay of Sausalito to succeed Supervisor Michael Wornum on the county disaster council in case of emergency. Also appointed David G. Greenlee of the Marin Builders' Exchange to the county's natural resources commission.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted the resignation of Martha A. Valliant from the mental health advisory board since she is moving from the county. Also the resignation of Ben F. Petrini from the Rafael Meadows Flood Control Advisory Board.

SUIT — Authorized the county counsel's office to file suit against Eugene T. and Patricia C. Murray to regain $2,014 in excess welfare payments.

LAGOON — Approved unanimously a resolution calling for no further land cuts or fills in the Bolinas Lagoon area. The resolution was proposed by the parks and recreation commission to halt harmful siltation.

LOT SPLIT — Denied a request from Fred Bitz of Mill Valley to overrule the planning commission's rejection of his proposal to split his lot on Hilldale Way in Tamalpais Valley into three parcels. The planning commission had approved two lots, which the board upheld.

CREEK — Rescinded its decision to condemn 41 parcels along Corte Madera Creek in Ross since the flood control project has been delayed at least one year.

STREET FAIR — Approved unanimously a request from the Mont Marin Homeowners Association for a permit to close Old Lucas Valley Road for a street fair on June 3. The road will be closed between Canyon Oak Drive and the access road to the Marin Municipal Water District storage tank.

CONCESSION — Approved unanimously a contract with International Gourmet for operation of a food concession at McNears Beach Park, the county to receive 10 per cent of the profits the first year and 15 per cent thereafter.

JANITORIAL — Approved unanimously a janitorial service contract with Crown Building Maintenance to cover the Administration and Hall of Justice buildings at Civic Center and a portion of the Juvenile Hall. The firm will receive $12,544 per month.

SCHOOLS — Endorsed unanimously a $350,000 state bond issue for repair and replacement of unsafe school buildings, primarily in poor districts.

YOUTH — Referred to the county counsel's office a youth commission request that the county support three legislative proposals in Sacramento dealing with venereal disease education, corporal punishment in schools and the authority of schools to suspend drug violators.

LEAVE — Approved unanimously a six-month leave of absence for Philippa Denning-Kemp, a public health investigator. The leave, without pay, was requested for personal reasons.

DRUG — Approved unanimously a federally funded drug education training program for a group of Mill Valley residents. The $1,116 federal grant will be used to train the residents in providing drug education programs.

DANCE PALACE — Approved unanimously a request from Alice P. Thul to use the 70-year-old Point Reyes Palace Food Market as a meeting place for youth. The use was granted on condition that more fire exits are provided.

STUDY — Continued indefinitely a proposal that the county finance an environmental-recreational study of the lower reach of Corte Madera Creek near Highway 101. The board decided to await resutls from a similar study by the Golden Gate Bridge District.

CAMPAIGN — Told supporters of Rev. Samuel Banks, candidate for the Third Supervisorial District, that he could use Paradise Park for a picnic-rally but could not reserve any part of it for exclusive use.

OPEN SPACE — Agreed to a policy of working jointly with the City of Tiburon to preserve open space along the undevelope Tiburon Ridge pending the outcome of the November election to establish a Countywide Open Space and Park District.

Supervisors Warn Marin EOC On Money Problems

Marin supervisors warned the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council yesterday they will withhold local funds next fiscal year if the agency's financial problems are not straightened out by June.

The board's warning came as EOC officials sought toquell growing discontent with their agency which last year misused more than $100,000 of federal money.

Ben Young, acting executive director of the poverty agency, told the board yesterday his agency can not survive without county funds. He requested $40,000 which would be used to put the agency back on its feet.

"I, for one, am not going to vote any more money for the EOC until you get straightened out," Supervisor Louis H. Barr told Young.

While other supervisors were not as outspoken, their comments followed the same line, refusing county funds until assured of financial responsibility.

As disclosed by the Independent-Journal Saturday, a preliminary federal audit has revealed the agency and two former employees misused about $100,000 last year.

The lion's share of that amount —some $63,000 mistakenly received and then used — was spent without authorization to cover operating deficits.

About $12,000 was used by former Executive Director W. Robert Lomax Jr. and a top aide, Alfred G. Edmonds, for personal expenses. All but $2,500 has been repaid, the audit said.

Young said other problems facing the agency include about $38,000 worth of bills from local businessmen and not enough money to cover the debts. His agency is also faced with claims running into thousands of dollars from the Marin County Legal Aid Society and Head Start.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, while sympathizing with the agency's problems, said he wouldn't vote more money until he saw a plan of how the funds would be used.

McInnis, a former member of the EOC board, said he resigned years ago because he could foresee what "has now happened" and could find no way of preventing it.

"The structure (of the agency) is such that what happened was inevitable," he said, referring to the federal audit.

He blamed much on the federal government for establishing the agency with no local control and said before he would vote more county money to the EOC he would have to be assured that local control had been established.

"If the federal government is the same as before, I don't think they will accept that," he added.

(The EOC was established as part of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "War on Poverty" and was purposely structured to prevent local governmental interference or influence.)

Young said he agreed with McInnis and added that "the federal government will not go on with this program unless we do as you say."

He added that the agency has a new plan which calls for the EOC to "mobilize community resources" and not act as a resource itself.

Plead Innocent To Burglary

Two San Francisco men, accused of burglary and having stolen property, have pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court. A jury trial was set for the week of June 5 for Walter James Brock, 30, and Vernon James Robinson, 23.

Brock and Robinson were arrested April 4 by Sausalito Police, who said they found the two burglarizing the home of Helme W. Schweikert at 5 Cloudview Trail.

W. Marin Sewage Funds Hit

By PAUL F. PETERZELL

HAYWARD — The financial rug may be yanked out from under separate sewage treatment systems proposed for Bolinas and Stinson Beach, the executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board warned yesterday. (Another water quality control story, page 1.)

Fred H. Dierker told board members he will oppose federal and state funding of the systems unless they can be shown to be big enough to serve both present developed areas and "reasonable anticipated development."

The alternative would be assurance that septic tanks in the two communities "will be adequately operated and maintained," he said. The county's new septic tank ordinance, however, discourages their continued use.

Without federal and state funds to pay up to 80 per cent of their sewage systems, the two small communities would be hard pressed to finance the systems. No cost estimate has been reported for the new systems.

FACE OF WARNING

Dierker issued his warning in the face of a request from the Stinson Beach County Water District to allow continued planning for a separate system — contrary to the regional baord's insistence for years that the two communities pool their limited financing powers to build a joint system.

The regional board, at Dierker's recommendation, approved the request — but stressed that the approval was granted only to allow further planning of separate systems. Neither community should build its own system if the other cannot finance its own system, as well, the board agreed.

Dierker and the staff refrained from commenting on the proposed systems pending a court hearing Friday on the Bolinas plan. The morning hearing, part of the regional board's cease and desist order against Bolinas, will be held in Contra Costa County Superior Court, Martinez.

Both systems envision treatment of sewage waste in evaporation ponds, with possible reuse of the treated wastewater for irrigation. A former director of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, Sherman R. Smith, objected in a letter that rainfall in winter and heavy fogs in summer would make evaporation "a doubtful factor"oand encourage overflows of sewage from the ponds.

BACKS SYSTEM

Smith, terming the new proposed systems "immature planning," urged development instead of the controversial $8.1 million joint system for conventional treatment and ocean discharge. This proposal, made while Smith was on the Bolinas board, was discredited by citizens in both communities last November when they voted Smith and other incumbents out of office.

Opponents of the $8.1 million joint system argued it was too costly and would encourage unwanted growth of the area. Bolinas is the only community in the nine-county Bay Area discharging raw sewage all year.

Tough Dredging Policy Is Adopted For The Bay

I-J Special Report

HAYWARD — Tough new dredging regulations for San Francisco Bay, despite objections they will skyrocket dredging costs up to 1,000 per cent and trigger a recession in Northern California, were adopted unanimously yesterday by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The action, after little discussion, brushed aside powerful opposition in an earlier hearing from industry, maritime interests and the Army Corps of Engineers. All of them argued for at least a year's delay to give more time to study the need for the regulation.

Small craft harbors depending on continued dredging for access to deep water, as do virtually all harbors in Marin and Southern Sonoma, could be wiped out by the increased costs under the regulations, according to maritime witnesses before the board's previous hearing on the regulations.

The regulations were required under federal standards on dumping dredged mud that is polluted with heavy metals or toxic chemicals.

These polluted spoils now will have to be dumped on land, unless it can be shown to the board's satisfaction that land disposal is not feasible. In such a case, the spoils then probably will be ordered dumped at least 30 miles outside the Golden Gate in depths greater than 100 fathoms.

The impact of such restrictions on cost already has prevented maintenance dredging in several harbors along San Rafael Canal, according to the board's staff.

The government issued its standards in the face of mounting evidence in recent years of the effects of heavy metals. State Fish and Game Department officials warned that these pollutants accumulate in ever-increasing concentrations in the food chain, thus can make fish products "dangerous for human use."

The new regulations govern dumping of spoils found contaminated with volatile solids, nitrogen, oil, grease, mercury, lead, zinc, copper, cadmium and pesticides.

The regional board agreed to review the impact of the regulations in six months.

Cigarette Tax Shares Are Told

U.S. Wages Four Times Production

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wages and salaries of American workers increased four times as much as their productivity, measured in output by manhour, during the first quarter of this year, the Labor Department said yesterday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also released a new set of statistics showing that growth of unit profits of nonfinancial corporations, after falling drastically in 1970, far outstripped increases in hourly compensation they paid their employees in 1971.

The BLS said compensation per man hour in the entire private economy increased at an annual rate of 8.6 per cent during the first three months of 1972, while output per man hour went up at only a 2.1 per cent annual rate, which was below the 3.6 per cent growth for all of 1971.

Even when the effects of inflation were taken out, the real purchasing power of the average hourly compensation went up in the first quarter at an annual rate of 5 per cent, more than twice the rise in productivity and nearly twice the 2.6 per cent increase in the purchasing power for 1971.

This resulted in a 6.3 per cent annual rate of increase in unit labor costs during the January-February-March period, the BLS said.

The report showed that since the first quarter of last year, output per man hour went up 2.8 per cent, compensation per man hour increased 6.3 per cent, the purchasing power of the hourly compensation advanced 2.6 per cent and unit labor costs rose 3.4 per cent.

The new report on nonfinancial corporations showed their compensation per an hour increased 7 per cent in 1971 while unit profits went up 11.6 per cent after declining 13.1 per cent in 1970, due in part to the long General Motors strike. Unit labor costs increased only 2.2 per cent while unit non-labor costs went up 6 per cent.

For employees of these corporations, however, inflation ate away more than half of their increased income as their purchasing power went up only 2.6 per cent.

GAZERS' GUIDE

Venus Shines Out In Evening Sky

By Dr. Thomas D. Nicholson
Director, the American Museum of Natural History, New York
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

May 2-3: The waning gibbous moon rises near Jupiter, about midnight daylight time, on the evening of the 2nd, and both move up the sky together on the morning of the 3rd. From moonrise until dawn the moon's motion toward the east (left) takes it close to Jupiter, while both cross the sky toward the west.

May 4: The Eta Aquarid meteor shower, so named for the star Eta, in Acquarius near its radiant, reaches maximum this evening, though observing is best after midnight on the 5th. There will be a waning moon in the morning sky, but the swift, bright meteors of this shower may be seen or two or three mornings before and after this date.

May 11: Venus, prominent as an evening star since last autumn, reaches greatest brilliancy in the evening sky. Having passed through greatest easterly elongation in early April, the planet is now setting earlier and becoming dimmer, both preludes to its leaving sky.

May 12: The moon is at perigee (nearest earth) 11 hours before new moon. The perigee spring tide will produce higher than normal high tides.

May 14: The moon is in conjunction with Saturn this morning. This evening Saturn will be below the day-and-a-half-old Crescent moon and difficult to see even with an exceptionally clear western horizon.

May 15: The moon passes Venus and Mars this afternoon, and after sundown the crescent moon and the two planets make an exceptionally striking scene. Venus and Mars are both to the right (west) of the moon, Venus above and the brighter planet, Mars below and closer to the moon. Mars is occulted by the moon over the Arctic and parts of Europe.

May 17: Venus and Mars, still close together in the evening sky, are in conjunction.

May 25: The moon is at apogee, farthest from earth.

May 26: Venus, prior to passing between sun and Earth, becomes stationary and begins its retrograde (westward) motion. This will take it rapidly toward the sun and out of the evening sky.

May 27-28: On the right of the full moon, the star near the moon, occulted by it over western areas of North America, is Antares, in Scorpius. The moon approaches Antares during the night and passes the star early on the morning of the 28th.

May 29-30: Jupiter rises after the moon late on the evening of the 29th and before the moon on the evening of the 30th. The planet is near the moon on both nights, with conjunction at 11 a.m., daylight time, on the 30th.

May 31: Saturn is in conjunction with the sun. The planet now enters the morning sky.

All month: Venus, Mars, and Saturn continue as evening stars. Saturn, still in Taurus, is too low at dusk to be seen, even in early May, and the planet leaves the evening sky by the end of the month. Venus and Mars remain close together all month while they move into Gemini. The sun approaches both planets during May, however, and both are setting perceptibly earlier by month's end. Jupiter rises in the late evening, moves up to the south by 4 a.m., daylight time, and remains until dawn, when it is low in the southwest among the stars of Sagittarius.

School Board Wants Charter Revision Talk

The San Rafael Board of Education last night decided it wants to get together with the city to discuss a revision of the city charter to allow the board itself to fill vacancies that occur.

Supt. John F. Plank also said the board set a special budget meeting for 7:30 p.m. May 2 at the administration building. The preliminary 1972-73 budget will be discussed at that time, he said.

The charter revision suggestion was in a letter to San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini, asking that a committee composed of two council members and two board of education members be formed. The city now fills vacancies that occur on the education board.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

EXCHANGE — Heard exchange teachers Greta Massey and George Bowron, both of England, praise the American education system for the amount of services and equipment available here.

TRIP — Heard a report by 25 science students who recently completed an eight-day trip to the Mojave Desert and Death Valley. The trip has been taken for the past four years by students during Easter recess.

AMENDMENT — Decided to inform community leaders and organizations of its opposition to the proposed Watson Amednment, which would limit the amount of property tax which can be levied in California.

APPOINTMENTS — Named Lynne Bishop, 123 Union Street, San Rafael, and Sharon DeBord, of Residence 74, San Quentin, to fill vacancies on the citizen advisory committee.

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of San Rafael High School physical education teacher Lou Ann Graham, and approved brief leaves for Short School teacher Barbara Dittmann and Davidson Middle School custodian Joaquin Vargas.

CONTRACT — Authorized Plank to hire the firm of Sleezer and Eckhoff to audit 1971-72 district transactions at a cost of $4,800.

GIFT — Accepted for San Rafael High Schools physical education department the gift of a sailboat, valued at $295, from John H. Taylor Jr.

MATH — Heard teachers Sharon Brandenburger and Justin Kielty describe the mechanics of the individualized mathematics program at Sun Valley and San Pedro schools. Under the program, children are tested and then individual programs of study are set up, Kielty and Mrs. Brandenburger reported.

Poetry Reading

A poetry reading by Eugene Ruggles and Gunard Solberg will be held at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Sleeping Lady Cafe, 58 Bolinas Road, Fairfax. Contributions will be asked.

E. Mill Valley Moratorium On Building Eyed

A moratorium on development for the east Mill Valley area has been proposed by the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

The commission broached the suggestion — a reaction to rapid development in the region — at its meeting Monday night, said secretary Evelyn B McCreary.

The commission did not set any area for the proposed moratorium, nor did it propose any duration for the ban, she said. The commission said it wanted to study the matter further before asking the city council whether it would favor such an idea, she said.

Members noted the effect of a moratorium on construction workers who might be thrown out of work, she said.

Wounded Policeman In Fair Condition

Lt. Philip D. Green, 32-year-old San Rafael police officer wounded in a gun battle April 14, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital, hospital spokesmen said.

Green who was shot once in the lower back close to the spinal cord, had undergone surgery twice for his wound and had been listed in serious condition by hospital authorities.

School Bus Drivers Seek Pay Increase

The Marin County Schools Personnel Commission has heard a plea from a representative of bus drivers employed by the county schools office for a 10 per cent increase in pay.

Frank O'Connell, general manager of the Marin County Employees Association which represents the bus drivers, asked the commission Monday to reclassify the drivers to a higher salary schedule so they would get the increase.

O'Connell said that a salary survey of other school districts in the county showed that the county schools bus drivers are receiving less.

A report, also given at the meeting, by Thomas B. Lowry, personnel director for the county schools, showed that the county schools bus drivers' salaries are about 4 per cent below the average of other Bay Area suburban counties.

Other nonteaching employees in the county schools office are receiving salaries ranging from 6 per cent higher than the average in other suburban counties to 8 per cent lower, Lowry said.

According to Stephen Parodi, curriculum coordinator to the county schools, Gregory Dunn, who represented classified employees who belong to the California School Employees Association, objected to only the bus drivers being considered for reclassification.

Motorcycle Gone

Stanwood G. Brooks, 1537 Tamar Drive, Petaluma, told police that his 1969 yellow Yamaha Motorcycle was stolen yesterday from the parking lot at Petaluma Senior High School. It bore license number 763086.

Kentfield Fire Unit Has New Member

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board has appointed William Glascock to replace Raymond N. Vogel, former board member who drowned April 8 after a boating accident in the Golden Gate.

Glascock lives at 101 Diablo Drive, Kentfield. He works as an insurance salesman in Larkspur. He is also a member of the volunteer fire department in Kentfield.

ABC Appeal Hearing Is Tomorrow

An appeal hearing on the State Alcoholic Beverage Control's refusal to grant a beer and wine license to operators of the Civic Center cafeteria will resume tomorrow at the Civic Center.

Tomorrow's hearing — to be held in room 332 of the administration building — will be the fourth session to be held since January before state hearing officer Paul A. Winton.

During past sessions, the ABC has called nearly 20 witnesses to speak against the license and in support of the agency's refusal to grant the permit.

San Rafael attorney Gil Medeiros, representing Civic Center Caterers, is expected to question Marin County sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste during tomorrow's session.

Rescue Child In Restaurant Pond

Firemen and a San Rafael resident probably can take credit for the fact that 2-year-old Luther Cooke of Petaluma is alive today.

The child was rescued yesterday at 10:30 a.m. from the pond at Franchini's Chateau restaurant after he was found face down and apparently lifeless by his babysitter, Penny Grainger, of 7 Howard, Apt. 4, Petaluma, San Rafael police said today.

Mrs. Grainger and Luther, of 7 Howard, Apt. 3, had been at the pond when the child wandered off to feed bread to some nearby ducks. Minues later, missing the child, Mrs. Grainger found and dragged him from the water, and called to Philip C. Vogler of 220 Canal Street, Apt. 10, San Rafael, who had been inside the restaurant.

Vogler applied mouth-to-moutn resuscitation but by the time firemen arrived, the boy still was not breathing, police said. Firemen Marlen Williams, Stanley Bush, Geffory Johnson and Calvin Gay took over resuscitation efforts, and by the time an ambulance arrived the boy was breathing again, police said.

Luther was taken to Marin General Hospital, where he was listed in good condition and was expected to be released this afternoon.

Sleepy Hollow Girl Wins Competition

Vivienne Todd, 16-year-old sophomore at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow, yesterday was awarded third prize in the annual Invest-In-America competition.

Awards of stocks, deposits in savings accounts and life insurance policy were made to Miss Todd and 15 San Francisco high school students at a luncheon sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of San Francisco.

WORD-A-DAY

Hood Leads Mill Valley In Spending

The three candidates elected on April 11 to the Mill Valley City Council spent more than $4,500 on their campaigns, according to campaign finance statements filed with the city.

Gerald J. Hood spent $1,858 and received $2,196 in campaign donations; Robert E. Burton spent $1,397 and received $1,433, and Robert E. Capron spent and received $1,247. The three winners, by law, had to file their statements before they could be seated on the council. Losing candidates have until May 16 to file their statements, according to county election officials.

Hood's contributions of $2,196 included $1,000 of his own.

His larger contributors were: $100 — Mill Valley Cyclery, Robert Reynolds and Harvey Bragdon. John McSweeney gave $105. Hood raised $321 at a benefit event, according to the report, and there were many donors of lesser amounts.

Burton's larger contributors were Matthew Copenhaver, Janet and Robert Mountjoy and Dr. John Lee. He raised $100 at a fund-raising party, according to the report, and also had many donors of lesser amounts.

Capron's larger contributors were: $50 — Jerrold Ladar, Joseph Bodovitz, Kim Clark and Elizabeth Rodman. There were many donors of smaller amounts.

First, Third In Race Split Election Funds

The first and third-place finishers in the April 11 San Anselmo City Council race for two seats split their contributions and expenses, according to Caroline Foster, city hall clerk.

"We ran as a ticket," said third-place finisher James F. Reed. He trailed running mate Kenneth L. Anderson and Dr. Martin G. Blinder in the balloting.

Anderson and Reed both listed $571 in contributions and $536 in expenses. All contributions were to "Citizens for Reed and Anderson," Reed said. Their filings both listed $25 donations from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Olive as the largest contribution, according to Mrs. Foster.

Blinder, who finished second in the tight balloting, listed $385 in contributions and $1,291 in expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Jack Burr II, who finished last in the voting, did not list campaign contributions or expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

The four other city council candidates — Pieter Toal, Judy Emis, Sarah Nome and Richard A. Raznikov — have not yet filed, Mrs. Foster said.

Candidates for public office are required by law to file within 35 days after an election or they are ineligible to run again for public office, according to the county elections office.

Blinder listed five $50 contributions. They were from Dr. Harris Blinder, Sam and Josephine Braco, Shirley Luthman, Dr. Mervyn Sahud and Family Therapy Institute.

In the city treasurer race, incumbent winner William P. Franchini and runner-up Patrick E. McHatton did not list contributions or expenses, according to Mrs. Foster. She also said Helen J. Ragan did not list contributions or expenses in her uncontested bid retaining the city clerk job.

Vote Leader Also Leads In Spending

E. Ross Parkerson, who led the field of eight Fairfax City Council candidates in the April 11 municipal election, had the largest amount of campaign contributions, according to City Clerk Eileen L. Foster.

Parkerson, with 858 votes, listed $1,010 in campaign contributions, and liste his expenses as $1,055, Mrs. Foster said.

Runner-up in the voting with 629 votes and subsequently named mayor was Albert E. Gately, who listed $109 in contributions and $311 in expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Parkerson's largest contribution was in the form of "miscellaneous cash" of $344. Bruce Duncan also contributed $100 to the Parkerson campaign, according to Mrs. Foster. Gately's biggest contribution was $50 from Erika McQuillan.

The six losing candidtes in the race, in order of finish, filed these figures:

Adelaide P. Wilson — Contributions $291; expenses $607. Largest contribution, $82 from a fund-raising event.

Joseph E. Martinez — Contributions $635 (including $290 from his personal account); expenses $634. Largest contribution, $190 from a fund-raising event.

Harold S. Lezzini — Contributions, none listed; expenses $262.

Randall L. Garrison — Contributions $295; expenses $532. Largest contributions, $200 by fund-raising party, $50 by Short Stop Markets.

Glenn B. Meagher — Contributions, none listed; expenses $695.

Urban M. Nielsen — Contributions, none listed; exepnses $444.

In the city treasurer race, winner Priscilla C. Gray, runner-up Benjamin F. Courtz and defeated incumbent Harold H. Taft did not list campaign contributions or expenses, Mrs. Foster said.

Mrs. Foster, the lone candidate for her city clerk job, also did not list campaign contributions or expenses.

First Suspended Police Captain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The commander of the Police Department's Northern Station has become the first captain in the city's history to receive a suspension.

Capt. Ernest J. Rabb, 52, a veteran of 25 years on the force, was given a one-day suspension for allegedly being "unavailable" a week ago for an antiwar protest at the federal building, the department announced Tuesday.

The suspension cost Rabb $82.90 in forfeited pay.

Novato Sewer District Awards Pump Contract

The Novato Sanitary District board has awarded C. Norman Peterson Co. of Berkeley a $519,000 contract to construct a new Olive Street pump station and improve the Marin Village pump station.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said the firm was lowest of 14 bidders on the work, approved by voters in 1970 as part of a $5.5 million construction program.

Directors awarded the contract Monday night with work scheduled to start within 30 days and be completed next spring, he said.

Joseph also reported it apparently isn't economically feasible to reuse waste water on the Highway 101 bypass project as proposed by Planning Commission Chairman John C. Schoonover.

Schoonover suggested several weeks ago the district consider using the waste water for landscape irrigation.

The Novato Sanitary District board also:

WILSON AVENUE — Applied to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission to annex 1.9 acres at the northwest corner of Center Road and Wilson Avenue.

SUTRO AVENUE — Annexed 5.2 acres at the northwest corner of Sutro and Vineyard avenues, part of the Tamarack Estates subdivision.

PUMP REPAIR — Approved pump repair at the Novato Treatment Plant at a cost of $1,900.

SECRETARY — Ratified the appointment of Shirley Hill as administrative secretary at $573 a month.

FILL MATERIAL — Approved additional fill material for the Novato Treatment Plant at a cost of $7,000.

Accident Victim's Condition Is Good

Norman J. Judson, 54, of 81 Pine Drive, Fairfax, was listed in good condition today at Kaiser Hospital, San Rafael, after a construction barrier fell on top of him Monday at 4:55 p.m. in Fairfax.

Judson was walking at Bolinas Road and Mono Alley when a plywood panel apparently blown over by the wind hit him, police said.

Younger Plans Crime Telecasts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The state Justice Department may have its own television station for broadcasts to law enforcement agencies in a year or two.

The disclosure came Tuesday from state Attorney General Evelle J. Younger during a community forum on law enforcement.

Younger said the broadcasts would be used for training policemen as well as for "operational" telecasts about actual crimes.

CORNISH PASTYS will be the feature of the menu served by the Raccoon Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers at their picnic Sunday after a cruise during the opening day of San Francisco Bay sailing. Working on the picnic foods are (from left) Mmes. Robert Bernheim, Alvin Kuhn, and Harvey Rogers, who rolls out the dough at the Bernheim home in Belvedere. They share their recipes for others who wish to make a picnic this weekend.

Hearty Food For Opening Day Of Sailing

With the opening day of bay sailing scheduled for Sunday, nautical chefs must begin their planning to provide sustenance for the men, women and children who enjoy the sunny, and possibly chilly San Francisco Bay.

The members of the Raccoon Branch of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers, who will hold their annual "Opening Day of Sailing" fete by providing a ferryboat ride in and around Sunday's yacht parade, have put together a series of dishes especially for sailors.

This year's party will include a visit to Angel Island for a picnic, and the menu includes special dishes for that event.

The feature dish, Cornish Pastys, is one that Mrs. Robert Bernheim of Belvedere, has had in her family since her mother came to the United States from Land's End in Cornwall, England, where sailing and feeding sailors is a way of life.

Since opening day will start at the Windjammer restaurant dock in Tiburon at 10:30 a.m. and will include a two-hour jaunt on the Bay, the hospital volunteers, plan on a very hungry group.

CORNISH PASTYS

4 cups all purpose flour
⅛ tsp. salt
1½ cups (or ¾ lb.) lard or shortening chilled and cut into ¼ inch bits
8-10 Tbsp. ice water

In large, chilled bowl combine flour, salt, lard or shortening. Working quickly, rub flour and lard together with finger tips until it looks like coarse meal. Pour in eight tablespoons ice water, all at once.

Gather dough into ball. If dough crumbles, add up to two more tablespoons of ice water — a teaspoon at a time until particles adhere.

Dust pastry with a little flour. Wrap in waxpaper and refrigerate for at least an hour.

On a lightly floured surface, roll out dough into a circle about one quarter inch thick. With pastry wheel or sharp knife — cut into six-inch rounds (for large pasty, cut 12-inch rounds).

FILLING

2 cups finely diced lean, boneless beef — preferably top round
1 cup coarsely chopped onions
3 cups finely diced potatoes
1½ t. salt
1 t. freshly ground black pepper
1 egg lightly beaten
½ cup chopped parsley

With large spoon, toss beef, onions, potatoes, salt, pepper and parsley together.

Place about one-fourth of mixture in center of each pasty round (put dab of butter or margarine on pasty before adding mixture). If larger rounds are used, add more filling.

Moisten edges of rounds with a pastry brush dipped in cold water.

Fold rounds in half to enclose filling completely. Press seams together firmly and crimp them with your fingers or fork.

Place pastys on baking sheet and cut two slits about 1 inch long in top of each. Brush lightly with beaten eggs and bake in center of oven for 15 minutes at 400 degrees. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes longer or until golden brown. May be served hot or cold.

Recipe makes 16 six-inch pastys. Can also be baked in pie plate.

GOLDEN MUSHROOM SOUP

(for a cold day on the Bay)
1 can consomme
1 can golden mushroom soup
1½ cans water
Sherry to taste

Serve hot in mugs. Serves six.

(picnic style)
1 chicken (fryer) or equivalent pieces - cut up
2 cups pre-sifted flour
2 tsp. salt (or 2 tsp. savory salt)
Pepper, if desired
Cooking oil

Wash chicken pieces. Shake flour and seasonings in disposable plastic bag to mix. Add chicken pieces one at a time, wet. Shake each time to cover pieces with flour. Refrigerate at least two hours (can be left overnight). When ready to cook, heat oil in deep skillet or fry pan (oil one and one half inches deep, at least).

Separate chicken pieces (some will be stuck together). Add more flour if necessary and shake till all pieces are dry with flour, Fry in hot oil until brown, turning as required. Drain cooked pieces on paper towels and allow to cool. When cool enough not to be steamy when packed, put in paper towels and pack in picnic basket. Chicken will remain crisp if not wrapped in air-tight container. Serves four.

CHILLED ARTICHOKES WITH SHRIMP

6 large artichokes
salt
½ lemon, sliced
1 Tbsp. olive oil
½ clove garlic
⅓ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup sour cream
1½ Tbsp. grated lemon zest
¼ teaspoon salt
½ tspj dried tarragon
½ tsp. dijon mustard
½ lb. cooked bay shrimp
6 lemon wedges

Trim artichokes, put in boiling salted water with lemon slices, oil, and garlic. Simmer 45 minutes. Drain and cool. Scoop out centers, remove artichokes, drain upside down, cover and cool.

Mix mayonnaise, sour cream, lemon juice and zest, salt, tarragon and mustard. Chill. Before serving put two tablespoons dressing into each artichoke and top with butter. Garnish with lemon wedges. Serves six.

APPLESAUCE DATE CAKE

2 cups unsifted flour
2 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. allspice
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cloves (powdered)
¼ tsp. salt
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
½ cup soft butter or margarine
2 cups hot applesauce
1 cup chopped dates
¾ cup chopped walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease well and flour a 9 x 9 x 2 baking pan. Into a large bowl sift flour with soda, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, cloves and salt. Then add eggs, sugar, butter and 1 cup hot applesauce. Beat until ingredients are combined. At medium speed beat two minutes and scrape bowl often. Add remaining applesauce, dates, walnuts. Mix for one minute by hand. Pour batter into prepared pan and bake 50 minutes, or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes and remove from pan and cool on wire rack. Frost with cream cheese frosting.

CREAM CHEESE FROSTING

3 oz. of cream cheese - softened
1 tsp. of soft butter or margarine
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups of sifted confectioners sugar

In small bowl combine cream cheese, butter and vanilla. Mix until fluffy. Gradually add sugar. Beat at medium speed until fluffy.

Some Foods Are Standardized

Foods that have been classified standardized foods by the Food and Drug and Cosmetic Act are not required to list ingredients of the package.

Breads, rolls, jams, jellies, catsup, mayonnaise, ice cream and many canned foods have established standards. These standards are available from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Stretching It

There are many ways to "stretch" a meat loaf. Many of the stretchers also will add flavor and good nutrition. For instance, an egg or dry milk powder will add high-quality protein, tomatoes will add vitamin A and vitamin C, chopped parsley vitamin A and wheat germ, which can be used instead of bread cubes, will add important B vitamins as well as iron.

A Banana Souffle Easy As Custard

Souffles are really spectacular desserts. They look delicate and hard to make, but this cool banana souffle is as easy to make as a custard. It can be made well ahead of time and be kept in the refrigerator until dessert time.

Bananas make this souffle especially rich in flavor and creamy smooth. You serve a warm buttered rum sauce on top of the cool souffle. Friends and family will be impressed with this bananas gone gourmet recipe — it's truly spectacular!

COOL BANANA SOUFFLE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ cups orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
6 large eggs, separated
4 bananas, mashed (about 2 cups)
1 cup whipping cream
¼ cup powdered sugar

Mix gelatin, sugar and salt in saucepan; stir in orange juice and peel. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly. Grdually stir part of hot orange juice into egg yolks; then return mixture to pan. Over low heat, bring to a boil and simmer several minutes. Cool to lukewarm. Add bananas. Beat egg whites, then whipped cream, into banana mixture. Spoon into one and a half quart souffle dish. Chill several hours or overnight. Serve with Buttered Rum Sauce.

(To make a collar for souffle dish, tear off a piece of foil about 25 inches long; fold lengthwise, into thirds. Lightly brush with oil. Wrap around top of dish. Tape ends to hold securely.)

BUTTERED RUM SAUCE

⅓ cup butter
1½ cups brown sugar
3 tbsps. light corn syrup
⅓ cup milk or light cream
¼ cup dark rum

In saucepan, combine ingredients except rum. Heat until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat. Stir in rum. Cool to lukewarm. Spoon over banana souffle.

Never Too Young To Savor An Artichoke

Introduce your toddler to a new vegetable flavor. Prepare an artichoke timbale for baby, and stuff artichokes with a savory mixture featuring French onion crackers for the rest of the family.

SAVORY STUFFED ARTICHOKES

5 medium artichokes
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¾ cup finely chopped celery
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
45 French onion crackers, finely rolled (about 1⅓ cups crumbs)
1 (2¾-ounce) package pine nuts or 1 (2½-ounce) package slivered almonds
⅓ cup finely chopped parsley
1 teaspoon paprika
Dash pepper
Vegetable oil

Wash artichokes; trim stems and pull off and discard tough outside leaves at the base. Cut off about one inch from tops of artichokes upright in a deep saucepan just big enough to fit snugly. Add salt, lemon juice and enough water to cover.

Cook, covered, 30 to 45 minutes or until base is tender. Remove and drain upside down on absorbent toweling. Spread leaves open slightly and remove fuzzy thistle and tiny inner leaves with the tip of a teaspoon.

Reserve one artichoke for Artichoke Tiny Timbale. Cook celery in butter until tender. Add the next five ingredients; toss to mix thoroughly. Spoon into centers of four artichokes. Place in baking dish. Brush leaves with oil; cover and heat in preheated slow oven (325 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with melted butter for dipping leaves. Makes four servings.

Protein Source

An egg is an excellent source of high quality protein, vitavin A and iron, according to General Fodds nutritionists. The average egg supplies 80 calories and can be cooked a variety of ways· scrambled, soft-cooked, deviled, poached, baked or fried.

'Fully Cooked'

"Fully-cooked" hams may be served unheated. Full flavor is developed, however, by heating the ham in a slow oven to 140 degrees.

This Oatmeal Bread — Real Home Winner

FRUITED OATMEAL BREAD

1 cake (1 ounce) yeast or 1 package dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup quick-cooking oats
¼ cup melted lard
° cup molasses
2 teaspoons salt
5½ to 6 cups flour
½ cup chopped candied fruit
½ cup raisins

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Pour boiling water over oats. Add melted lard, molasses and salt to oat mixture. Cool until lukewarm. Add yeast and mix well. Stir in one-third of flour, then fruit and raisins. Add enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough, stirring to mix.

Knead lightly on a lightly floured board. Place in a greased bowl, cover, set in a warm place and let rise until double in bulk. Punch down and divide dough in half, shape and place in two greased 5 x 9-inch loaf pans. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 to 50 minutes or until done.

New Combo: Nutty Peanut Butter Bread

Let's face it. Some of us like to eat peanut butter by the spoonful. But admittedly we're in the minority. Over half of all peanut butter eaten annually in the United States is eaten in the form of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. The average shopper buys at least one loaf of bread each week and a jar of peanut butter every 2.8 weeks.

For an at-home peanut and bread duo, try this recipe for nutty peanut butter bread: Slice one roung (one-pound) loaf of bread vertically five to seven times nearly to bottom of crust; then slice five to seven times in the opposite direction. Place the bread on aluminum foil and curve it around the base of the bread, then place bread in a shallow baking pan. Melt half cup of margarine in a saucepan over low heat. Stir in 2 tablespoons Skippy peanut butter and three-quarter cup of light corn syrup. Spoon over top and sides of loaf dribbling mixture down all cut edges. Sprinkle half cup chopped peanuts into cut edges and on top. Place in 300-degree (slow) oven for 15 minutes or until heated through.

Sweet, Sour Pineapple Pork Plate

In sweet and sour pineapple pork, the meat is served in a clear, delicately thickened sauce. Pineapple chunks and juice add flavor and the dish is given color accent by the addition of tomato and bits of crisp green pickle.

SWEET AND SOUR PINEAPPLE PORK

1 pound boneless pork, cut into 1-inch cubes
Corn starch
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 cup pineapple chunks
¾ cup pineapple juice
½ cup cut up sweet pickle
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn starch
¼ cup vinegar
1 medium tomato, cut into chunks

Coat pork with corn starch. Heat corn oil in skillet over medium heat. Add meat; saute until browned and tender, about 15 minutes. Add pineapple, apple juice, pickle, soy sauce and salt. Bring to boil. Then, with a spoon, blend one tablespoon corn starch with the vinegar. Stir into mixture in skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add tomato; heat. Makes four servings.

Marin Volunteers Honored

ROLAND DURHAM, a Red Cross volunteer driver, has been selected as one of three volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County. Much of this time is spent driving families visiting inmates to and from the House at San Quentin and doing repair work at the House.

A retired tugboat captain, an 85-year-old grandmother and a convalescent hospital patient have been named volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County.

Roland Durham, of San Rafael, the former tugboat captain, was honored for his participation in many projects that involve driving persons without transportation to appointments. Mrs. Sara Mullaly also of San Rafael and known as Grandma, has been a volunteer with the Marin Easter Seal Society for eight years, and Fred Zimbeck, a resident of Rafael Convalescent Hospital, operates a telephone service for shut-ins.

A native of San Rafael, Durham has been a Red Cross motor services volunteer for three years, driving at least 40 hours a month. As part of the Wheels of Marin project he takes people to medical and therapy appointments both in Marin and San Francisco.

For the past two months he has been a volunteer at the House at San Quentin. He drives families who visit inmates to and from the House and the bus station and takes inmates who are on temporary passes, to the bus so they can go job hunting. Between driving assignments he does repairs to the House.

Durham was praised by a member of the Red Cross staff for his dependability, willingness and sensitivity.

MRS. SARA MULLALY
Volunteer of the year

Mrs. Mullaly recently ran the 50-yard dash to set an example for a handicapped child. Her efforts at 85 were successful in motivating the child. Another activity for the Easter Seal recreation program was crocheting 60 Easter baskets this year. She is associated with the senior citizens group at Marinwood Recreation Center.

Last month Mrs. Mullaly accompanied four teen-age girls to Disneyland because they needed a chaperon. She is always "right there in case of an emergency" according to friends, who may need just a visit or to have their animals cared for in an emergency.

FOR HIS project TeleCare, a telephone service for shut-ins, Fred Zimbeck was honored as one of three volunteers of the year by the Volunteer Bureau of Marin County. A resident of Rafael Convalescent Hospital, Zimbeck calls clients daily to see if they are all right and has organized other hospital patients, who also make the calls.

Fred Zimbeck got together several other patients at Rafael Convalescent Hospital in San Rafael and organized TeleCare, a telephone service for shutins. They call clients at the same time every day to see that they are all right and summon help if there is no answer to the calls.

TeleCare began in November and is sponsored by the Marin County Department of Public Social Service's volunteer service. He said his only problem, operating the project, is to find more persons that he can serve by calling.

Boyd Marin Museum of Science was named agency of the year by the Volunteer Bureau for its "innovative use of voluntary help," according to Mrs. R. M. D. Childs, past president of the bureau.

The museum uses young persons, trained in veterinary medicine, to care for the animals, trains docents to discuss the museum's work in the public schools and has 12 guilds whose members raise funds for the museum.

Volunteers Given Pins

Eight members of the Marin General Hospital Volunteers were presented with pins in March to mark 100 hours of volunteer service to the hospital.

They included Mrs. M. E. Rickenbaugh and Mrs. Frank Tavel, San Rafael; Miss Anne Danielson, Kentfield; Miss Jane Kirschbaum, Belvedere; Miss Mary Riley, Novato; Miss Karen McGee and Mrs. R. L. Taylor, San Anselmo, and Mrs. Neil Munro, Mill Valley.

Ten volunteers received 200-hour pins, including Mrs. Richard Bradshaw and Miss Marsha Brandhorst, San Rafael; Miss Betty Cheesewright, Kentfield; Miss Mary Duhme, Mrs. Michael Linwood and Mrs. David Smith, Tiburon; Mrs. Frances Elvebak, Greenbrae; Mrs. William Findeisen and Mrs. Francis Keane, Mill Valley, and Mrs. Michael Morfe, Corte Madera.

Mrs. Ole Christensen, San Rafael, received a 300-hour award, while five volunteers — — Mrs. Whitman Alger, Tiburon; Mrs. Michael DeVinck, Greenbrae; Robert Disher, Terra Linda; Mrs. Richard Franks, Corte Madera, and Mrs. LeRoy French, Ross — were presented with pins for 400 hours of service.

Mrs. Hugo Bjork, Kentfield; Mrs. Harry Gibbon, Greenbrae, and Mrs. Richard Ives and Mrs. Harriet Massoni, San Rafael, received 500-hour pins.

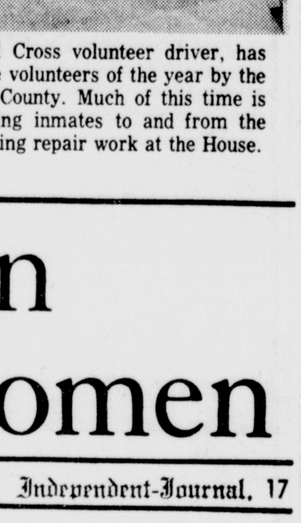
Hospital Volunteers Select New Officers



MRS. DONALD MURRAY
Leads volunteers

Mrs. Donald E. Murray of San Rafael will begin as chairman of the Marin General Hospital Council of Volunteers on July 1. She began working as a volunteer at the hospital in the spring of 1953 and since that time has served on the scholarship committee, as a Pink Lady in-service volunteer, a member of the Peacock Branch of MGH Volunteers and was vice chairman of the Council of Volunteers for the past two years.

The council's purpose is to develop, maintain, coordinate and direct the efforts and activities of the volunteers, designated to advance the service of the hospital as a community health center, according to the chairman.

"More than 1,200 Marin County women serve voluntarily both inside and outside the hospital," Ann Murray said. "The in-service group helps make the patients' days more pleasant through the priceless gift of time and dependability. The branches assist in fund raising to help purchase needed medical equipment for the hospital."

Membership is open to anyone in the community, including young men and women who are interested in becoming volunteers.

Ann Murray has also been a director of the Women's Auxiliary of the San Francisco Yacht Club and president of the San Rafael Improvement Club.

A native of Santa Cruz, she has lived in Marin since childhood and was graduated from San Rafael High School and attended Dominican College. Her husband is senior vice president and a director of the Bank of Marin, and they are the parents of Don Jr., Lora Lee, Richard and Sheran Ann Murray and have a granddaughter, Samantha Ann.

Mrs. Murray said that the hospital is her favorite hobby, and family activities have top priority for her time. She said she enjoys sailing with her husband, and tennis and riding are her favorite sports.

Mrs. Milton D. Drueger of San Rafael will serve as vice chairman of the council. Mrs. Samuel Farber of Mill Valley is secretary and Mrs. John Fiske of San Rafael, treasurer.

Serving Melon

To enjoy melon at its best, store in room temperature until fully ripe. Then peel and cut into convenient chunks or slices and refrigerate in a tightly covered container to prevent transfer of odors. With pulp and peeling removed, melon will retain top texture and flavor longer.

Bathrobe Style For Little Girls

Popular coats for little girls, come fall, will be in two styles, according to Women's Wear Daily. Over pants, the popular style will be all weather short jackets with hoods, and with boots girls will prefer the long, bathrobe style.

The ready-to-wear trade newspaper predicts that bath robe styles in heavy wool plaid with fake fur trim and the short style done in nylon and trimmed in quilting will be best sellers.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Vanity Mwght Plunge By Mentioning The Hair Dye Job

DEAR HELEN:

My husband, at 28, is prematurely balding. He bought a hair piece last year and we think it looks great. At over $200, it should!

We haven't made a big secret of this, but most of our friends and relatives don't mention what looks so natural: it's a part of Dan.

. . .All except this one woman who, when recent acquaintances are around, always manages to give Dan a "compliment" on his new hair. Maybe she's just tactless, but I detect a smug look on her face when she sees a few people are surprised. Could be she's jealous, as her husband could stand some improvements, too. And so could she, in spite of a dye job and false eyelashes.

Telling her to cool it might only inspire her to more remarks. She's the type. What's a good, clever comeback? — HAIRASSED

DEAR HAIRASSED:

Why doesn't your husband, while acknowledging her "compliments" look her deep in the eyes and say, "Thanks, luv, but did you know your false eyelash is flapping?" Or perhaps you could note her new dye job.

A few allusions to her "transformations" should get the message across. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Years ago my wife was a sweet, devoted family woman. I may have taken her for granted, until the "affair" at her office cost her job.

Since then I have tried to give her all the things that might have been lacking: love, attention, compliments, the wine-and-dine bit. I even do most of the home chores and cooking, as she has a new job now.

But she rejects me, says we're too old to be "lovey-dovey," and she doesn't want affection. Her work is all-important to her. I'm scorned and ridiculed. Yet I still love and want her.

We tried a marriage counselor. He charged $400, and my wife said he was crazy.

Since she all but throws me out of the house, I've been going to a club where I've met a widow I admire very much. Things are still cool, but momentum could gather very easy. She's well off, and is used to the country club set, while I'm just an average guy. I'm flattered —and attracted!

But my marriage of 23 years means a lot to me. Why does a man keep on wanting a woman who seemingly hates him? I'e never been unfaithful. My wife has, though I never mention it. Should I keep a perfect track record, or try for the next best thing? — UNDECIDED

DEAR UN:

Why not asu your wife? Perhaps if she realizes she may lose you, she'll start working at her marriage again.

If she doesn't, then perhaps you've drifted so far apart there's no returning. A trial separation might give you both needed time to think. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I gave our daughter a birthday party and, naturally, she blew out the candles on her cake.

One of the mothers present wouldn't let her son eat any of the cake because of germs! She said blowing out candles can deposit them all over the frosting and she couldn't take chances. Our Cindy didn't even have a cold!

Isn't this too much? — BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED:

A mother this health-conscious shouldn't have allowed her son to attend the party: Think of all those nasty, swarming germs each time a kid breathes his way!

. . .Poor boy! — H.

This column is dedicated to family living so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Join The Experts Who Can't Agree On Water

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you are not sure about what effect the water you drink is having on you, you are in good company. Even the most noted experts cannot agree.

Many of them were here last week for the Sixth International Water Quality Symposium, sponsored by the Water Quality Research Council, a private non-profit group.

For every speaker who warned of health dangers lurking in the popular colorless liquid, there was at least another who priased its value for almost anything that ails you.

Those who were critical of soft water cited studies that have shown death rates higher in soft-water areas. But at least one friend of soft water said his tests showed just the opposite correlation: lower death rates in soft-water areas.

ANOTHER TOPIC of dispute was the effect of minerals in water on human health. Dr. Henry A. Schroeder, a professor at Dartmouth Medical School, said he was concerned about the presence of cadmium in acid water and corrosive hard water.

He said the toxic metal, which has been linked with heart disease and hardening of the arteries in animals, is leached from both galvanized and black plastic pipes.

He calls cadmium a serious hazard to human health, especially because it builds up in the body and is not excreted.

He said one way to reduce the presence of the metal in tap water is to allow the faucet to run for a while before using water in the morning. He also warned against cooking with hot water because it picks up more cadmium than cold water does.

Another way to reduce cadmium is to install a deionizer, a type of water softener, under the kitchen sink.

Another speaker, however, emphasized the positive value of metals in water. Dr. Robert Kunin, an official of Rohn and Haas Co., said they were not at toxic levels yet and many were essential to normal life processes.

ONE PARTICIPANT suggested that cancer-causing substances are present in water, particularly radium. Dr. Mitchell R. Zavon, an official at the Huntington Research Center in Towson, Md., estimates that 75 per cent of all cancer is of environmental origin.

But if the problem is radium, he said, the answer is simple. It is installation of a water softener. He called the ion-exchange softener in common usage 99 per cent effective in removing radium.

A broader, optimistic viewpoint was presented by Edward A. Lew, a vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. He reported an increase in life expectancy at birth of about .7 of a year over the last decade.

He concluded that water pollution has had no adverse effect on over-all human health.

A Canadian doctor, Dr. Terence W. Anderson, declared that some mystery element in water may contribute to heart disease.

For another speaker, however, water is a powerful therapeutic for many ailments. Dr. Anna Kara of Cornell Medical College was ecstatic about the benefits of warm tap water for such ills as arthritis, hypertension and nervousness.

Coffee, Pastry Not Adequate Meal

A breakfast of coffee and doughnuts is not adequate, according to nutritionists at General Foods. This breakfast is so low in nutrients that a midmorning slump will be noticeable.

Plan an adequate breakfast around the "basic four" and include foods from each category: meat or eggs, fruit, milk and bread or cereal. A well-balanced breakfast provides important nutrition and will help dispel the midmorning slump.

Bellbottoms Are Most Popular

The average high school girl spends $302.63 per year on clothes, according to a survey conducted by Seventeen magazine. For college freshman girls the figure increased to $318.50.

Bellbottoms were the single most popular apparel purchase in 1971, the survey showed.

STYLES FROM PARIS

Here are two popular versions from the fall collections of ready-to-wear clothes shown in Paris last week. A white trouser suit (left) is the offering of Jean Barthet. It features a vest and coat lining of the same wide weave checkered material. A short coat from Almina (right) is done in red, navy and yellow plaid and belted casually like a bathrobe.

Latest Fad For Teens Is Clothing That Says 'Vote'

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Vote" it says in big letters against a red, white and blue background of stars and stripes.

A political slogan? Not really. It is the latest fad for 18-year-olds who are getting to vote this year for the first time—a political print which, according to the men's clothing trade papers is a manifestation of "awareness fashion."

The first such awareness fashion came along at the height of protests against the Vietnam War when teen-agers went into army fatigues printed with military symbols and made khaki and jungle camouflage prints high fashion fabrics.

THE NEXT stage was the magic word "ecology" which suddenly came into prominence and brought with it a sunburst of ecology prints — butterflies, clouds, animals, printed slogans. Natural looking fabrics were in and so were earth colors.

But 1972 is an election year and the 18-year-olds are hopped up at the thought of voting and the enthusiasm shows itself in bright patriotic prints, mostly with stars and stripes but also a lot of elephants, which might be some sort of omen.

The exhortation to vote turns up on T-shirts, sweatshirts, jeans, ties, shoes, socks, sweater, all printed in red, white and blue as if this were the first election ever held in the United States—which it is, of course, for the 18-year-olds.

THEY ARE not exactly what you would wear to the office but are for such occasions as a beach party or hot fudge sunday at the neighborhood ice cream parlor. But they do reflect great enthusiasm over the next election.

One textile association, the American Printed Fabrics Council, has put together a traveling fashion show in a 40-foot van which will tell the political print story in cities and on campuses all over the country.

Eleanor McRae, 69 Keeps On Learning

By DIANE CURTIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When Eleanor McRae arrived in San Francisco on the Fourth of July in 1946, she was 44 years old and had a fourth grade education. Now, after 16 years in the San Francisco Adult Schools, she is a 69-year-old high school graduate who wants to keep on learning.

"I could have sat down and not used my brains," the smiling Mrs. McRae said. "But you're a pitiful person if you see something you don't have and you don't try to get it."

WHAT MRS. McRae didn't have was an education. Splitting rails, driving a wagon, milking cows and picking cotton on her stepfather's Alabama farm didn't give a young black girl much time for going to school.

Time was counted in seasons, not semesters. And although her mother and stepfather were willing to teach their 10 children to read and write, "being youngsters, we wanted to learn at school if we learned at all," she explained.

In her 20s and married to a man who could read and write, Mrs. McRae decided it was time to "do things for myself and not always have to be asking." She sought out her Baptist minister who, she said, gave her lessons and she was writing in three weeks.

Her newfound ability to read allowed her to begin perusal of her favorite book—the Bible.

Mrs. McRae's search for education has been with no particular goal in mind. She just knew there were things she didn't know and felt she should find out what they were.

She said that if she had started her quest earlier, she would have been "a musician or something like that." Presently she sings in a choir and teaches a Bible class at her church.

Although she received her diploma at the John Adams Adult School last month, Mrs. McRae said she has no intention of quitting now. She is taking a math class and a sewing class—for learning's sake.

"There is nothing I can get from my diploma," she said. "But I hope that I will be an example to young people to get off the streets and make an honest living.

"You have to try to keep on getting something from life."

Completes Training

Heidy Sue Burman of Kentfield has completed training and is now a flight attendant with World Airways of Oakland. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Burman of Kentfield, she is a graduate of the College of Marin.

Six Guests Announced For Next A.M. Series

The series of six lecture programs in the A.M. Series has been announced for Marin County's 1972-1973 season.

The series will open Oct. 20 with demonstration of gourmet meals by cookbook author James Beard, who will describe "The Art of Entertaining."

Subsequent programs will feature Alex Haley on his search to trace his family history to a small tribe in Africa; Claire Boothe Luce speaking about public affairs and politics; James Deakin on "The Power Struggle in Washington"; Frances and Wayne Ward, a husband and wife acting team, dramatizing the writings of Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning, and reminiscences by ballerina Moira Shearer.

The latter program will close with an afternoon showing of her film, "The Red Shoes."

Formerly presented for four years under the sponsorship of the Family Service League of Marin, the A.M. Series next year will not be sponsored by the local group next season.

Mrs. Wilma Lewis, coordinator of A.M. for Northern California, said that season memberships are currently on sale through the Marin Memorial Box Office at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

Identification Markings To Make It Rough On Burglars

A young man walks into a pawn shop with a toaster, trying to hock it for $10.

Just as the cash is about to change hands the toaster ejects a small card saying "I am the property of Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue." The pawnbroker asks the stranger to prove ownership of the appliance and calls police when he flees.

Across town a new tape player is being offered at substantial savings during a well-advertised garage sale. One potential customer pushes the "play" button and is startled to hear the machine booming, "Return me to 101 Front Street, I have been stolen."

These little scenarios are not as far-fetched as they may seem. In fact, the picture took one step closer to reality today when "Operation Identification" was launched at the April meeting of the Marin County Police Chiefs Association.

The idea is to mark all property indelibly, saying whom it belongs to, preferably through the use of a driver's license number. Sponsored by the Independent Insurance Agents Association of Marin, the program is geared to hamper the sale and facilitate the return of stolen property.

Leroy J. Wilkie, president of the association, said the group will be giving engraving kits, with revolving etching tips, to police departments in Marin County for loan to homeowners.

The insurance companies recommend using a driver's license number for the convenience of policemen. Drivers can be indentified quickly through a statewide police computer network.

Along with the etching, property owners will be encouraged to place labels on marked items, and their front door, stating goods have been marked for "Operation Identification."

Wilkie said the idea was not new, but had met with great success in other parts of the country, and had been promoted through law enforcement magazines.

The insurance carriers belonging to the insurance agents association paid for the engraving kits, valued at about $20 apiece, to encourage local police departments to take part.

An insurance man said yesterday premium rates probably would not be lowered by participation in the project.

Wilkie said pawnbrokers will not deal in goods that are marked in this way, and that many "fences" (middlemen in the underworld) also refuse to handle marked goods.

He also said it would improve chances of return if objects are stolen, noting that many police departments recover stolen property only to auction it off later because they can't discover the owner's name.

Eyes Never Safe, Opthalmologist Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Foreign bodies, burns, blows and cuts comprise the most common form of eye injury," reports FVRM Robert Pfeifer, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., ophthalmologist and consultant to the Society for Visual Care.

He reminds that eyes are subject to injury under virtually all conceivable circumstances—work, play or merely moving about the house. There is no such thing as a totally safe environment for eyes.

All Supervisor Hopefuls To Air Views Tomorrow

All nine candidates for the Marin County Board of Supervisors are scheduled to appear at a candidates' night at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the meeting room of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. building, San Rafael.

The session is sponsored by the Irate Taxpayers of Marin.

The candidates, vying in the June 6 election, will be asked their positions on such issues as county spending, Civic Center security, the proposed countywide general plan, agricultural preserves, proposed formation of a countywide or regional park and open space district and regional government, including control over the coastline.

The contestants are incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., Dr. William J. Filante and Barbara Boxer in the Second District; incumbent Michael Wornum and Rev. Samuel J. Banks Jr. in the Third District and Gary T. Giacomini, Patricia T. Maginnis, James Dougan and Michael R. Peevey in the Fourth District.

Sausalito Ferry Plans Endorsed

Two-Terminal Idea Has $5.7 Million Price Tag

A master plan envisioning two Sausalito ferry terminals and related facilities costing up to $5.7 million was unanimously endorsed yesterday by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The building and operating committee recommended only that the full board approve the plan for reaction by Sausalito officials but not the projected cost.

Board president Lowell Edington of Napa County suggested that just the $1.7 million estimated for a downtown terminal may be too rich for the district's budget.

The plan was drawn by Environmental Planning and Design Associates of Sausalito under a $25,000 contract with the district. The estimates presented by Roland B. Mays of the firm also included $1.9 million at a terminal in Northern Sausalito and $2.1 million for underground parking at the downtown terminal.

The total cost was almost 350 per cent higher than estimates by district officials last year when they filed an application for a federal grant for the ferry system. Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring commented, however, that the plan by Mays was "more elaborate than what we envisioned."

The plan also was more costly because it proposed improvements which could not be included in the application for a federal grant, such as a possible underground parking lot for 305 cars, Luehring said.

The downtown terminal would be on the same side of the sandspit as the old ferry Berkeley and the Sausalito Yacht Club, both of which would be displaced by bay fill for the terminal. The North Sausalito terminal would be outboard of the district's existing lot south of the Big G supermarket.

Mays recommended the district go ahead with development of the downtown terminal, and build the northern terminal only after securing agreements for joint development of parking, commercial and residential facilities with the city and adjacent property owners. The underground parking lot at the downtown terminal also would depend on city action, perhaps through its parking assessment district, Mays said.

Each terminal would accommodate two of the 165-foot ferries being planned for construction by the district. Passenger waiting areas would be landscaped extensively, with partial protection from poor weather. Public access would be provided to the tip of the triangular downtown terminal.

Parking in Lot No. 1 would be cut from 180 to 110 cars, and Park Street would be closed, according to the plan. The parking lot would be eliminated if an underground lot were built.

Both Gate Five Road and Marinship Way would be widened in the area of the northern terminal, and a new road linking the two would be built. Parking would be provided for 320 cars.

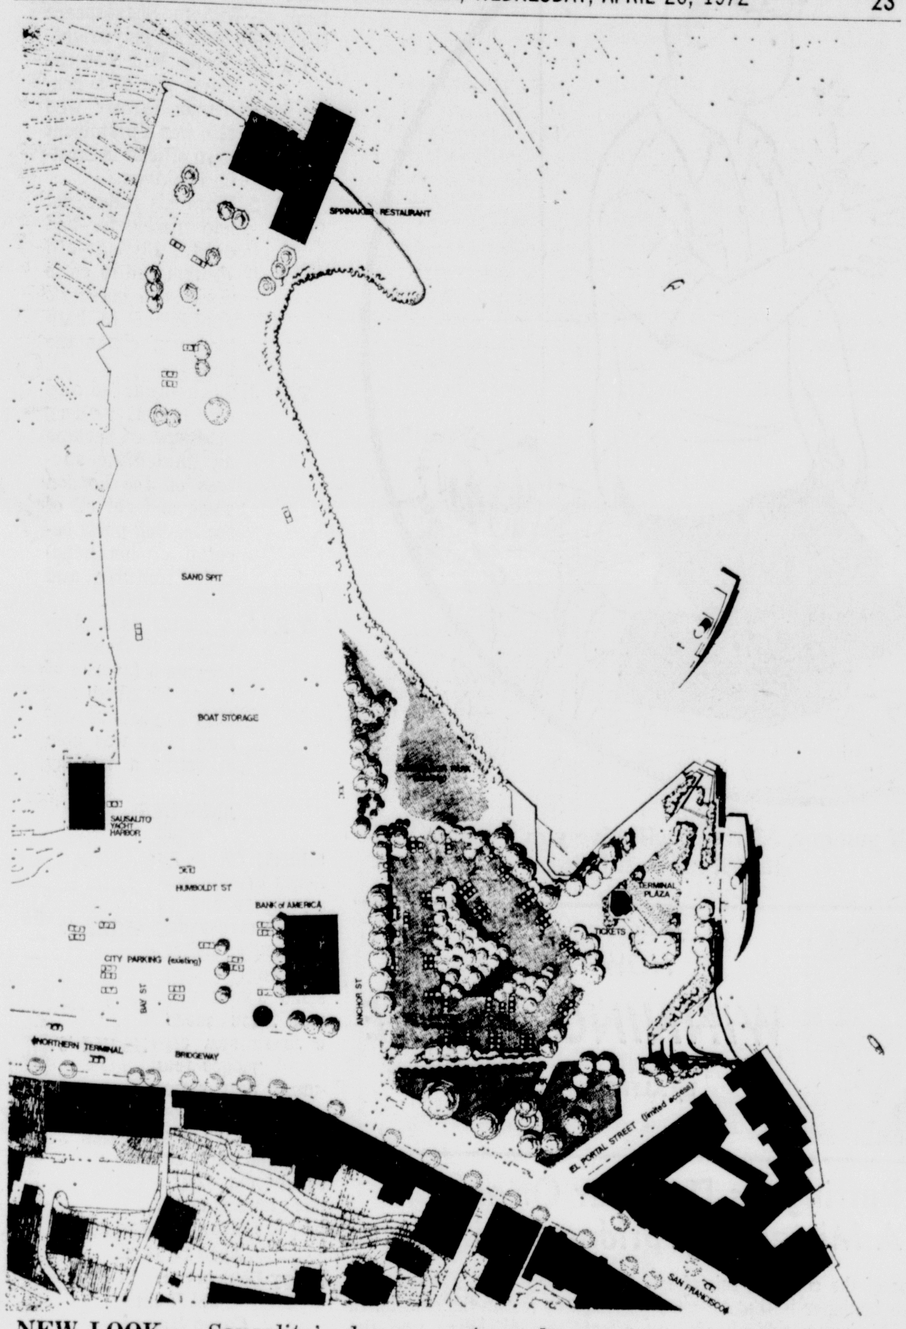
The cost estimates by Mays included $506,000 to buy the downtown terminal property and $544,923 to buy the northern terminal property. The downtown property is owned by the city, but part of it is leased to Herbert Madden. The northern property is divided among several owners.

The proposed displacement of the old ferry Berkeley from its downtown site was contrary to preliminary plans presented by Mays in February. At that time he said it could remain without interfering with district operations.

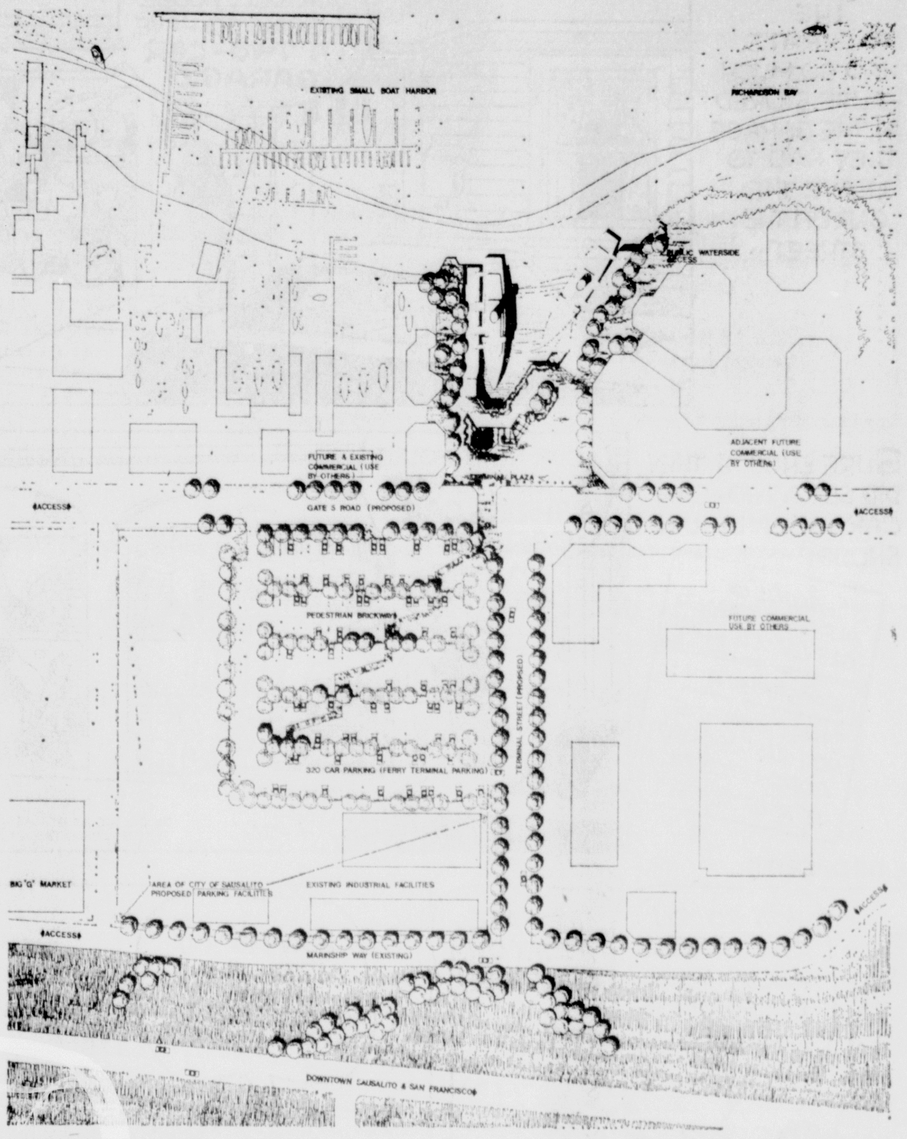
The committee also recommended a proposal by the San Francisco architectural and planning firm of Braccia-Debrer-Heglund to do a master plan for the Larkspur ferry terminal for $134,940. All but $51,000 of this sum would go to subcontracting engineers, landscape architects and other consultants.

The firm estimated that total consulting fees on the $5 million terminal would be about $500,000.

The new ferry system is to start operating by the spring of 1974.



NEW LOOK — Sausalito's downtown waterfront would be altered considerably by the addition of a permanent ferry terminal on the sand spit. The yacht club and old ferry Berkeley would be removed to make room for the terminal on new bay fill. Parking Lot No. 1 would be landscaped with trees and "grasscrete," a novel system allowing grass to grow up between cracks in concrete blocks.



MAINTENANCE TERMINAL — A Marinship terminal, shown here, would be used primarily for maintenance and night docking of ferries, with commuter service probably limited to peak traffic hours. Residential development will expand greatly in the area, however, bringing more commuters to the terminal, according to Golden Gate Bridge District consultants.

Driver Is Slain By Single Shot In Bridge Fuss

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Gregory T. Dimick, miffed by the insistent honking of the car behind his, stopped on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

"Pull over," he shouted to three men in a yellow car. "We might as well settle it here and now."

A single shot rang out.

"I've been shot," gasped Dimick, slumping into the lap of a girl friend. Blood poured from a head wound.

Another passenger in Dimick's car took the wheel and drove to the Toll Plaza. The 22-year-old motorist died before he arrived at a hospital.

The yellow car crossed the bridge ahead of the Dimick vehicle and has not been traced.

Police said they still don't know what initiated the fatal Monday night incident.

Judge Hands Out Short Jail Terms In Pot Packaging Case

Two persons, arrested last July in a Tamalpais Valley marijuana packaging operation, have been sentenced to short jail terms and a third has pleaded guilty to being in a place where drugs are used.

Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on Monday sentenced Clifford Michael McClure, 25, of 407 Ash Street, to six months in the county jail and five years probation on a reduced felony charge of possessing marijuana.

Linda Ann LaBaum, 23, of the same address, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and one year of probation for possessing amphetamines when agents raided the house.

A third person arrested in the raid, Anthony Bonico Mandracchia, 23, of no known address, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of being in a place where drugs are used and sentencing was set for June 12.

All three were originally charged with possessing marijuana for sale and possessing marijuana plus charges of having various other drugs, but each agreed to plead guilty to lesser charges.

They were arrested July 19 during a raid in which more than 200 pounds of marijuana and two machines for packaging it were seized. Agents said they believed the packing machines were the first ever seized in the United States. The marijuana was broken down into 111 kilo bricks, all packed and wrapped in brown paper.

According to the probation report, McClure traveled to Kansas and Nebraska and harvested a large quantity of wild marijuana in a field.

Judge Gardiner called it a "very careful, deliberate plan to become a large merchandiser of marijuana," but turned down advice of Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith Jr. that McClure be sent to state prison on the selling charge.

Charges against a fourth person arrested in the raid were dismissed last month when a superior court judge ruled his car had been searched illegally.

A Burial Wish Is Carried Out

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A retired chef and his dog were buried together Tuesday. It was the master's wish.

Horace Lee Edwards, 71, had lived alone with his dog for 22 years, since it was a pup. He expressed the wish that when he died the dog be buried with him.

Members of Edwards' family put the mutt to death Monday after Edwards' death following a long illness. It was placed at its master's feet in his coffin.

Five Plead Guilty To Drug Counts

Five persons arrested in 1970 in connection with the sale of 20 kilos of marijuana have pleaded guilty to various drug law violations and three have been sentenced in Marin Superior Court.

Following a negotiated settlement which included the guilty pleas, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced Gerald Keith Smith, 22, of San Anselmo, to six months in jail concurrent with a jail term in Napa and three years probation for felony sale of marijuana.

Virginia Jane Lucas, 27, of San Anselmo, and John Albert Lucas, 28, of Sausalito, each was ordered to pay a $500 fine after pleading guilty to misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Eric De St. Aubin, 36, of no known address, and Peter Lasoff, 25, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty to the felony sale count and sentencing was set for June 12.

The five were arrested after narcotics agents arranged to buy marijuana at a store in Tamalpais Valley, then were led to a home in San Anselmo to complete the transaction.

Giant Sports Show Will Open Tomorrow

Everything in the sports field, — from backpacking to boating and flying to mountain climbing — will be demonstrated or displayed tomorrow through Sunday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building and parking lot.

The Marin Sports Show is the result of two years' planning by Explorer Post 15 of San Anselmo, said Terry C. Halbert, executive director of the show. It will run 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. tomorrow and Friday, and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

On display, Halbert said, will be such things as boats, campers, trailers, backpacking and camping equipment, dune buggies, sports cars and even an airplane.

The plane is a Piper belonging to Marin Aviation at Gnoss Field that will be flown to the auditorium's parking lot by pilot Michael Gates early tomorrow.

State and national park officials will show movies in the auditorium.

Lute Jurstad, one of a party of five that climbed Mount Everest in 1963, will lecture and show movies on the climb tomorrow night in the auditorium.

Not to be outdone, the San Anselmo Ascenders, members of Explorer Post 15, will demonstrate the technique of rock climbing on 60-foot towers in the parking lot. Demonstrations will be held each day.

The Coast Guard will show a movie on boating knowledge on Friday and Saturday, and a special craft called the Windsurf will be demonstrated on the Civic Center lagoon each day. The craft is a sail-outfitted surfboard.

The Foley and Burke carnival also will be on hand at the show.

Cost of the show to the post has been $10,000, raised by the troop itself with a portion donated by Halbert's father, Clayton. The Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America guaranteed to back the group, but the support has not been needed, Halbert said.

The post also has collected money from the exhibitors and the carnival, he said, and there will be a gate charge for persons over 12, he said.

Ruffing As Declarer Often A Mistake By Bridge Beginner

One of the common mistakes of the beginner is that he goes out of his way to ruff when he is declarer. In this situation there is seldom an advantage in ruffing with your own trumps. You may gain by ruffing with dummy's trumps, but you expect your own trumps to be good in any case; and you prefer to keep them as long as you can in order to keep control of the play. There are, however, exceptions to this rule.

POSSIBLE TRUMPS

West opened the jack of diamonds, and South counted losers: one spade, one diamond and possibly two trumps.

There would be no escape from these losers if declarer drew trumps in the normal way. South planned, instead, to make tricks with all of his small trumps by ruffing.

BEGINS AT ONCE

Declarer began his plan at once by taking the ace of diamonds, leading a club to the ace and ruffing a club. Then he led the king of hearts to drive out East's ace.

East returned a diamond to dummy's king, and declarer ruffed another low club. Now South drew two rounds of trumps with the queen and jack. If the trumps happened to break 3-3, there would be no further problem.

As it happened, the trumps broke 4-2. This meant that declarer was sure to lose two trump tricks.

CASHED ACE

South's preliminary work now stood him in good stead. He cashed the ace and king of spades and led dummy's last club.

East couldn't gain by ruffing, for then South would discard his losing spade. Therefore, when East discarded, South ruffed with his last trump. This gave declarer his tenth trick.

LOST IN SHUFFLE

East won the last two tricks with a top spade and the last trump, and West's good diamond was lost in the shuffle. In effect, the defenders won the diamond trick twice — once with West's queen of diamonds and the second time with East's high trump. It still counted as one trick.

You hold:

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts.

You have 13 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. This is ample for the double raise in partner's suit.

Consumers Move Stronger Car-Repair Bill

By ROBERT HEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — You, the American consumer, have just rescued a major consumer bill from oblivion.

As a result of your letters to members of Congress, there'll probably be a new law this year that will require automakers to build sturdier cars. Collectively you consumers stand to save $1 billion a year in auto repairs.

Three weeks ago a key House committee caved in to pressure from automakers and killed a weak auto-repair bill. Nearly everybody in Washington thought the issue was dead as the proverbial doornail.

Then you consumers picked up ballpoint pens and wrote your congressmen. You didn't like the fragility of today's cars and said so. Committee members of the House committee looked toward the November election, decided they wanted your votes, and felt very uneasy.

The committee voted again April 18 on the auto-repair issue. In a highly unusual move it approved a stronger auto-repair bill than it had killed two weeks earlier.

You consumers caused the turnaround — those of you who wrote and those who stood behind the writers. Congressmen knew where you stand.

Sources close to the committee think opponents of the bill probably could have mustered the votes to defeat it — if they had dared. "They had the votes, if they had used them," says one source.

But they decided "they'd rather give consumers a bill than an election-year issue," he says. And they did.

Prospects now are for House passage of the bill before long. Since the Senate already has passed a similar and wider-ranging bill, there then would be a Senate-House conference to iron out differences.

The House Bill would require the secretary of transportation to set standards for front and rear bumpers which automakers would have to meet. The standards would have to require that cars could survive low-speed crashes front and rear with greatly reduced damage. How much damage is left to the transportation secretary's discretion.

It also would be up to him to determine the speed of the crashes that the cars must survive; from legislative history it is expected to be 5 mph, no less.

The bill is similar to present law, which soon will require that cars be able to survive low-speed front and rear crashes without damage to safety-related equipment such as lights and tires. But tests have shown that hundreds of dollars of sheetmetal damage can be done in collision without damage to this equipment. Thus the need for this new bill, proponents argued.

While consumers take a well-deserved bow for their letters, they had plenty of help on this issue.

Consumer sources on the House committee credit scathing newspaper stories and editorials with having helped pressure members of Congress — and, of course, with having alerted consumers.

Organized consumer groups stepped up pressure on committee members; so did labor groups. "The insurance lobby went into high gear on this," in the words of one source.

Last there was what could be called persuading from proponents of the measure in the house, led by Reps. John E. Moss, D-Calif., Bob Eckhard, D-Tex., and Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va. The first two are long-time consumer champions who are members of the subcommittee that dealt with the bill. Staggers is chairman of the parent Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

By exerting a little persuasion and pressure, they got one of the seven sub-committee members to reverse his stand and support the bumper bill. That gave them a 4 to 3 advantage, instead of the frequent 4 to 3 disadvantage — and the bill was on its way.

Key Feature Of Welfare Act Is Hit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly voted overwhelming approval yesterday to legislation repealing a requirement that adult children pay increased support to their welfare parents, a key feature of the new Welfare Reform Act.

After an intense floor debate, the repealer by Assemblyman Joe Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, went to the Senate on a 58-11 vote. It would become effective immediately upon the signature of Gov. Ronald Reagan, who opposes the measure.

The welfare reform contained as a key feature a provision requiring adult children to make increased contributions for the support of the parents receiving aid to the elderly.

CALLED 'CRUEL'

The provision was denounced as "cruel" by the 3rd District Court of Appeal recently but upheld as constitutional.

Gonsalves' legislation would restore the support levels that an adult child was required to make prior to enactment last year of the welfare reform.

Gonsalves said those hit hardest by the increased "relative responsibility section" were those who pay the brunt of welfare costs.

"I submit this is double taxation and then some," he said. "This is a burden to a young family that is struggling to get along and put their children through school."

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, another opponent, called it a "surtax."

"This legislature can find more equitable revenue measures than placing a surtax on the backs of children of poor parents."

A 'MARRIAGE'

But Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, one of the negotiators of the reform, argued the new law was a "marriage" that should be given more time to work.

"I think the taxpayers are certainly happy with this marriage," he said. "We haven't seen people ripped off the rolls."

Under the current law, a family of four with a net monthly income of $1,051 is required to make a monthly contribution for support of a welfare parent of $130. Under the Gonsalves legislation, the family would pay $15 a month as it did prior to the reform.

Another supporter of the bill, Assemblyman William Ketchum, R-Paso Robles, warned that under relative responsibility regulations adopted by the Reagan administration some families are being required to "participate beyond their ability to the point where we are going to put them on welfare too."

No. 631 Apr. 26, 28, May 3, 1972

ORDINANCE NO. 1892
AN ORDINANCE OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN AMENDING CHAPTER 22.77 OF THE MARIN COUNTY CODE BY CHANGING THE JURISDICTIONAL LIMITS AND MAKING CERTAIN TEXT CHANGES.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION I: Section 22.77.010 is amended to read as follows:

22.77.010 Applicability and Exceptions. This Chapter shall apply to all tidelands, shorelines, waterways, beaches or salt marshes within the unincorporated area of Marin County which are below an elevation of 7.5 feet Mean Lower Low Water Datum and to contiguous land between that elevation line, and, either, a point 100 feet inland or the nearest publicly maintained road, whichever is closer. The following items shall not be subject to this Chapter:

1. Any structure, fill or excavation which is not within and which does not encroach on the tidelands and waterways as defined herein.

2. Any emergency work necessary to prevent or to minimize imminent damage to land or improvements from flood waters. Such emergency work shall be reported on the next normal working day and confirmed in writing within 10 days after the start of such work to the Department of Public Works.

3. Any maintenance work to buildings or structures which existed prior to the effective date of this Chapter or were approved under the provisions of this Chapter.

4. Any structure, fill or excavation which the Environmental Protection Committee finds to be minor or incidental.

5. Any structure, fill or excavation which has been approved as part of any application, action or permit by the Planning Commission, the Planning Director or Zoning Administrator except that such structure, fill or excavation shall not be deemed to have been approved by a building permit. Where a development is subject to other provisions of Title 21 and Title 22 of the Marin County Code approval of any fill, excavation, or structure within the scope of this Chapter, which is contained in the development, shall be subject to the findings of Section 22.77.040.4 of this Chapter.

6. Any structure, fill or excavation which is behind secure dikes, which existed prior to the effective date of this Chapter and which is normally not subject to tidal action by virtue of the dike, or which is only temporarily under tidal action due to defective tide gates.

7. Applicability of this chapter shall be limited in creeks, estuaries and rivers to areas downstream from certain defined points, as follows:

a. Coyote Creek: State Highway #1 Bridge. (Ord. 1834; July 13, 1971)

b. Corte Madera Creek: Downstream end of concrete channel.

SECTION II: Section 22.77.020 is hereby amended to read as follows:

22.77.020 Purposes. Marin County tidelands, shorelines, waterways, beaches, or salt marshes are vital natural resources which can provide great benefits to present and future human generations. They offer scenic views, open space, recreational activities such as fishing, swimming, boating, walking, wildlife habitats, opportunities for water transportation and sites for homes and for water-oriented resorts and industries. They fulfill an indispensable role in preserving the climate and air purity of the County.

These benefits could be destroyed or seriously diminished by uncontrolled filling, excavation or construction. Therefore, it is the purpose of this Chapter to encourage the fullest enjoyment of these potential benefits with a minimum of physical disturbance and to set forth the standards and procedures by which filling, excavation and construction in tideland areas will be controlled. (Ord. 1761; May 12, 1970)

SECTION III: Section 22.77.040 is amended by repeal of subparagraph 3 of paragraph d of subsection 4 thereof.

SECTION IV: Section 22.77.040 is amended by adding Section (4) (e) to read as follows:

e. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not adversely effect any existing public rights on the property.

SECTION V: Section 22.77.040 is hereby amended to read as follows:

22.77.040 Procedure.

1. Filing and Content of Application for a Tidelands Permit.

Application for fill, excavation or structures within tidelands as defined in Section 22.77.010 shall be made to the Department of Public Works in the form of a tidelands permit. The application shall include information showing existing and proposed grades, extent and amount of proposed fill or excavation, location of all existing and proposed structures, a tentative plan for the future development of the area, and sufficient detail to allow a determination of the impact of the proposal on the navigability, appearance and safety of the waterways.

2. Action by Environmental Protection Committee.

If the application includes only a structure and/or if the proposed fill or excavation covers less than one acre, the Environmental Protection Committee consisting of the Director of Public Works, the Director of Parks and Recreation and the Planning Director, shall approve, conditionally approve or deny the application within 30 days after the filing date of the application, unless a later date is agreed to by the applicant. The Environmental Protection Committee shall consider, in arriving at its decision applicable regional and state plans for tidal waterways and the criteria, standards, and policies developed by agencies administering such regional and state plans. Failure of the Environmental Protection Committee to act within the prescribed time shall constitute approval of the application.

3. Action by Planning Commission.

If the proposed fill or excavation covers one acre or more, the Environmental Protection Committee shall report to the Planning Commission its recommendations.

The Planning Commission shall approve, conditionally approve or deny the application not later than the third regular meeting after the filing date of the application, unless a later date is agreed to by the applicant. The Planning Commission shall consider, in arriving at its decision, applicable regional and state plans for tidal waterways and the criteria, standards, and policies developed by agencies administering such regional and state plans. Failure of the Planning Commission to act within the prescribed time shall constitute approval of the application.

4. Findings.

The Environmental Protection Committee or the Planning Commission shall approve or conditionally approve applications where it is found that:

a. The encroachment of the tidelands is the minimum necessary to achieve the purpose of the proposed work.

b. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not unduly and unnecessarily:

1. Inhibit navigation, or access to publicly owned tidelands.

2. Cause, or increase the likelihood of, water pollution;

3. Cause, or increase the likelihood of flooding of adjoining lands;

4. Destroy, or accelerate the destruction of habitats essential to species of fish, shellfish and other wildlife of substantial public benefit.

5. Diminish the scenic beauty of the shoreline in a manner which will impede future construction of parks, boat harbors and recreation facilities;

6. Create a safety hazard in connection with settlement of fill or earthquakes, or,

7. Diminish natural waterways by siltation, sedimentation or bank erosion.

c. The proposal is in substantial harmony with any adopted County General Plan or Specific Plan.

d. Public benefits will be created to off-set some of the detriments which may be caused by the nature of the proposal. However, this finding is not required:

1. Where the application covers lands wholly above elevation 7.5 feet Mean Lower Low Water Datum, or

2. Where the size or potential uses of the parcel are so limited that creation of a public benefit would be unfeasible and where the amount and effect of fill, excavating or structures are minimal.

These public benefits may be realized, through: development of new recreational opportunities; or provision of new public access to the water; or enhancement of shoreline appearance; or establishment of water transportation; or facilities for land or air transportation where all other alternatives have been exhausted; or construction of water-oriented industry or development of marine food supplies or other benefits considered by the Planning Commission to be of comparable importance.

e. The proposed fill, excavation or construction will not adversely effect any existing public rights on the property.

5. Filing Date.

The filing date shall be deemed the date on which the Department of Public Works receives the last submission required as part of the application unless the Director of Public Works or his authorized representative agree in writing to an earlier filing date.

6. Noticing.

Not later than 3 working days after the filing of an application notice of the application and a brief description of its proposals shall be mailed to the owners of record of abutting properties on the adjoining and opposite shoreline within 1,000 feet of the proposed work, as shown on the latest County tax roll.

7. Expiration and Extension of Tidelands Permits.

A tidelands permit shall expire one year from the effective date of the approval, unless a different expiration date is stipulated at the time of approval. Prior to the expiration of such a permit, the applicant may apply to the Department of Public Works for an extension. The Environmental Protection Committee may make minor modifications of the permit at the time of extension if it finds that there has been a substantial change in the circumstances surrounding the original approval. Extensions may be granted for a period of no more than one year from the time of expiration of the original permit. If a building permit or excavation permit was issued during the effective life of a tidelands permit the expiration date of the tidelands permit shall be automatically extended to concur with the expiration date of the building permit or excavation permit.

SECTION VI: This Ordinance shall take effect and be in full force and effect thirty (30) days after the date of passage and approval and shall be published in the Independent Journal, a newspaper published in the County, at least once before the expiration of fifteen (15) days after its passage, with the names of the supervisors voting for and against the same.

Robert Eugene Pickens has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to felony possession of cocaine and misdemeanor drunken driving.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner then dismissed tow other counts — possessing marijuana and amphetamines — as part of a negotiated settlement worked out in a pretrial conference.

Sentencing was set for June 12.

Pickens was stopped Dec. 20 on Highway 101 in Greenbrae near the Lucky Drive turnoff by a California Highway Patrol officer who said he found two film cannisters of marijuana and a bottle of pills in the driver's pocket.

STRANGER IN TOWN — Liverlips, a visiting bear from Disneyland, gets checked by hand by a youngster evidently unable to believe his eyes. The San Rafael street scene took place yesterday outside the Independent-Journal, a pause in the busy rounds of the unusual creature.

AND A BANJO PLAYER

That Really Was A Bear Walking In San Rafael

By JAY GOODWIN

Ever wonder what it's like to spend your waking hours masquerading as a behemoth, Disneyland bear named Liverlips?

Patrick Cloud, a 21-year-old champion banjo player, is the man to ask. He can usually be found lumbering around children's hospitals, television and radio stations, or department stores stroes dressed in the goofy-looking Liverlips costume promoting Disneyland's newest attraction, Bear Country.

Liverlips — Pat Cloud, that is — caught his breath during a whirlwind tour of Marin County yesterday and agreed to bare the true story of his masquerade.

"To be a good bear," explained Cloud, "it takes a willingness to meet the kids, a propensity for scratching a lot and basically a lot of insanity."

While he's sure he possesses all three prerequisities, Cloud never intended to become a bear. A professional musician — who won the Topanga Canyon Fiddle and Banjo Contest four years in a row — Cloud heard about job openings for musicians at Disneyland.

As he tells it, he went down to Disneyland, played a few tunes and talked with the people in personnel. A few days later, he was called back.

"They gave me the good news first," he recalled. "Like how much they were going to pay me, where I would travel, and things like that. Then came the bad news: I was going to be a bear."

Since then he's traveled all over the country representing Disneyland at a hectic pace.

He's never allowed to take off his cotume in public, because that would "destroy the illusion", so he works up quite a sweat during the day.

"I'm getting in better physical shape, that's for sure," he gasped. "It's like a sauna in here!"

He's dropped 15 pounds since he first donned the Liverlips suit three weeks ago.

None of Disney's live characters are permitted to talk, so Cloud resorts to banjo playing, grunting, dancing, "and a whole lot of scratching" to keep his young audiences smiling.

Apparently, his daytime activities are playing havoc with his off-hours.

"I've been known to make animal sounds late at night," he confided. "I've thought about being Liverlips 24-hours-a-day but I don't wear it to bed because my old lady wouldn't approve."

"What I need is some nightlife," he whispered, as he shifted closer. "Know any nice girl bears?"

Cloud has a bachelor's degree in English from Long Beach State College and is undoubtedly better paid than most of his classmates.

The Disney organization pays him about $400 a week plus $15 a day living expenses and first class travel and hotel rooms.

In his brief tenure as Liverlips, Cloud cited a cocktail party in Omaha, Neb. as his most ridiculous experience.

"Most of the people at that party were so sophisticated they just accepted me as I was," he chuckled. "They didn't even notice I was a bear!"

"Then there was the day I christened a new bear grotto in Albuquerque, New Mexico with a coke bottle. What a trip that was," he said.

The work is great, he said, when he gets to play with young children.

"They really react to this costume, it's so real looking," he explained. "Sometimes the young ones will get scared at first, but when they do, I run away scared and then they always calm down."

The promotional tour for Disneyland's new $8 million "theme" land runs through July. So between now and then, Patrick Cloud will continue to grin and bear it.

EMOTIONLESS

Letters Fail To Stir Angela

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN JOSE — During the weeks that the prosecution has presented more than half its witnesses, Angela Davis has sat impassively in the courtroom, usually wrapped up in one of her innumerable wool shawls.

She seems content to leave her defense, a combination of very clever trial work by her chief attorney, and a noisy effort to politicize her case, to others.

She attracts little attention these days from the press, as she strides to and from the heavily guarded courtroom. Except for an occasional television camerman, the press leaves her alone, probably mainly because reporters know she will not comment on the case because of the gag rule.

If she has emotions as the case against her unfolds, she does not show them.

Yesterday, the reading by prosecutor Albert W. Harris Jr. of her personal letters to convict George Jackson, the man whom the state claims she loved enough to plot to free him, brought no visible response from her.

Instead, it was an old, workworn black woman, who entered the courtroom blinking and unsure of what path to take to the witness stand, who brought a very human response from the usually cool Miss Davis.

Otelia Young who had been a neighbor of Miss Davis's in Los Angeles in 1970, had little to offer when she took the witness stand.

"Yes, I seen her," she responded to a question from Harris, and "I have talked to her," she added. Sometime, but "not too much," Miss Davis was accompanied by a young man, Mrs. Young said.

She didn't know who the "real tall, bright-haired" youth was, she said, until she saw his picture on television after the August 1970 Civic Center shootout and realized he was Jonathan Jackson, brother of George Jackson, who instigated and died in the shoot-out.

After her brief testimony, Mrs. Young, who said she works from 7 a.m. until 8:30 p.m., began her walk out of the courtroom. Midway, however, she stopped, recognized Miss Davis, as she sat behind her lawyers, and ducking her head, gave a friendly wave and said, "Hi."

Miss Davis looked surprised but she responded with a smile and a neighborly "Hi."

Outside the court, Mrs. Young told a deputy sheriff, "I didn't know who she was. I thought she was just any other black woman," during the summer they were neighbors. "Then all those investigators started coming," she said.

After the bridf warm interlude with Mrs. Young, which brought smiles to the faces of jurors and newsmen as well as Miss Davis's attorneys, the rest of the day was taken up with testimony from employees of a surplus store in Los Angeles, where Miss Davis is said to have purchased several boxes of ammunition during the months before the shoot-out.

Outside the courtroom, Miss Davis's supporters continued their attack on the case, calling it a political effort to destroy her because she is a Communist and a racist effort because she is black.

Yesterday, the subject was the letters which Harris had read into evidence. Unmentioned by representatives of the National United Committee To Free Angela Davis was another document, 18 pages variously called a diary or a letter, which was found in George Jackson's cell after he died in an escape attempt last August at San Quentin.

Judge Richard E. Arnason ruled yesterday that this document, unless the irrelevant material can be edited out in a manner that won't leave a lot of statements out of context, cannot be used as evidence.

Prosecutor Harris had apparently been counting heavily on the document, said to contain very explicit descriptions of Miss Davis's feelings for Jackson.

The committee members, however, in one of their customary noontime press conferences, dwelt on the three letters which had been read in court.

First, in a statement read by Communists Charlene Mitchell and Bettina Aptheker Kurzweil, the committee called Harris a "peeping Tom" who had pried into Miss Davis' private life.

"These letters were meant for the eyes of George Jackson alone," the statement said.

The committee called the letters, which were a mixture of revolutionary rhetoric along with expressions of love for Jackson by Miss Davis, "frankly political in nature."

"The fact that Harris has resorted to the exposure of these documents. . . affords us a singular conclusion: the state has never had a theory about Aug. 7. What it has had is a simple goal: get Angela Davis!" the committee concluded.

Meanwhile, the jury of seven women and five men, made up of more young people than commonly seen on juries and for the most part, casually dressed, continues to listen to evidence with daily admonitions from the judge not to read or listen to news reports of the trial.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Patient Can Get New Doctor But Doctor's Stuck With Him

Many people do not like certain physicians and vice versa. A personality clash may be responsible or perhaps the doctor-patient relationship has suffered from unhappy social, business, or medical experiences. Fortunately, each of us has a choice and he can change doctors if necessary. But the physician who is supposed to love all mankind does not have this privilege, especially when he is consulted by a person with longstanding emotional disturbances that never kill nor do they improve.

A CHICAGO psychiatrist refers to one type as the "poor me" patient. This is the man or woman who has been sick for months or years with multiple fleeting symptoms that cannot possibly be related to any one organ. Name a medical complaint and he has had it. Such problems have led to continual invalidism requiring much care from family and friends. According to Dr. John Cowen, the distress prevents the victim from doing what he ought to do, but not from doing what he likes to do. Headaches from eyestrain interfere with his work, but this doesn't stop him from spending hours in front of the boob ube.

THESE PEOPLE enjoy poor health and thrive on family and friends who feel sorry for them. After all, some consider it a miracle that they have been able to survive so much misfortune. These men and women are passive, overdependent and submissive and are helped slightly with placebos, palliatives, encouragement, and vitamins.

A more difficult and unpleasant patient is the individual with chronic disabilities who spends years proving that no one is skillful enough to cure him. His days are spent going from physician to physician or from clinic to clinic with a "sickness" that he claims to be too severe and mysterious for anyone to cure.

THESE PEOPLE do not plead for help, they challenge the doctor to try and see if he can. Their family catches on and leaves them to their own devices; the same takes place when they stay with relatives, friends, and acqaintances. They also are loaded with bizarre complaints that are incapacitating. Psychiatric cae may or may not help. What a way to spend a lifetime!

SIX WEEK RASH

P.T. writes: The physicians said my pitryriasis rosea will last four to six weeks and nothing will hasten recovery. Is this true?

REPLY

Yes. If itching is annoying, a soothing lotion may be used or drying of the lesions may be hastened with a sulfursalicylic acid ointment. In rare cases, with marked inflammation, cortisone for a few days may be effective.

ENLARGED SKULL

L.B. writes: Does Paget's disease of the bone cause the head to get bigger?

REPLY

Yes, in many instances the first sign is that the person needs a larger hat. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease, also known as osteitis deformans.

MOONFACED

T.C. writes: What can be done for a round face due to taking cortisone?

REPLY

Stop the hormone and the swelling will disappear. Meanwhile, send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on corticosteriods.

Lottery Plan Is Given Strong Assembly Setback

By DAVID JENSEN.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly yesterday defeated legislation paving the way for legalization of a state-run lottery which supporters said could produce $189.9 million in revenue annually.

Opponents argued that it was "a poor man's tax" because the least affluent contribute the most to lotteries.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-Los Angeles, was rejected 41-24. It needs 4 votes. Ralph kept the proposal alive by asking to have the vote reconsidered.

The measure, which would be submitted to voters, would allow the legislature to establish a lottery. The proceeds would go for education and other state functions.

Ralph declared there was "no justifiable or sound reason to turn down a proposal of this nature." He said the state needed additional sources of revenue.

He said poor persons are not the ones who participate the most often in lotteries. He stated that a survey of purchasers of lottery tickets in New Jersey showed that 70 per cent made $7,000 or more annually.

Assemblyman Robert C. Cline, R-Canoga Park, said a lottery would be a "voluntary tax" and would also have the added benefit of creating a "few millionaires at a cost of 50 cents a ticket."

But Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, warned that approving the amendment would lead to legalization of all gambling in California.

Citing Assembly passage of a proposal clearing the way for legalization of bingo, Biddle said the lottery measure was the second step. He declared that legalizing off-track horse race betting would be the third step.

The Republican lawmaker also contended that a lottery would put California in competition with illegal gambling run by organized crime.

Assemblyman Charles Conrad, R-Sherman Oaks, said that from his personal eerience it is the "least affluent, the least fortunate ... who contribute the most money to this type of operation."

He also warned that the cost of operating the lottery could be excessive, saying, "It's going to give the taxpayer an awfully bad break."

But Ralph said the cost of running the New Jersey lottery was 9 per cent of its gross revenues and the figure was expected to decline to 5 per cent.

Algae Treatment Model Is Hailed By Engineer

If a new method of sewage treatment now being installed at the Tiburon Sanitary District plant works as well as expected, according to its manager, the district might not benefit from joining Improvement District A, the organization formed to study ways to improve sewage treatment in Southern Marin.

John B. McFarlane, retiring plant manager, made the statement at a Monday night meeting of the Belveere City Council.

He told the Independent-Journal later that other engineers may well disagree with him, but he believes that a full-scale algae treatment system will perform as well as its pilot model, and consequently, "it's not beyond the realm of possibility" that joining the district would be unnecessary. Further data is needed, he said.

"The pilot model is working quite well," McFarlane said. "The results are fantastic." There will probably be troubles with the full-scale model, but he said he is confident that engineers of biokinetics, the San Rafael firm which developed the process, can solve them.

At the Belvedere council meeting, City Mgr. William L. Cavalli said the council named Donald Davis, already the city's representative to the sanitary district, to represent Belvedere in any discussion with Improvement District A.

Extension Of Annex Ban Urged

The Strawberry Area Community Council has asked the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission for an extension of a six-month moratorium on annexation so that plans for incorporation may be studied in more detail.

The ban on annexation of pieces of Strawberry by surrounding cities was granted in February, according to council cochairman Trudy de la Fontaine, and the council wants an additional six months.

She said council members were considering four possibilities: remaining an unincorporated area in the county, forming a city, annexing to Tiburon or annexing to Mill Valley.

Data lacking, she said, included next year's projected budgets for the two neighboring cities.

She said architect J. Martin Rosse, who lives in Strawberry, is preparing a master plan for the area, and copies of it will be mailed to residents of Strawberry, then volunteers will go door-to-door asking opinions of the plan.

The council will meet May 8 at 8 p.m. in the Strawberry Recreation Center to continue the planning, she said.

Marriage Ended In Marin Court

The marriage of Stephen M. Barker of Belvedere and his wife, Nancy, former head of the Marin Chapter of the Women's Division of the Jewish Welfare Federation of San Francisco, Marin and the San Francisco Peninsula, has been dissolved in Marin Superior Court.

Mrs. Barker received custody of the couples' two children, Lori, 10, and Jonathan, 7, plus support of $700 a month for herself and the children.

Barker is vice president of Monogram Co. of California.

The couple was married May 22, 1960, but separated last July. The marriage was dissolved on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

The family residence is at 5 Golden Gate Avenue.

The new song girl team will be Becky Benson, Teri Ford, Sharon Johnson, Debbie Aguila, Teresa Yang, Nancy Kinney, Karyn Stone and Bonnie Benson.

The yell leaders and song girls are elected only for the forthcoming football season, according to Micki Gallagher of the school staff.

Student body and class officers will be elected next month, Mrs. Gallagher said. For the three student body offices — president, vice president and secretary-treasurer — signups will be the week of May 1, campaigns will be conducted the week of May 8, and election will be May 12.

Belvedere Homeowners Zoning Plan Rejected

The Belvedere Planning Commission has turned down a group of homeowners on block-long Acacia Avenue who sought to have a parcel of land now zoned to permit apartments changed to single family residential.

The group of about 10 persons appeared before the commission at its Monday night meeting, according to Secretary William H. Rafter, and argued that an apartment would be inappropriate to the area, but commissioners said they believed the land had been properly zoned in 1957 and refused to change it.

Rafter said they did, however, agree to look into what the residents said would be difficulties in parking and traffic movement if a road connecting the proposed apartments with Acacia Avenue were built.

The land is owned by the Belvedere Land Co., and its president, David Allen, has said no apartment is contemplated for some time on the site.

Rafter said commissioners also discussed height limitations for building in the Belvedere Cove, but were unable to decide what standards to use, and continued the discussion until Monday night at 8 p.m. in city hall

Nixon To Dine

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House has confirmed that President Nixon will go to Treasury Secretary John B. Connally's ranch at Floresville, Tex., this weekend for a dinner party.

A spokesman said Nixon would attend the dinner Sunday night and then spend the night at the ranch near San Antonio.

Girl's Body Is Identified

The body of a young girl found dead in a shallow creekbed south of Stinson Beach Saturday has been identified as Carolyn Mayfield, 17, of San Francisco.

Inspector Gus M. Coreris of the San Francisco police department's homicide bureau said the high school junior was identified by her mother, who read a description of her in the newspapers.

Coreris said police still have no idea how the girl died or how she was transported to the overgrown bottom of Lone Tree Creek, but police are checking out some leads.

She was last seen alive Wednesday night when she went out for an evening with friends. On Saturday morning a hiker found her fully clothed body in the gully two miles south of Stinson Beach.

The Music Stops

Larkspur police reported today a tape player, tapes and radio valued at $290 were taken from the auto of Michael Harrington, 130 Mono Lane, Fairfax, while the car was parked at Greenbrae Lanes, 101 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, from 10 to 11:30 p.m. Monday.

Supermarket Is Threatened

Corte Madera police received a telephoned bomb threat yesterday afternoon against the Corte Madera Co-op supermarket on Tamal Vista Boulevard, but no bomb was found after a search.

Police said a young male caller threatened at 2:04 p.m. a bomb would explode in five minutes at the store. Police contacted the store manager, cleared the building and searched it.

After waiting 20 minutes beyond the deadline they allowed shoppers to reenter.

Guilty Plea To Auto Theft Count

Gary Clyde Kruger, 20, of no known address, has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of stealing a car in San Anselmo and driving it to Orange County.

The plea before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was part of a negotiated arrangement under which Kruger will be sentenced to no more than six months in jail. Sentencing was set for May 30.

Kruger was stopped Feb. 9 by Anaheim police who noticed two bald tires and a cracked windshield on the car Kruger was driving.

Police said Kruger and a girl hitchhiker tried to flee on foot, but were captured.

The girl was released, but Kruger was sent to Marin when a check revealed the car had been stolen in San Anselmo.

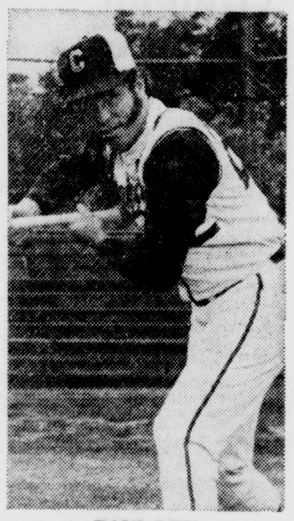
SPORT NOTES

Paul Lee Starring In College Baseball

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Word comes from University of California, Santa Barbara, that Paul Lee of Terra Linda is having a fine season for the Gauchos' baseball team.

Lee, a former all-around star at Terra Linda High, is now playing his senior year at UCSB and is among the team's batting leaders. The outfielder was hitting .333 after the team's first 28 games. In league play (Pacific Coast Athletic Association) Lee was at .500, on top of the loop, as the Gauchos won eight of their first nine PCAA games.



PAUL LEE

Paul appears headed in his big brother's footsteps to the big time. I'm talking about Bill, southpaw reliever for the Boston Red Sox.

IN OTHER BITS of baseball news:

Second baseman Dave Edson of Terra Linda is batting .250 after his first 128 at bats for Stanford, 32 hits, one home run, 21 runs batted in and five stolen bases. Freshman Steve Pond of Novato is batting .286 as a reserve first baseman at San Jose State. Out of action at College of Marin is baseballer John Kidder of Novato who underwent knee surgery recently.

YOUNGSTERS FROM Corte Madera will be stars of the show May 6 and 13 in the first of a 26-week series of athletic competition being put on by KRON-TV, Channel 4, entitled, "Junior Cpampions," about boys in Police Activities Leagues throughout the S.F. Bay Area.

The sports series is designed to follow the NBC baseball game of the week each Saturday, starting at 2 p.m. The show will be co-hosted by Channel 4's Bob Marsden and a special guest star representing Bay Area sports. Ken Stabler, Raider reserve quarterback, is featured on the first program. The youngsters, all under 15, compete in football throwing for accuracy, basketball shooting and high jumping. Winners of each weekly program will compete later in the series for grand prizes.

IT'S CALLED "Lunch With Charlie Fox and the San Francisco Giants," and is scheduled for Friday noon at the St. Francis Hotel. The cost is $7.50 a head and is being co-sponsored by the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and KSFO. Emcees for the program, open to the public, will be Jim Lange and Lon Simmons of KSFO and Lou Spadia, president of the S.F. 49ers and a member of the chamber's board of directors. In addition to Fox, the Giants' manager, some of the players will be scattered around to lend to the atmosphere.

THE TAM BOOSTERS are hoping for a good crowd at Saturday's 8 p.m. game between Tamalpais and Drake high schools at Albert Park, San Rafael. The profits from the concession stands operated by the Tam boosters will allow the Club to buy more equipment for the school's athletic program. Boys baseball, basketball and track-field, along with girls physical education program have already been helped along with money the Tam Boosters made at a Christmas tree sale last December.

Carlton Very Happy With Candlestick

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Steve Carlton, for one, enjoys the remodeling job done at Candlestick Park.

The stylish lefthander of the Philadelphia Phillies shut out the San Francisco Giants 3-0 on only one hit Tuesday night for his third straight victory. Chris Speier, the Giants first batter of the game, singled to center before Carlton slammed the door in the face of the Giants.

"This was a perfect night in which to pitch," said the 27-year-old southpaw who came to the Phils from the St. Louis Cardinals in a trade for Rick Wise in February.

"Usually it's too windy out here in Candlestick and I was 0-5 pitching in this park. But now the completed stands have cut down the wind considerably and the weather was just cool enough to help me."

Carlton, mixing a hopping fastball with his curve and cutting every corner of the plate, fanned 14 Giants to tie a Philly record for strikeouts by a left-handed pitcher. He walked only batter, Chris Arnold in the sixth inning, while extending his string of scoreless innings to 18.

He shares the major league record of 19 strikeouts in a game against the New York Mets.

"I wasn't as overpowering as I was when I fanned 19 of those Mets," said last year's 20-game winner with the Cardinals. "But I had good location tonight and my control was excellent. I worked real easy and was able to concentrate better without that wind whirling around me."

Catcher Tim McCarver of the Phils and Giants manager Charlie Fox agreed that Carlton hurled a masterpiece.

"I never saw control that good to a righthanded hitter," said McCarver. "He always kept the ball inside to those hitters and it would be hard for him to pitch much better. That ball Speier hit was a fastball."

Loser was Juan Marichal, now 1-2, who allowed the Phillies only one run and two hits through seven innings.

Prior to Tuesday night's game, the Giants recalled outfielder Garry Maddox from Phoenix of the AAA Pacific Coast League where he was hitting .438 with nine home runs and 22 runs batted in over 11 games.

Fox started Maddox in centerfield against Carlton and Maddox fanned twice and flied out to center.

"I was just overanxious," said Maddox about his big league debut. "He threw me everything. He was feeling me out and I was trying to do the same to him.

"No doubt about it, Carlton's a fine pitcher. But I'll be seeing him again."

Fox said he plans to keep Maddox in the lineup.

"Sure, I'll leave him in there for a while and give him a chance," said Fox. "Remember, he faced a pretty good pitcher tonight."

12-Inning Victory For A's

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Oakland A's have taken their first road test of the young season and have passed muster — though it took them 12 innings.

For a while Tuesday night in Yankee Stadium, the A's looked as cold as the New York weather but finally pulled out a 4-3 victory over the Yankees in the 12th frame on a run-scoring double by pinchhitter Mike Hegan.

The win gave Oakland a 5-2 record and kept them 1-2 game in front of Minnesota in the American League West.

The Yankees got things rolling immediately in the first ining on Bobby Murcer's two-out homer off Catfish Hunter. New York added two more in the fourth when Johnny Callison's long sacrifice scored Murcer and Roy White came home on a single by Rich McKinney.

Gene Tenace narrowed the gap in the fifth with his first homer of the year, then in the sixth, Sal Bando tied it up with a two-run, two-out triple.

That was all the scoring for the next six innings until Hegan, sent into bat for winning pitcher Rollie Fingers, delivered a line drive double to right center that scored Bobby Brooks.

Fingers, who came in the eighth to relieve Hunter, allowed only two hits in 3 1-3 innings to record his first victory of the season.

Tonight, Denny McLain, the major leagues losingest pitcher last year, will try for his second victory with his new team, the A's, facing Mike Kekich, who is also 1-0.

TAKE THAT — Dan Tierney, No. 1 singles player for Redwood High School, hit this forehand smash yesterday while defeating Greg Kalemba of Drake, 6-1, 6-3.

A HUMMING TENNIS MACHINE

Redwood Blanks Drake

One star, plus one unified team effort, added up to a one-point victory yesterday for the Terra Linda High School swimming team, as the Trojans defeated previously unbeaten Redwood, 48-47, in the loser's pool.

Terra Linda's triumph avenged an earlier defeat, 52-43, at the Giants' hands. The two aquatic juggernauts, now finished with Marin County Athletic League dual meets, share the loop pennant with 9-1 won-lost marks.

In the other MCAL meet yesterday, San Rafael blasted Tamalpais, 66-29, cinching third place in the league.

Rick DeMont was predictably the individual star for Terra Linda, winning the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races in league-best times for 1972.

Terra Linda coach Bob Pollitt, while not de-emphasizing DeMont's swift showing, said, "When you win a meet by only one point — a point, now, is only a single third-place finish — you know the win must be a team effort."

The Trojans served notice from the start that they were to be contended with, winning the opening 200 medley relay event in 1:44.1, a half-second quicker than Redwood's quartet.

After DeMont's two sprint free wins (22.6 and 48.8) Terra Linda had run up a 38-24 lead over the Giants.

Following this, however, Redwood peeled off four straight first places, only to fall a point short in the bid for undisputed possession of first place in the county.

Spencer Eldred and Paul Cane each tallied double wins for Redwood, Eldred in the 200 and 400 free, and Cane in the 100 butterfly and 100 breaststroke. Eldred, only a sophomore, went 1:51.8 and 4:01.0 for his distance races, while Cane sprinted to a 1:03.0 in his breast specialty. DeMont and Cane concluded the year undefeated in individual races.

These three Redwood times, with DeMont's pair of clockings, comprise the five MCAL individual bests established in the season-ending meet yesterday.

Terra Linda's opening relay set a new league best, as did

TROJANS' ONE-POINT VICTORY

Terra Linda, Redwood Tie For Swim Title

By LEW CODDINGTON

It was probably an illusion, but for one lingering instant it seemed quite real. In the quiet valley by San Domenico High School, down by the tennis courts, above the occasional thwock of well-aimed serve, you could almost hear the humming of a machine.

Quietly efficient, and in no way out of keeping with the peaceful surroundings, the Redwood High School tennis machine systematically disassembled Drake High yesterday afternoon in a meeting of the Marin County Athletic League's unbeaten teams.

The score was 7-0 if you count matches, 14-0 if you count sets, 84-12 if you count games. Drake is good, and may not lose to anybody else the rest of the year. But the Pirates were, quite literally, out of their league.

"They are all club players," said Redwood coach Stan Buchanan about his team. "They've all played in tournaments, and many of them are ranked in their age groups. I wouldn't do a thing to change their styles."

The tall, quiet Buchanan spends most of the time marveling at his players' strokes, distributing the traditional victory oranges after the match, and offering well-taken psychological advice.

"The coach really helped my attitude," said Redwood's No. 1 player, Dan Tierney, who was defeated last Thursday by Dave Bacon of San Rafael. It remains the only individual match Redwood has lost in 35.

"He told me it is better to want to win instead of just not wanting to lose." Players riding long winning streaks sometimes get over-cautious and defensive. Tierney showed no symptoms of that yesterday as he handcuffed Greg Kalemba, 6-1, 6-3.

Tierney's biggest problem may be fending off Gary Walter, a lefthander with a wicked serve who clawed his way up to No. 2 singles, and in a recent challenge match nearly dethroned Tierney, losing 7-6 in the third set.

Walter was fearsome yesterday as he bombarded Gary Giesen, 6-0, 6-0. "You could hear his serve crackle," said Steve De Martini, Redwood's No. 4 player, who handily defeated Steve Harnsberger in his own match, 6-1, 6-0. Hum.

The only break in the machine-like functioning was provided by No. 3 Henry Jacobson,

L.A. Picked Over Knicks In Playoffs

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers and the New York Knicks, who have only one National Basketball Association championship between them, open a best-of-seven game series tonight to decide who will succeed the Milwaukee Bucks as the best club in the NBA.

The Knicks beat the Lakers in seven games two years ago, for their first league title. They will be making their fifth appearance in the finals.

Los Angeles is in the finals for the eighth time, bowing to the Boston Celtics on six occasions before losing in 1970 to New York.

The Lakers are solid favorites to become the third different team to win the NBA championship in three years since the retirement of Bill Russell from the Celtics.

They eliminated Milwaukee and Kareem Jabbar four games to two in the Western Conference finals, and beat the Knicks four times in five tries during the regular season when they set a league record at 69-13. The mark included a record 33 straight victories.

Bruins, Rangers Rest 'Til Sunday

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The Boston Bruins would have been embarrassed if they had not swept the St. Louis Blues out of the Stanley Cup Playoffs in four games.

The Bruins' opponent in the Cup final, the New York Rangers, swept the Chicago Black Hawks in four games, and the Blues finished 30 points behind the Black Hawks during the regular season.

The fourth game of the Boston-St. Louis series Tuesday night was the closest game of the series after Boston victories by scores of 6-1, 10-2 and 7-2 in the first three games. The fourth game ended 5-3 after the Blues pulled goalie Jacques Caron with a chance to tie and Wayne Cashman scored an open net goal.

Boston Coach Tom Johnson was glad his players got a slight scare at the end of the game because "now they realize how much tougher the next series will be."

"I don't know what to expect from the Rangers," Johnson said. "We know they've been playing well and that's all we know."

The New York-Boston series starts in Boston Sunday, two or three days later than expected because of a commitment to television to have at least two games of the final series on Sunday afternoon.

Hunt, Tennis Group Call Off Long Feud

LONDON (UPI)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF) and Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis (WCT) today called off their feud over professional participation in open tennis tournaments.

"The game's now truly open and WCT's goals are intact," Hunt told a news conference.

But he said his contract pros would still not play at Wimbledon this year because of other commitments.

Federation president Allan Heyman said that as WCT's existing player contracts expire, the distinction between contract professionals and independent pros will disappear.

Hunt's American-based WCT has 32 players under contract, including current Wimbledon Champion John Newcombe and former champions Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia.

Mellow Fellows Win

Rick Johnson hit a bases-loaded double to spark a six-run fifth inning and power the Mellow Fellows to an 11-7 victory over Chuck Hiller Men's Wear in San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball game last night at Albert Park. Rich Ranier hit two triples to lead the Squid over Venders, 9-5.

Marin Catholic Wins Shutout

Don Bianchini pitched a two-hitter and was the beneficiary of an 11-hit attack as Marin Catholic High School defeated San Marin yesterday, 4-0, in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at San Marin.

A line single by Mickey Simmons in the second inning scored Steve Sherry with the only run Bianchini was to require, and he went on to strike out seven, walking three.

Pete Arbios hit a bases-loaded single to right and Sherry subsequently hit a two-run single up the middle as the Wildcats added three more runs in the fourth frame.

Marin Catholic stranded 10 baserunners and had three more cut down at the plate.

San Rafael Whips Tamalpais, 10-0

John Klingler pitched a three-hit shutout and was vigorously supported with a 10-run assault as San Rafael High School trampled winless Tamalpais yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Tam, 10-0.

San Rafael spurted on top in the first inning on a run-scoring double by Dirk Gansloser, and pulled away with three more in the second when Bruce Howard tripled with the bases loaded.

The Bulldogs dded four more in the fifth, two scoring on an error by the shortstop and one each on singles by Tom Wilson and Klingler. Klingler and Lance Loughlin drove in seventh-inning runs with singles.

Redwood's 400 free relay (3:29.2).

Keith Strange lopped five seconds off his 200 individual medley time to win that event in 2:10.9. Besides DeMont's pair of wins, it was the only individual swimming first Terra Linda was to take on a day where depth proved overpowering.

Other first places were taken by Aaron Grossman in the diving for Terra Linda, and John Goepp of Redwood in the 100 backstroke.

In the Class B meet yesterday, Terra Linda moved to an unblemished 10-0, while winning the league title for the fifth straight time, according to Pollitt, with a 73-22 rout of the Giants.

Dick Attwood raced to a MCAL best of 1:00.3 in the 100 back for Tamalpais, but the Indians yielded to San Rafael, behind double winner Mike Kamler.

Drake Thumps Novato

The Drake High Pirates pounded Mike Lamb for eight runs and eight hits in five innings yesterday, taking an 8-2 Marin County Athletic League baseball decision from the Novato High Hornets on the loser's diamond.

Drake's triumph moved the Pirates into a three-way tie for second in the MCAL logjam, three games behind undefeated Redwood.

John Billings had a home run and a single for Drake, while Ken Zepponi chipped in two doubles and three runs-batted-in to support George Shawver, who went all the way.

Doug Harnsberger played a key role in Drake's second-inning rally with a bases-loaded, two-RBI single.

Redwood Nine Stretches Lead

Redwood High School pitcher Mark Ruggles continues to play the role of The Untouchable.

The left-handed curveball pitcher extended his current streak to 22 consecutive innings without allowing an earned run yesterday as he pitched his team to a 6-1 victory over Terra Linda in a Marin County Athletic League baseball game at Albert Park in San Rafael.

Rampaging Redwood (7-0) now has opened up a three-game lead over pursuers San Marin and Novato, each of whom lost yesterday.

Ruggles, the MCAL's winningest pitcher at 4-0, got all the runs he needed when Redwood tallied twice in the first inning on an error and Mike Connor's triple.

The Giants got three more in the third on a run-scoring triple by Bob Brown, an error, and an RBI-double by Doug Hartman. Phil Bacigalupi's pinch single in the sixth scored the final run.

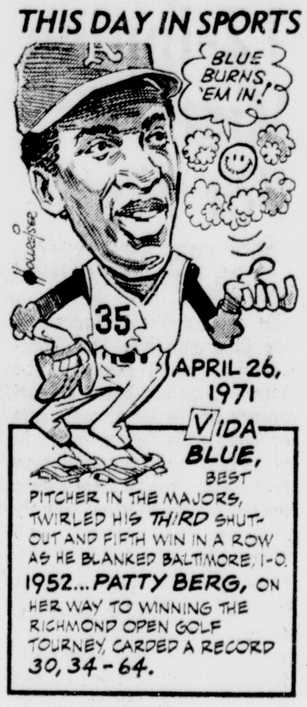
Bacon With Band, Not On Expedition

Tennis player Dave Bacon of San Rafael High School did not miss his team's match with Drake April 13 to attend an archaeological expedition to the San Joaquin Valley, as reported yesterday, but instead was given permission to accompany the school's band on a school-sanctioned tour of Oregon.

The archaeological expedition occured during Easter vacation. "I am not so permissive as to allow him to take time off from tennis just to go on an expedition of that sort," said coach Milt Hain.



Marin Tars Lose, 3-2

A two-run single in the fifth inning by visiting De Anza College of Cupertino spelled doom yesterday as the College of Marin Tars baseball team lost a 3-2 Camino Norte Conference decision.

Tom Olson doubled and tripled for the Tars, driving in a run with the triple in the second inning and scoring subsequently on a wild pitch. The Tars will play at Solano College in Suisun tomorrow.

Dolphins Pick Up Morrall From Colts

MIAMI (UPI)—On a Miami Dolphins team where nobody is even hinting that premier quarterback Bob Griese may not be next season's starter, seasoned veteran Earl Morrall finds himself in a battle for who can try harder to be No. 2.

Tuesday the Dolphins announced they had acquired the 37-year-old Morrall from the Baltimore Colts on waivers and would give him a shot as a backup quarterback.

Morrall immediately finds himself in competition with another NFL veteran and local favorite, George Mira, and also Jim Del Gaizo and rookie Craig Curry.

But Morrall, who says he still wants to play a few more years, has the proven record to show that if Griese should be injured or out of form, he could move into a starting position.

In the NFL championship game in 1968 he was the Colts' sparkplug and went on to be named the Most Valuable Player that season.

In the 1971 Super Bowl, Morrall came off the bench to relieve Johnny Unitas and hit 7 of 15 for 147 yards in a Colts' victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

He is one of the game's besttested quarterbacks, rising to prominence when he was drafted after his graduation from Michigan State University in 1956 as the top draft choice of the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Morrall has played and saved many a game for the Pittsburgh Steelers, Detroit Lions, and New York Giants, and was traded to the Colts in 1968 when Unitas was sidelined because of injuries for most of the season.

Controversy, But Astros Win

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

When things go right, they go very right and when they go wrong, they go very wrong. Just ask the Houston Astros and the Chicago Cubs.

The Astros gained their eighth straight victory and sent Chicago to its seventh consecutive loss Tuesday night with the help of a controversial call at home plate that proved to be the winning run in the 5-4 triumph.

Lee May hit his third home run in three days in the fourth inning to tie the game at 3-3 and Johnny Edwards' run producing single in the inning gave the Astros a 4-3 lead.

The controversy erupted in the seventh inning when Edwards and pitcher Jerry Reuss singled. Edwards was erased on a fielder's choice and Norm Miller singled Reuss to third. Reuss then attempted to score on Jimmy Wynn's sacrifice fly and apparently missed home plate. The Houston pitcher jumped up and ran back toward the plate but Cubs' catcher Randy Hundley tagged him.

Frank Pulli, a rookie umpire, then ruled that Reuss had touched the plate with his hand and permitted the run to score.

"Reuss tagged the plate with his left hand after he crossed it," said Pulli but interim manager Pete Reiser, subbing for the ailing Leo Durocher, said he got a different version.

"Pulli told me Hundley missed the tag and Reuss missed the plate but Reuss got back and touched the plate before Hundley tagged him," Resier explained. "He better not look at the instant replay."

Hundley said he could see no way in which Reuss possibly could have touched the plate.

"He couldn't have tagged the plate with anything," said the Chicago catcher. "I'm on the plate and he slid away from me. There's no way that he could have touched it with his hand because it was a fallaway slide."

To add to the confusion, Reuss came up with an even different story, claiming he touched home plate with his left foot during the slide and that he wasn't really going back to the plate.

The Cubs added a run in the eighth to cut the margin to 5-4.

Reuss gained credit for the victory, his second without a loss, while Cub rookie Burt Hooton suffered his second straight loss since his no-hitter.

In other National League action Tuesday night, Philadelphia shut out San Francisco 3-0, Atlanta ripped St. Louis 9-3, Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 52 in 13 innings, Los Angeles defeated Montreal 6-1 and New York edged San Diego 2-1.

The Reshuffling Of S.F. Lineup

Loss of Willie McCovey's big bat created a chain reaction in the Giant lineup. Everybody was affected in the revised lineup, with one exception. Tito Fuentes remained in the No. 2 slot. Everyone else was shifted up or down in the lineup.

When McCovley's right arm was broken in a violent first base collision with John Jeter in San Diego April 18, Charlie Fox initially met the emergency with a minimum of lineup changes. The manager of the Giants moved Bobby Bonds from No. 5 to McCovey's No. 4 cleanup spot, Dave Kingman from No. 6 into Bonds' position and Alan Gallagher off the bench into the No. 6 spot.

BY THE TIME the Giants completed their first road trip of the naw baseball season, Fox knew he would have to juggle the entire lineup to get punch where it was needed. For the season opener in Candlestick last Friday night, he reluctantly junked the last of the his spring training strategy which had Willie Mays batting No. 1.

Mays was moved out of the leadoff spot back to his old No. 3 batting position. Ken Henderson was dropped from No. 3 to No. 6. Gallagher was dropped to No. 8 and Chris Speier was moved from No. 8 to No. 1.

NOW, SOME BALL players will say they don't care where they hit just as long as they are in the lineup. But, when pressed, they will admit there is considerable difference batting in the power positions of No. 3, 4 and 5, or as Mays calls them the "pressure points."

And there is a vast difference in the kind of pitches a No. 8 and No. 1 batter will get. A No. 8 batter isn't protected by a big bat behind him. The No. 9 bat in virtually all lineups, except those with a good hitting pitcher, is the weakest.

Thus, while it was alarming it wasn't a complete surprise that the chain reaction affected all Giant bats during the three-game opening Candlestick series with the Astros. By the third game of that series, the bats were getting accustomed to their new slots.

FUENTES, UNAFFECTED in the juggled lineup, continued to hit and extended his streak to nine games with a couple of doubles. Speier, getting better pitches than he saw when he was batting No. 8, singled, doubled and homered in the leadoff role. Kingman belted a three-run homer that wasn't enough in the third game to prevent a series sweep by the Astros who clobbered the Giant bullpen for 10 runs in the ninth inning of the finale.

The momentary breakdown of the bullpen now has Fox much more concerned than he was about the understandable batting letdown following McCovey's loss.

JUST AS THE Giants were emerging from their batting miseries, the worrisome troubles popped up in the relief department. The best of bullpen pitchers get whacked from time to time. It would be ridiculous to jump to any general conclusion about Jerry Johnson on one bad relief performance, such as his ineffective work against the Astros.

Similarly, it would be foolish to think that Don McMahon can't pitch better than he did against the Astros in Candlestick. In fact, he did in the Astrodome when he needed only 31 pitches for 10 outs over 3⅓ innings in saving Game No. 2 for Sam McDowell.

Wilber Thrives On Work

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilbur Wood somehow seems out of place in 1972.

He belongs to a different era. The Chicago White Sox' knuckleballer would seem to be more at home back a half century ago when pitchers had nicknames like "Iron Man." In this age when most pitchers treat their arms as if they were Hope Diamonds, Wood simply goes out and pitches and pitches and pitches.

The baseball season is 11 days old and Wood already has started four games and he's pitched nine innings each time. He has allowed just one earned run in those 36 innings for an ERA of 0.25. Any day now, Marvin Miller may file a grievance claiming that Wood is overworked. But Wood, who tossed his third straight shutout in eight days Tuesday night to beat the Cleveland Indians 6-0, is thriving on all the work.

A firm believer in the ways of unorthodox pitching Coach Johnny Sain, Wood now has started twice with just two days rest. He didn't get the victory on opening day because he left after nine innings with the score tied 1-1 but he is now 3-0.

Chomping on a cigar given him by White Sox President John Allyn, Wood beamed Tuesday night, "I know the temperature was only 35 degrees outside but it didn't bother me a bit. As far as the weather is concerned, it's the same for everyone. When it's cold and dry, it helps because there's no moisture on my fingers. Since I depend on my knuckleball 75 per cent of the time, it's important that my fingertips remain in good condition.

"I couldn't care less about pitching with two days rest. I've got my rhythm and since I'm winnning, nothing seems to bother me. I'm still in a four-day rotation but it's just worked out that I've pitched four times in 11 days."

In the other games, Kansas City blanked Baltimore 3-0, Detroit beat Texas 4-1, Minnesota routed Boston 12-0, Oakland edged New York 4-3 in 12 innings and California stopped Milwaukee 4-1.

'Great Feeling,' Says New Lightweight Champ

HONOLULU (UPI) — World lightweight champion Ben Villaflor said Tuesday night "it's a good feeling" being champion.

The exuberant 19-year-old fighter from the Philippines said he knew he had won the title by the 13th round of the scheduled 15-round bout.

Villaflor said "I tried to knock him out but he's smart."

"It was my hardest fight," Villafor said after the battle at the Honolulu International Center. "I knew I'd end up winning. It's a good feeling."

Honolulu promoter Sam Ichinose of Boxing Enterprises said Villaflor would defend his title within 90 days "probably in Honolulu."

A dejected former champion Alfredo Marcano of Venezuela said through a trainer that his strategy was to counterattack Villaflor's sharp and powerful left thrusts.

He said the problem he had with Villaflor was that he was so fast with his left hand that consistently jabbed away at him.

Marcano's trainer, Willie Ketchum, said he thought Marcano would come back in the last few rounds to win the fight.

He said that Villaflor is "no boxer, he's just a good, tough young guy."

Ketchum said that Marcano's biggest problem was that he hadn't engaged in a fight for five months. In the future, Ketchum said, he'd like to have Marcano fight every two months. Ketchum said that Villaflor would definitely not give Marcano a return match.

Ketchum's main gripe, however, was referee James Scaramozi of San Antonio, Tex., one of two neutral officials requested by the Marcano camp. Ketchum strongly objected to the 74-64 score.

Ketchum's final statement concerned Villaflor. "It's hard to say if he'll last, Ketchum said, "but he's tough and he may go a long way."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Here's Some Advice For Fishing Boats

It really doesn't matter what sort of boat you use for fishing — almost anything that floats will do in a pinch. But fishing is a lot more fun if your boat is fitted out with the needs of the sport in mind.

A fishing boat functions better if one follows an old adage: have a place for everything and have everything in its place. If you don't, you'll be unhappily surprised at the number of odd, loose items that you'll soon be kicking around underfoot in the bottom of the boat.

There are a number of good ideas and gadgets that will eliminate a lot of the clutter, and at the same time, make a lengthy stay in the boat more comfortable, less cramped and a lot safer.

The handiest of all things is a handle-bar carrier, either plastic or wire, designed for bicycles. When the carrier is hung on the gunwale so that it dangles inside the boat, it becomes a real filing cabinet for such items as sunglasses, spare hat, a lunch, first aid kit, transistor radio, sun-tan lotion and a dozen other things that you are sure to take along. They can add enormously to the clutter if not filed carefully.

The carrier is also good for hanging lures, plugs, flies or leaders without tangling.

Another good idea for lures is to fasten a half dozen small screw-eyes under the seat or thwart of the boat. Anytime you take a plug off the line and may want to use it again store it temporarily hooked through one of the screw-eyes rather than putting it back in the tackle box. It's much better than sticking one of the hooks of the lure into the gunwale. Teak, oak or mahogany gunwales will blunt hooks.

Some older aluminum boats are so slick and slippery on the decks or insides that they invite disaster if one of the occupants should stand up. Modern aluminum boats have a coat of abrasive or non-skid paint on the inside.

This non-skid paint can be bought; if your boat needs it, get some and give it greater safety. Another good thing is a rubber car mat. This will also make the inside of a boat non-skid, and at the same time protect the inside finish from ice buckets, bait cans, tackle boxes and gasoline containers.

The rubber mat is also a good fish cleaning board. And if you want to land on a pebbly shore just toss the rubber on the beach first and run the boat up on it. It will protect the outside paint.

There's a lot to fitting-out a fishing boat as the questions we get show:

Q. What do I do with 170 feet of anchor rope? I need that much to anchor in deep water off a big reef. We cast towards it.

A. I think I'd give the "rope" away and get some fine nylon or poly (polyethylene or polypropylene) line. Carry a plastic dishpan or pail in the bow and when you haul in the anchor, coil the line in the pan. You'll find it won't snarl this way. Put the anchor on top.

Q. I carry a pair of oars and two more awkward things in a fishing boat you couldn't devise. Any suggestions?

A. Convert the "pair" into a single item by slipping a rubber band cut from an old inner tube over each end of the oars. Then it's not too difficult to devise a couple of holding hooks just under the gunwale to which the bundled oars can be fastened by the rubber bands.

Q. My wife says she'll go fishing with me if I buy a safer boat . . . I think the one I've got is as safe as they come . . . any advice?

A. Take her out in a boat that's very stable, not tippy — even if you have to rent or borrow one. The one thing that makes a boat stable is beam . . . width. Try her a couple of times in a good, wide, stable boat; build up her confidence.

Softballers To Launch '72 Season

Sohner Tree Service of San Anselmo will launch its 14th softball season tomorrow with a practice doubleheader in Alameda against Alburt's Clothing.

The Treemen, who have dominated Marin county softball for the past decade, will be playing on a somewhat reduced scale this season.

Sohner will play in the tough Santa Rosa AAA League and compete in five or six tournaments in Northern California.

This is a drastic change from Sohner's usual 70 to 80-game schedule.

"We may not be quite as tough as we have been, but we'll beat a lot of good teams," promised team captain Art Donati. "We're still looking for another good infielder or outfielder and one more pitcher."

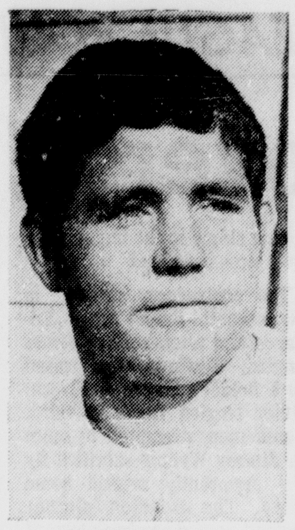
Veteran hurlers Chuck Tyson and Herb Dower will pitch Thursday's opening twin-bill. John Brookman will do the catching.

The infield will be comprised of Dick Spackman (lb), Dick Schultze (2b), Milt Hain (3b) and Ron Blum or Dick Cunningham (ss).

Donati, Keith Fraser and Bill Nichol are the starting outfielders.

Spackman, Schultze, Cunningham and Nichol are all newcomers to the Sohner lineup.

Blum, the teams all-league shortstop, moved to Napa during the winter and will therefore be ineligible to play for Sohner in the big tournaments later in the season.



ROCKY SHONE
To Europe

Shone To Play In Italy

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — University of California baseball coach George Wolfman has always said that Rocky Shone has a great mind for baseball — whether it be on the field or in the coaching box.

After one season as Cal's assistant varsity coach, the 24-year-old Cal graduate is returning to the field this summer, having signed a player's contract with Bologna of the Italian Baseball League.

He will leave the Bay Area May 8 and is scheduled to play May 13.

"I've been keeping in good shape, and I am anxious to play," Shone said. "They have told me that I am their catcher, and I want to help."

The Italians first saw Shone when he was with the Cal baseball team that conducted clinics and toured Italy this past summer. Although no statistics were kept, he batted well as the Bears won 18 and lost three against various Italian all-star teams.

"Rocky is an inspirational team leader and a superb handler of pitchers," Wolfman said. "Injuries hampered his collegiate career, but he was always one of our most valuable players. His fielding is just outstanding, and he carries a pretty solid bat."

Shone was actually the team's number two hitter as a senior, but he broke his index finger at midseason and had to settle for a .338 average in 71 times to bat. Having been elected team captain, he stayed on through the end of the season and helped with the coaching.

Wolfman secured his coaching help this spring, and the Cal coach said Rocky has been a very able assistant.

Petaluma Swimmers Tie Sonoma

Sonoma High School took the last event yesterday to force a 47-47 tie with host Petaluma in the final North Bay-Sonoma County League dual swimming meet this year for both schools.

In other Southern Sonoma County League swimming, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park was soaked, 62-32, by Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

Rancho Triumphs

Dave Christensen pitched a four-hit shutout yesterday to lead Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park to a 7-0 victory over El Molino in Forestville for the Cougars' fifth straight Sonoma County League baseball victory.

In other Southern Sonoma County baseball action, St. Vincent battered host Upper Lake, 7-1, in a North Central League II clash, and Tomales was belted, 7-2, by visiting NCL II foe Point Arena.

Christensen, who came into the game sporting a microscopic 1.12 earned run average, allowed only four El Molino singles while striking out eight and walking two. He picked up his third league victory against no losses.

The Cougars did their biggest damage in the third inning, picking up four runs on a double by Bob Murray, a misplayed fielder's choice, singles by Lou Goring and Wayne Hill and an error. Hill went two for four to lead Rancho Cotate.

St. Vincent hurlers Herm Benedetti and Jim McCaffrey combined to throw a three-hitter at the Upper Lake, which had handed the Mustangs an early league loss. Mike Graber and Pete Leoni led the batting attack, with Graber collecting a double and a single in four attempts and Leoni belting a triple to drive in Graber in the three-run seventh.

Tomales continued to have defensive lapses and they proved the Braves' undoing against the Pirates. Tomales committed three errors in Point Arena's fifth-inning four-run binge, three of which were unearned off starter and losr Jim Joyce. Joyce, the Tomales mound workhorse, suffered his third league loss against three wins.

Commodity Market Is 'Wild' One

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have done well in the stock market and can now afford to speculate. The possibilities of the commodity market interest me. What would you say to this type of speculation?—G.M.

A. A word of caution: Ability in the stock market in no way assures similar success in commodities. However, a secure financial position, with a good supply of venture capital, helps. Steady nerves and the ability to be wholly objective are also prime requisites for trading in this "wild and woolly" market.

Before you make the plunge you should do some studying to familiarize yourself with the modus operandi of commodity trading. Then narrow your study to a few specific commodities, getting information on supply/demand, inventories, export/import situation and anticipated consumption. Depending on which commodities you have selected, factors such as government subsidies, Dept. of Agriculture crop reports and international monetary exchange rates are important. Markets are also affected by conditions in competitive or contingent commodities. So, if these exist, you should familiarize yourself with them. For instance, a shortage of copper would affect aluminum futures, or soybean scarcity would help sorghum. Information is available from commodity market letters, brokerage houses which deal in this market and from the news media. In addition to fundamental factors, there is the technical side of the market requiring an understanding of open interest, volume and price chart patterns.

Margin requirements, which vary from one commodity to another, are significantly lower than on securities. Typically, contracts are purchased for 5 per cent to 10 per cent down. Since the transaction involves contracts not products there is no debit balance, therefore, no interest charge. Commission costs run $30 to $45 — on average — for the contract which includes both purchase and sale. From a tax standpoint there is greater flexibility particularly as to holding periods. Prior to investing decide how much you are able to invest in commodities and then observe your limit. Spread your funds over several markets, place stop limits to cut losses.

PG&E Common Stock Earnings Take Good Jump

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. earnings per share of common stock jumped 8 cents the first three months of the year up to 87 cents per share.

PG&E president Shermer told stockholders Tuesday that primarily because of higher electric rates the 12 months which ended March 31 produced earnings per common share of $2.83, compared with $2.57 for the preceding 12 months.

"The first quarter's growth in earnings resulted primarily from higher electric rates which went into effect late in the first quarter of 1971," Sibley said.

Vogue Cleaners To Open New Shop In San Anselmo Center

Jackson Keller

Vogue Cleaners will open a new shop at Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo this summer.

Lease arrangements were just completed by Chris Beck of Grubb & Ellis Co.

Frank J. Levey of Tiburon, who owns Vogue Cleaners, plans to install a modern plant with the latest equipment including a special new process to clean double knits. He will take over space formerly occupied by Orchid Cleaners, at 894 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

This will be Vogue Cleaners' fourth shop in Marin. Others are in Belvedere, Strawberry Shopping Center, and on Miller Avenue in Mill Valley.

REDWOOD OIL CO., a new, independent company that offers gasoline at low prices, has taken over the former Mobil station in Fairfax at 1789 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Owner is Peter C. Van Alyea, who was merchandise manager for Standard Oil in Chicago for the past six and one-half years. He and his wife, Peggy, live on Skylark Drive in Larkspur. Mrs. Van Alyea was a high school teacher in Winnetka, Ill., before they moved to Marin.

The Van Alyeas bought the station from former owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shermer, who moved to Fresno.

"We'll concentrate on low prices —29.9 and 32.9 — and presenting a quality image," said Van Alyea. The station will not provide backroom work such as lubrication and repairs.

Van Alyea said this is the first of several stations he plans to establish in the Redwood Empire, from Marin northward into Oregon. His station is open seven days a week and holidays. Hours are 6:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays and 6:30 a.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday.

MOTHER'S, a new store featuring casual western wear and custom leather goods, will open next month at 1560 Fourth Street, San Rafael, next to Oriental Rug Co.

Partners in the new store are Joseph Winters of Sausalito and Stephen Fromkes of San Anselmo. Both men formerly worked about a year at Changing Faces clothing store in Sausalito.

Why did they choose the name Mother's? "Oh, because it was sort of catchy," said Winters. "We're going to open in mid-May, just after Mother's Day."

The store will carry mostly men's clothing but will have some casual wear for women.

STANLEY JACKSON of Corte Madera has been appointed vice president and savings administrator of Golden West Savings and Loan Association, Oakland.

He was manager of systems and procedures for Golden West. In his new post, Jackson will be responsible for activities relating to savings for Golden West's 21 branches in central and northern California. The savings and loan institution plans to open new offices in San Jose, Salinas, Stockton and Daly City.

JOSEPH L. KELLER of Tiburon has been appointed district manager based in the San Francisco Bay Area for "Control Engineering," a magazine published by Dun-Donnelley Publishing Corp.

AN UNUSUAL home in Mill Valley, which was featured in the April 21 issue of Life magazine, has been sold to new owners by San Rafael realtor Donald L. Suhr Jr.

The John Holmes' house at 265 Cascade Drive was built from 200 old windows, joists and ceiling boards from an old barn, hardwood scraps, and fixtures obtained from junkyards. The Holmes then put the home up for sale and took off for Europe.

Suhr sold the home to John T. Badham, formerly of San Francisco. The house will get more publicity, this time in "Domus," an architectural magazine published in Milano, Italy.

Market Is Mixed In Early Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) —Down sharply at the outset, stock prices turned mixed during the first two hours today in fairly active trading. Analysts said investors appeared to be anticipating a favorable speech from President Nixon on the Vietnam war.

Some analysts attributed the turnaround to the belief investors would find encouragement in Nixon's speech on the Vietnam situation. There was little else in the news background to move the market higher.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange also were mixed in fairly active trading. Syntex was the most active issue, up 1 3-4 at 94 3-8 on 61,600 shares.

Steels, Motors, Chemicals and Oils were mixed. Natomas rose 1 3-8; but Superior Oil slipped 1 1-2.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

42 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, 1972 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Last Dec. 17, Dr. John S. Guerrant submitted his resignation as director of Marin's Community Mental Health Center.

Nearly four months later, County Supervisor Louis H. Baar raised a question as to what was causing the delay in finding a successor for this important position.

Two days after that, the board of supervisors got a report from Maren Rinne, county personnel director.

IT SAID THAT recruiting started on March 6 (nearly three months after Dr. Guerrant's resignation) with distribution of a brochure to "California Community Mental Health Agencies, other related agencies and standard recruitment and mailing lists."

On April 1 and 2, reported Miss Rinne, newspaper advertisements were placed in the Independent Journal and the San Francisco Chronicle. On April 5, an advertisement appeared in Psychiatric News.

"The late advertising dates were made necessary by the 30-day advance deadline requirement of Psychiatric News, the most appropriate trade journal for this position," reported Miss Rinne.

Deadline for applications was last Friday. The applications are being screened this week. The personnel office, according to Miss Rinne's report, hopes to interview candidates May 10.

IF THE BOARD of supervisors then acts promptly, this could mean that the vacant job of Community Mental Health Center director could be filled May 16 — five months, lacking one day, since Dr. Guerrant submitted his resignation. There would, presumably, be additional delay of up to a month since the person selected would have to give notice to his present employer.

In the meantime, the job is "filled" as another duty added to the multiple responsibilities of Dr. Donovan O. Cooke — who, not incidentally, was elected county coroner after campaigning that he would be "full-time coroner."

WHY IT WAS necessary to prepare a brochure to recruit a new mental health center director escapes us. Certainly anyone competent to fill a job paying $31,500 per year — and wanting that job — would investigate what it entailed, including visiting Marin County to find out on the scene. A mimeographed job description would be adequate.

Since Dr. Guerrant resigned in mid-December, it would appear that the 30-day advance deadline for advertising in the Psychiatric News (assuming that was necessary) would have allowed the advertisement to appear in its February issue, instead of April.

Dr. Guerrant gave the county adequate notice. He did not leave until the end of February. If the county personnel director, county administrator and board of supervisors had acted expeditiously, Dr. Guerrant's successor could have been on hand when he departed.

The county administrator is paid $27,500 per year. The personnel director is paid $18,240 per year. It would seem that for those salaries, more efficiency could be expected than is indicated by a five-month delay in finding someone to recommend for such an important position as director of the Community Mental Health Center.

Toting Up The Tax Takes: 44 Per Cent Of Incomes

By RUS WALTON

The California Taxpayers' Association has just published its tote card on taxes for 1971-72. And all those mean things you have been saying about taxes are true.

California taxpayers will shell out $42.6 billion for this fiscal year ending June 30. That's for all taxes — federal, state and local. A tax is a tax is a tax.

The Governor's Economic Report says the total personal income for the state for the same period should be about $96 billion. It was $93 billion for 1971 and is estimated at $100 billion for 1972.

I'M NO WHIZ at math but the way I figure it, if the personal income total is $96 billion and the tax total is $42.6 billion, taxes are running about 44 per cent of total personal incomes.

Right about here is where some student of Economics I-A is supposed to stand up and say something smart about the taxes paid by business and industry, banks and corporations.

Well, fella, you don't have to have a sheepskin to know that corporations don't pay taxes. They just collect them. People pay taxes. One way or another, people end up paying all the taxes.

And here is where the taxes go this year:

To the state — $6.5 billion.

To local governments (city, county, school and special district) — $7.1 billion; $6.4 billion of that from property taxes.

And finally, or first, to Uncle Gimmie — $28.1 billion, including $3.3 billion in gasoline and social security taxes.

IN 1967-68, Californians paid a tax total of $26.6 billion. Since then we have been fed by sweet nothings about federal tax reductions and property tax relief. And it has been just about that — sweet nothings; because in four years the tax take has increased by $16 billion a year — a spurt of 60 per cent.

The per capita income for Californians for 1971, was $4,610. The per capita tax will come to about $2,130. But that doesn't really tell the tax tale. Some folks pay less, some pay more, and some pay nothing. And when you get right down to reality, it's the middle income family that proportionately pays the most.

There are 2.3 million taxpayers in the state in the $10-25,000 income groups. They pay a total of $575 million in state income taxes, which is about half of the total take. Their share of sales and excise and property taxes is even greater.

Add to those ranks the folks who once earned in that income bracket but who are now retired — retired and watching their incomes washed away by rising taxes and racing inflation.

Underneath them are the welfare programs and the low-low tax rates. Above them are the very wealthy and the tax loopholes and dodges. Last year, in this land, there were 18,600 families with incomes of $100,000 or more who paid taxes at the rate of 7 per cent.

The way things are, we're socializing the bottom and the top and forcing the family in the middle to pay for it through free enterprise.

Nice Part-Time Work If You Can Keep It

In her letter to your paper, Mrs. Marty Kent Jones, Peter Arrigoni's campaigner, derides candidate Barbara Boxer's offer to replace the second district's friendly, pleasant and very part-time supervisor Arrigoni with a hearty, vigorous full-time devotion to the job.

Our part-time supervisor, Mr. Arrigoni, is drawing more than the average Marinite earns in a full-time job (over $14,000 yearly) and Mrs. Jones suggests that whether or not we have a full-time supervisor should be voted on as a separate issue. Perhaps so. Especially in view of the fact that the salaries for supervisor are not voted upon by the public.

For example, Mr. Arrigoni recently voted himself a $100 per month raise.

Surely Mrs. Jones and Mr. Arrigoni would agree that this is nice part-time work if you can keep it.

Pollution Begins With Family 'Taxi'

The average person thinks "big industries" are responsible for our polluted environment. The millions of automobile commuters are also blamed for the same reason. I am not going to defend big business or the commuters, but tell you where our big problem is.

I was recently feeling physically unfit, so have taken up bicycle riding for 1/2 hour in the mornings. The exercise is great for this middle-aged body. I would say that exercise is good for anybody. There are several schools in Terra Linda. I wish you could see the cars with mothers and children by the hundreds, every day, rain or shine. A mother's responsibility is to feed her children nourishing food to build up their bodies. Don't you think it makes sense for the same child to walk to school, for exercise? Now, I know there are extenuating circumstances, where a child lives too far from school or lives in a remote section where it might be dangerous to walk. In my three-mile travels, every day I see cars filled with children, that do not have to be chauffeured. I have mentioned this matter to European friends, who walked to school every day. It's unheard of to drive a child to school, there. Why don't we learn from a continent that has survived for so many hundreds of years?

I think there are far too many unnecessary second and third car families, in our country. It helps Detroit and the oil companies. Let's save our environment and our lives. I've never heard of anyone dying of walking.

Arrigoni Refuses To Join In Debate

Since debates bring out the issues more clearly, and since I would like to become an informed voter, I have been trying for weeks now to arrange a debate among the three candidates running for supervisor in the Second District. To date two candidates, Dr. William Filante and Mrs. Stewart Boxer, agreed to debate but the incumbent, Mr. Peter Arrigoni, refuses to participate. Could it be that he is running away from his record instead of standing on it?

Cites Taxes Paid On Mobile Home Park

An article in your paper April 18 by Earl G. Waters, entitled, "No effort made to correct mobile home tax inequities," is not entirely correct in its reasoning. A short time ago I had occasion to investigate a mobile park since the owners had increased the rent based on a tax boost. The facts of that investigation are as follows:

At the time land was purchased for the park in 1967-1968 the tax was $1144.56. The area was zoned light industrial and was used for grazing land. According to a survey made by a reputable company hired by the city for an overall evaluation of the city, this piece of property was not suitable for anything except grazing land . . . However the mobile home park was built on the property with a swimming pool and recreation hall. The entire lot was fenced to provide privacy. The park consists of 134 spaces with water, gas, electricity, telephone, and TV at each space. The roads, lighting, sewers, and plantings are owned and maintained by the park and require no services from the city. The police and fire department are required but rarely. There are 34 children in the park, 15 of which do go to school. With the improvements on the land the taxes in 1971-1972 are $18,104.56 which is a difference in taxes from 1968 is then $16,959.66 which in turn is $126.12 per space, which indirectly is paid by the space rentor. The value of the mobile homes in this park would average $11,000 since it is a relatively new park. In fact then each tenant in the park is paying $140.00 in lieu tax plus $126.12 land tax for a total of $266.12. Considering that each space is approximately one half the size of a conventional building lot it would seem that the return to the tax collectors for this piece of grazing land does not seem to be quite as inequitable as it would first appear, if all the facts are taken into consideration . . .

Hanoi Clarifies The Issues And Dispels Some Old Myths

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's refusal to allow the United States to be driven out of Vietnam by Hanoi's massed invasion is getting new and unexpected support.

It would be a reasonable assumption that opinion is by now so firm and the lines of political campaigning so fixed that no development in Vietnam could alter it.

Not so. Change is significantly visible on Capitol Hill and the sign of that change is that two of the Senate's most influential and respected doves — Senators George D. Aiken, R-Vt., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. — are endorsing the action the President has taken in response to Hanoi's massive attacks.

A few days ago I had occasion to ask Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., why he thought such earnest and honest critics of the administration's paced withdrawal from Vietnam had come to approve the decision to bomb the north. Senator Cranston was the leader of the anti-administration side in the Vietnam debate last week. His reply was:

"I just don't understand it."

IT DOESN'T SEEM hard to understand.

What has happened is that Hanoi has provided the full and final evidence that it is engaged in a calculated, all-out armed aggression to conquer South Vietnam by force.

It has torn away its pretense that it has been giving just a bit of help and leadership to a strong and popular indigenous revolution of South Vietnamese, the Viet Cong.

If this were true, would Hanoi have to send nearly its entire army —12 of its 13 divisions — across the frontier to fight the VC's "revolution?"

In the "understanding" reached between President Johnson and Hanoi as a condition to begin the Paris negotiations, North Vietnam gave its assurance there would be no further attack on major South Vietnamese cities and that the DMZ would remain inviolate.

Both of these undertakings have been brazenly violated.

Hanoi has been pouring division after division across the DMZ.

Hanoi's armies have been attacking cities with heavy arms.

In the face of such open and bald aggression, it does not seem difficult to understand why Senators Aiken and Cooper, who in the past have been on the side of the McGoverns and the Fulbrights, should change their stance.

Aiken and Cooper, too, are men of peace, but it is evident that they do not think that condoning aggression is the way to peace.

HANOI HAS ALSO wiped from the slate and removed from the realm of rationality the myth that it is the United States which is escalating the fighting. Two facts destroy this fiction and fiction doesn't become true by repeating it.

There was no renewed bombing of the North until Hanoi launched its all-out invasion.

Hanoi has slyly suggested that it would resume the Paris talks if we would cease the air strikes.

In other words, Hanoi wants to negotiate while fighting if the United States will negotiate without fighting.

That is adequate evidence as to who started the escalating.

Conceivably, the resistance which the U.S. air and naval strikes are helping Saigon to mount will persuade Hanoi it is not going to wipe out the South Vietnamese forces. Then, serious negotiations will be possible.

THOSE WHO WOULD end the war under any condition would readily give South Vietnam to the invaders as the price.

Those who think that rewarding aggression means planting the seeds of future war —as at Munich —will want to see two crucial ingredients in any negotiated settlement.

1—A standstill cease-fire under international supervision.

2—The right of self-determination for the people of South Vietnam —this, too, under international guarantees.

Hanoi's expanding aggression has been a great clarifier.

Minority Hiring Problems Plague Assembled Editors

WASHINGTON — As a long, long-time observer of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Jaycees, Communists, Democrats, Republicans and other types of humanity gathered together into conventions, I must say the newspaper editors meeting last week in Washington showed more professional concern for what ails them than any specialized group I can remember.

On some of the issues they discussed, like government secrecy, the answer was easy: Carry on as we always have, with aggressiveness and responsibility. On others, there was a clear consensus about what needs to be done, but nearly unanimous frustration about doing it. The most frustrating of these is the hiring and full use of black, Chicano and other minority group newspapermen.

It was a rare old bird in the group who failed to acknowledge that the minorities are under-represented on the news staffs of American papers, and that the time to hire and train more such newsmen is yesterday and today. But, to deal with the largest minority, there simply are not enough qualified blacks to fill the slots available to them. Even if you skip qualifications and make allowances for educational background in order to hire more blacks, you cannot find them. There are increasing and legitimate demands for the hiring of blacks, especially by papers in cities with heavy black populations. Yet barely .75 of one per cent of the country's newspaper professionals are from the standard minority groups.

THERE ARE THREE overlapping reasons:

1—Most minority families are undereducated and have no tradition of reading—books, papers or anything else. Ghetto dwellers spend more time watching television than any other group. Newspapers, specifically, have little appeal because they offer very inadequate coverage of the black community.

2—Among those young blacks who do turn toward a media career, a high proportion looks first at the fast-buck fields of television and advertising. The newspaper business, despite great advances in recent years, remains a competitive field that demands high competence but returns relatively low pay.

3—Therefore, even when a black student is enticed into reporting, editing or photography, sometimes hired ahead of a white with better strictly professional qualifications, sometimes paid a premium above that set for his experience level, his background raises the odds against his success. Then, when a given individual is successful, he is such a hot item on the market that he often is hired away by television, the government, public relations or a bigger newspaper.

It is discouraging. Not unique to the newspaper business, by any means. The demand for educated, talented blacks and Chicanos is belatedly heavy in every profession, and the supply is nowhere near catching up. But the newspaper business has a double duty to bring them in—the same obligation to open opportunity it shares with all enterprises, plus the need to improve its own coverage and understanding of those minority groups.

By 1972, nearly all papers, including those in the South, have accepted this in principle. Most are trying to put it into practice. Some of the papers that fought desegregation hardest over the last two decades are now among the leaders in hiring blacks.

WHAT HAPPENED lately at the paper with the best minority hiring record in the country —the Washington Post — has given some reluctant editors an excuse for hanging back. The liberal Post has enough black newsmen for them to form a caucus of their own within the staff and to file a formal complaint that they have not been promoted fast enough to senior positions.

Without judging that internal situation, it is simple to gauge its effect on the nationwide effort to bring minorities onto newspapers. It has hurt. Any old-fashioned publisher who has been prodded along into 1972 by a realistic editor can now point at the Post and say, "See? We don't want any of that around here."

The refreshing thing about the editors' convention was that after deploring the shortage of qualified or merely interested candidates, after shaking their heads about the unpleasantness at the Post, most of them expressed just as much determination as before to find and hire minority newsmen. As a class, these are unusually conscientious men, and they intend to do what they should despite the discouragements.

Marin's A Lovely Place —But Pay Your Dog License

Marin's a lovely place. For those of you who have lived here a long while and perhaps have lost perspective, let me assure you, Marin's a lovely place.

I'm relatively new, having lived in other parts of the Bay Area but (alas!) not having had much exposure to Marin. During casual drives and bike rides it seems the quaint little streets here are quainter and the picturesque little parks are more picturesque and the funky shops are funkier. And these things somehow seem natural to Marin.

All this lends to my proposition that Marin is different — vibrant, yet more relaxing than, say, San Francisco with its towers and plains of concrete and the East Bay with its scattered overdevelopment and contrasting expanses of browned and slowly undulating hills.

You've probably heard all this before, but I just thought I'd mention it. Must keep things in perspective, you know.

ONE POOR SAP who couldn't keep his mouth shut literally paid for it one recent afternoon. It seems the fellow parked his car downtown in Fairfax and left his unlicensed pup inside the car. His master out of sight, the pup scrambled out of the car and like all good dogs, took to sniffing about.

Someone from the Humane Society got wind of the pup running free and, when the guy returned to his car, tried to persuade him to pay the licensing fee. The dog's owner became pretty vocal, refusing loudly to pay. Local police were called in, as is generally the case in fee-collecting flaps such as this, but the man still refused to pay.

After listening to the fellow's plaint for a few minutes the police decided to run a routine check on his license plates. Within 30 seconds came the message on police radio: the car had outstanding traffic warrants in the amount of $55. That did it. The man was escorted to the poice station where he was given two choices — post the $55 bail or be booked at county jail. Grumbling, he paid the $55.

So instead of quietly paying the license fee in the first place — a matter of a couple of bucks —it cost the guy close to $60 just to get out of town.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — It was deep into the night and the agenda item before the San Rafael City Council was approval of a final map for a subdivision called El Pavo Real Estates. By the time the routine item came up, Mayor C. Paul Bettini was anxious to keep the meeting moving quickly to other items on the lengthy agenda. He inquired of the council's pleasure on the matter, hurriedly pronouncing "Pavo" with a long "a." Laughter erupted everywhere inside the chamber. "That," chortled Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, a large smile creasing his face, "has got to be the worst name for a subdivision."

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

50 Pct. School Financing By State Pushed Again

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

In each annual session of the Legislature, the California Teachers Association backs a school finance bill. In recent years, a regular feature of these bills has been a provision that the state must pay 50 per cent of the cost of public school education.

This year is no exception. CTA's finance bill in the current session is Senate Bill 90, by state Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-San Pedro. And a key section says: "The Legislature hereby declares that . . . it is in the best interest of the state to provide, from other than ad valorem property taxes, not less than 50 per cent of the cost of education in the public school system."

It then spells out how this is to be done (though not how the money is to be raised). It provides that the state superintendent of public instruction shall compute the expenditure per pupil for education in each school district, and increase that by whatever inflation percentage is shown by the January cost-of-living index of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Half of the resulting amount per pupil shall be provided by the state. If there is not enough money in the state school fund (which there won't be), the state controller must transfer from the general fund whatever is necessary to make up the difference.

This is essentially the same formula that was included in Proposition 8 two years ago, which was rejected by the voters in the June, 1970, primary.

A MAJOR FLAW in it is that, although expressing intent to equalize support "to provide adequate educational programs for all pupils regardless of where they reside," it preserves existing inequities in financial support of the schools.

If a district (such as Sausalito Elementary School District) spends more than $2,000 per pupil on its schools this year, SB 90 would assure that the state will contribute some $1,000 per pupil to that district hereafter. If other districts (such as quite a few of California's rural districts) spend only about $500 per pupil this year, they will get only about $250 per pupil (plus whatever is necessary to meet one-half of the cost-of-living inflation) from the state hereafter.

SB 90 also contains a definitely inflationary provision, calling on the controller to transfer to the state school fund an additional amount of 50 per cent of the cost of "any new educational program or expansion of any existing program (which is authorized or required by law."

A good case can be made for the state to provide half — or even all — of the cost of any new educational program it requires. Too often the Lelislature has mandated programs without providing the money for them. But many experimental and "enrichment" programs are authorized by law which are perhaps desirable but are not necessary for the schools. The high-spending districts add such programs; the low-spending districts do not. Providing that the state will pay half the cost would encourage high-spending districts to add still more — thus increasing the disparity between "rich" and "poor" districts. Also, it would tend to increase costs by giving a special-interest groups leverage to lobby for new programs "because the state will pay half" — leaving the district to dig the other half out of the property tax, often at the expense of essentials.

IT IS NOTEWORTHY that CTA, which is backing this measure, also is pushing for a permissive Education Code, which would allow school districts carte blanche in adding new programs. Coupled with this tax bill, such a code would obligate the state to pay half of undetermined and even unpredictable new programs in districts that love to experiment.

SB 90 does nothing to reform the ludicrously complicated system of state school apportionments. The complicated formulas are retained as in the present law, with only the figures changed.

College Play In Final Week

"The Andersonville Trial," a Civil War drama by Saul Levitt will have its final four performances beginning tonight.

Produced by the College of Marin Department of Theater Arts, the play is being presented in the San Francisco Theological Theater on Kensington Road in San Anselmo.

Curtain time through Saturday is 8 p.m.

Players Ready In Ross Valley

"Forty Carats," a comedy from Broadway, will be presented by the Ross Valley Players each weekend through May 27, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the Barn in the Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Adapted by Jay Allen from an original French play, "Forty Carats" deals with a 40-year-old divorcee and her 22-year-old suitor. It humorously refutes the notion that age makes a difference in romantic affairs.

Featured in the cast are Jean McKimmey, Ernest A. Widlund, Jack Powell, Dale Kleine, Barbara Morrisey, Della DeMoss, Rey Collins, Arden Sampson, Joanne Kunz, Alexander Ross and Gary Hermes.

The play is directed by William Derveniotes.

Road Cutting Brings A Fine

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday fined a development company $2,000 for illegally cutting roads in an 800-acre tract next to Samuel P. Taylor State Park.

Judge David Menary said he fined the Lone Star Lands Corp. $500 on each of four counts of violating the county's grading and excavating ordinance. "They are the real culprits apparently," he said.

On Monday, the judge fined L and M Equipment Rental Co. $1,000 for violating the ordinance.

However, charges against the partnership of Thomas E. Pierce, Tania A. Ludlam and Robet L. and Dolores J. Pinney were dismissed when they promised to repair damage to the land.

A criminal complaint was filed against the four persons and the two companies Nov. 24 after county public works employees discovered the land south of Nicasio had been extensively graded and stream beds had been filed with rocks and brush.

NOW... Here's A Special Money-Saving Offer

ADVERTISED IN LIFE

DURA-FLEX the "Climatized Coating" WILL GIVE YOUR HOME LASTING PROTECTION AND BEAUTY NEVER BEFORE OFFERED

DURA-FLEX

The "Climatized Coating"

Applied with special heavy duty equipment under 450 lbs. of pressure per square inch to a thickness approximately 20 times that of ordinary paint, that coating actually fuses itself to the wall surface and becomes a permanent part of the wall assuring longer lasting beauty, protection and insulation.

Partial Roll Call of Satisfied DURA-FLEX Users

- U.S. Customs Court House and Federal Office Building, New York City
- Dobbs Catering Kitchens throughout the U.S.A.
- Holiday Inn, Mobile, Alabama
- Bank of America Branches throughout the State of California
- Eastman Kodak Building, Atlanta, Georgia
- U.S. Air Force Bases, Far Eastern Command
- Mayport Naval Station, Mayport, Florida
- American Telephone and Telegraph Buildings, Texas and Oklahoma
- Supreme Sugar Refinery, Louisana

SAVE MONEY YEAR AFTER YEAR

One high pressure application bonds directly onto any surface without mess or odor . . . insulates, waterproofs, eliminates repainting and increases your property values.

COVER ALL SURFACES TO SEAL CRACKS, HOLES AND ALL OTHER DEFECTS.

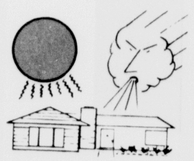
FOR – WOOD – STUCCO – CONCRETE BLOCK – ASBESTOS SIDING – ETC.

Carefully selected by leading decorators, each color is outstanding in its ability to enhance the appearance of any building, in addition to its weathering resistant qualities. The "Climatized" Coating may be applied over any existing color or finish . . . it wil not fade or discolor and is easily washed.

EASY CREDIT TERMS AVAILABLE

WATERPROOFS

Provides a "raincoat" for your building . . . stops constant absorption of moisture. The "Climatized" Coating will not oxidize; its waterproofing ability fully meets U.S. Government Specification SS-W-00110 (SA-FSS).

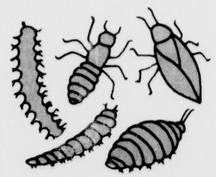


INSULATES

SAVE MONEY ON FUEL BILLS! You get better insulation than with many conventional insulating materials . . . your house will be warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

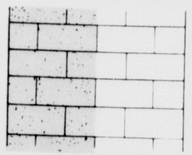
BEAUTIFIES and PROTECTS

Surface imperfections are covered by a beautiful, unblemished finish that is guaranteed to resist deterioration. Eliminate year in and year out need for costly repainting and maintenance.



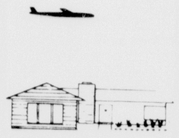
FIGHTS BUGS and FUNGUS

Formulated with TERMIKILL (an especially prepared additive), the "Climatized" Coating is designed to eliminate fungus, dry-rot, mildew, milspores, termite life and other noxious growth. Meets and exceeds U.S. Government Specification TT-P-29B.



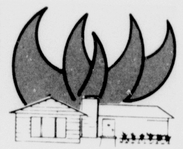
WILL NOT CHIP FLAKE or PEEL

Built-in toughness and flexibility make it possible for the "Climatized" Coating to retain its "brand-new" look for years and years . . . you'll be glad you chose this fully tested and guaranteed product!



REDUCES NOISE

Nature's most effective sound barrier is trapped, still air . . . in the "Climatized" Coating there are millions of air bubbles doing the job of absorbing sound waves from traffic, overhead aircraft, neighbors, etc.



FIRE RETARDANT

Extensive laboratory testing, plus years of experience in the field, show the "Climatized" Coating to be absolutely unable to support combustion. In many cases this ability to endure heat and flames has saved the building.

INCREASES VALUE OF PROPERTY

Protection against deterioration means your property will be worth even more as the years go by . . . you'll be relieved of worry about maintenance, paint and repair bills . . . you'll be happier with a beautiful "brand-new" appearance that is guaranteed to last.
